HOOVER HITS HARD AT "CONTEMPTIBLE" STATEMENTS ABOUT PRIVATE RECORD; NAILS COOLIE LABOR CHARGE AS LIE

LEADERS WONDER IF THE KEYSTONE WILL DROP OUT OF G. O. P. ARCH

Straw Votes Indicate Chance Raskob's Dream of 1928 May Come True and Democrats Will Carry Pennsylvania.

REPUBLICANS STILL BRAVE IN CLAIMS

Privately Not Optimistic — Much Hinges on Whether Vare, Mellon, Pinchot and Grundy Machines "Go Down the Line."

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Will John J. Raskob's fanciful dream of 1928 come true next month? Will the traditionally rock-ribbed Republican Commonwealth of Pennsylvania decide in November that its electoral votes shall be cast for the Democratic presidential candidate?

Every comprehensive poll taken in this keystone Republican State gives Roosevelt and Garner a majority over Hoover and Curtis. To say the least, these polls make Pennsylvania look like a doubtful state. Analysis of the political factors indicate the same conclusion. Yet it is hard to believe that the conservative, almost Tory sentiment, will change and that the State will break all precedents by going over to the Democratic side this year. Pennsylvania would be indeed a "mysterious stranger" in a Democratic line-up.

The latest Literary Digest figures for Pennsylvania give Roosevelt 110,549 straw votes to 80,094 for Hoover. Of a total of 190,643 votes, the Democratic presidential ticket received 57.9 per cent.

Check Based on 1928 Figures.

The question is: Do these figures represent what the true sentiment of Pennsylvania will be in November? One check is to compare similar Literary Digest figures for 1928 with the actual November vote that year.

In the Oct. 12, 1928, Literary Digest poll, Hoover was leading Smith by 159,018 votes to 80,396 votes, receiving 66.4 per cent of the total straw votes cast for the two candidates. In the actual balloting in November, Hooover received 2,055,382 votes to Smith's 1,067,586. Hoover's share was 65.8 per cent of the total. The Digest poll overestimated Hoover's strength only by six-tenths of one per cent.

As yet, the Digest has not released its poll of Philadelphia. In 1928, the Digest poll for Oct. 12, gave Hoover 63,677 votes in Philadelphia and Smith, 44,790. Hoover was credited with 58.7 per cent of the total. In the actual voting a month later, Hoover received 420,320 votes to Smith's 276,573. The Hoover vote was 60.3 per cent of the total. The Digest poll underestimated Hoover's strength by 1.6 per cent.

These two checks indicate that the Digest's poll, all other factors being equal, should give the Republicans alarm.

Newspaper Polls Vary.

The poll in Pennsylvania of the Hearst newspapers also give Roosevelt a majority. This week's figures list 14,925 votes for Roosevelt and 13,857 votes for the President. Roosevelt's share is 51.8 per cent.

The Hearst poll, which is said to be based on telephone directories, is greatly at variance with the personal poll of the Philadelphia Record, a morning newspaper. The Record has four college graduates circulating in the crowded sections of Philadelphia. These workers, equipped with locked ballot boxes, have been dubbed "walking election boards." On July 8, the week after the Democratic national convention, these workers conducted a poll among subway passengers. The results showed that Roosevelt had received 4282 votes and Hoover 877. Roosevelt had 83 per cent of the total. This week when a similar poll was taken in the same areas, the Roosevelt count was almost identical, 4283 votes, but the Hoover vote had mounted to 1465. At that, the New York Governor received 74.6 per cent of the total.

Despite these amazing percentages, Republican leaders continue to assert publicly and officially that the State will be safely for Hoover in November, Gen. Edward Martin, the Republican State chairman, continues to predict "a Succumbs to Inquries Suffered Friday—Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Donald P. Mueller, 18 months old, died yesterday at his home, 7120 Greenway avenue, Pine Lawn, of burns suffered Friday when he stepped into a tub of scalding water.

His mother, Mrs. Ray J. Mueller, was preparing his bath and had poured hot water in the tub. She took the kettle away, intending to return and add cold water to the hot, but heard the boy's screams and found him lying on his back in the water.

His father is foreman of the printing department of the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. Funeral services will be held from St. Ann's Church, Normandy, at 8:15 o'clock tomorrow morning. Burial will take place in Calvary Cemetery.

GOV. ROOSEVELT AND SMITH WILL SHARE PLATFORM

To Appear Together in Brooklyn and Manhattan Rallies—Smith to Reply to Coolidge.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith will share the platform in the Democrats' closing campaign rallies in New York. The standard bearer of the Democrats and his predecessor at Albany will headline the programs at the Brooklyn Academy of Music Nov. 4 and at Madison Square Garden Nov. 5.

Aside from the Roosevelt rallies, former Gov. Smith, his office announced late today, will make the following tour after an address Oct. 19 at Tammany Hall: Oct. 24, Newark, N. J.; Oct. 27, Boston and Providence; Oct. 29, Buffalo; Nov. 2, Troy.

The Newark and Boston addresses, Smith's office said, will be broadcast over a nation-wide radio hookup. The former, it was indicated, would be in the nature of a reply to Calvin Coolidge's recent New York address.

In his speeches, Smith is expected by party leaders to give a complete indorsement of Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy.

The 1928 presidential moninee will also address a dinner Oct. 26 in honor of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, president of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform. This will be a nonpartisan affair.

GILDA GRAY, DANCER, SUED

Gilda Gray, dancer, was sued in Circuit Court yesterday by St. John's Military Academy of Delafield, Wis., for $1047 alleged to be due for tuition, board and incidental expenses on account of her son, Martin Gray.

The petition recites that the dancer enrolled her son as a student at the academy in 1930, and the account itemizes charges for a year or more totaling $1431.69, on which $384.26 was paid, the petition states. The Sheriff was instructed to serve the defendant at the Fox Theater, where she is now appearing.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF POISONING TWO HUSBANDS, SON

Mrs. Daisy L. De Melker Goes to Trial Tomorrow at Johannesburg for Three Murders.

EVIDENCE ON WILLS BUILDS UP CASE

Finding of Traces of Deadly Substance in Coffee Given Her Boy Leads to Sweeping Investigation.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Oct. 15.—Charged with poisoning two former husbands and her son, Mrs. Daisy Louise de Melker, will go on trial Monday. She is now the wife of a noted South African rugby player.

The crown alleges she killed her first husband, William Alfred Rowle, in 1923; her second husband, Robert Sproat, in 1927, and her son, Cecil Rhodes Rowle, in March of this year.

No suspicion was attached to her until the death of the son, who succumbed after drinking coffee from a flask which he had taken to his work for lunch. The youth's body was exhumed and traces of poison were found in it.

The authorities thereupon exhumed the bodies of the two previous husbands, with the result the triple murder charge was lodged against her.

All during the preliminary hearings the court was jammed with spectators. Mrs. de Melker is 44 years old and scarcely five feet tall. During the investigation she has retained her composure. Much evidence concerning wills was introduced at the hearings that have been held. One witness said when condolences were offered to Mrs. de Melker on the occasion of the death of her son, she said: "It is nice to have the will made out."

William Sproat, a brother of the second husband, testified Mrs. de Melker was anxious about his brother making a will previous to his death.

He told of visiting the household when his brother was on his deathbed, and declared that the accused woman said to him: "You must get Bob to make a will. You know he had a will leaving everything to his mother."

At one of the hearing sessions a surprise witness, a chemist, testified Mrs. de Melker, under an assumed name, bought 60 grains of a poison from him with the explanation she intended to kill a sick cat.

Mrs. de Melker studied at a Good Hope Seminary, Capetown's largest girl's college. She qualified as a nurse and was attached for some time to Bulawayo Hospital. She is the mother of a 22-year-old daughter.

Her present husband, Sydney de Melker, was once a great rugby player.

OKLAHOMA ROBBERS USE CAR WITH "POLICE" SIGN

Blow Detachable Siren in $2000 Holdup of Pair Driving From Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Ok., Oct. 15.—Two highwaymen using a coupe equipped with a trick removable "police" sign and siren, held up Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burnett of Wilmington, Cal., 14 miles south of Miami today, stole their car, clothing and money and put them out.

Walking into Afton the Burnetts reported the robbery. They estimated their loss at $2000. The Burnetts were returning to California from Beardston, Ill. Mrs. Burnett, driving, saw the lights of the robber car which seemed to be following them; its siren sounded and as she drove off the pavement, the second car pulled up, its "police" sign showing on a half-raised window.

"We're policemen. Where's the papers on the car," a well-dressed young man asked. As Mrs. Burnett searched for the papers, the second robber, masked, stepped to Burnett's side. "Just a little holdup," he told the tourist, leveling a pistol.

BOARD TO CONSIDER PAROLE OF OLDEST TEN CONVICTS

Some at Stillwater, Minn., Said to Have No Desire to Re-enter World as Old Men.

By the Associated Press.

STILLWATER, Minn., Oct. 15.—The "old guard" of the State prison—10 convicts who have served 25 years or more—were told today that the State Parole Board would hold a special meeting next month to give them their first opportunity for freedom.

Prison officials said some of them had no desire to leave familiar surroundings and as old men, to re-enter a world changed greatly since they left it. Others are eager to go.

Nine of the 10 men were imprisoned for murder, the other for attacking a child. Two were sentenced to be hanged before capital punishment was abolished in Minnesota. Their sentences were commuted to life imprisonment.

ONE FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER IN PRISON KILLING

G. W. Courson Convicted, Guard Solomon Higginbotham Acquitted by Jacksonville, Fla., Jury.

FORMER TO SEEK ANOTHER TRIAL

Indictment Charged Arthur Maillefert, Convict, Was Strangled With Chain in Sweatbox.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—The jury in the Arthur Maillefert sweatbox death, late today found George W. Courson guilty of manslaughter and acquitted Solomon Higginbotham.

The verdict returned against Courson carries with it a sentence of from one to 20 years.

Courson and Higginbotham were charged with first degree murder in indictments returned by the Duval County grand jury. Maillefert died last June 3 in a sweatbox (a four-cell enclosure) at Sunbeam prison camp. He was strangled to death on a chain, which was locked around his neck and looped about an overhead rafter.

The jury was out two hours and 16 minutes. The finding was not in proper form, however, and Judge Gibbs sent the jurors back to rewrite it.

Mrs. Rena Maillefert, mother of the dead New Jersey youth, looked at the floor as the verdict was read. There was hardly a sound in the crowded court room.

Higginbotham was discharged from custody.

To Seek New Trial.

Courson's attorney immediately filed notice of a motion for a new trial.

Courson and Higginbotham contended Maillefert committed suicide rather than serve nine years for robbery.

State witnesses testified Maillefert was placed in the sweatbox and chained up at Courson's direction.

Courson said he acted only in a fatherly manner toward the boy, and that he placed him in the sweatbox only as a last resort to prevent him from escaping.

Higginbotham hurried to the press table, warmly grasped the hand of a reporter and said: "Just like I thought. They gave me a square deal. That was what I was expecting."

Courson said he expected "better luck in the next trial."

Courson's bond of $5000, fixed at a habeas corpus hearing some time ago, was allowed to stand pending action on his motion for a new trial.

Prosecutor's Speech.

Charles M. Durrance, State's Attorney, in his argument told the jurors they were charged with a duty inherent in the jury system since it was established, "to stop the autocratic taking of life by despots and kings." He called the Florida penal system an "institution of despotism."

He recalled testimony that Maillefert was beaten because he would not tell where he had hidden hacksaws, said he was dressed in nothing but a barrel and placed in the sweat box when he refused to take a pint of castor oil. "It was more than any man could bear," Durrance told the jury. "He did what any one of you would have done rather than face another night in that barrel in the sweat box. He used his last energy to run away."

He recalled the defendant's testimony.

"I almost thought they were going to rock him to sleep," Durrance said, "the way they told of talking to him that night (the night he was placed in the sweat box, his neck chained to a rafter and his feet in stocks, to be taken out dead a short time later). Yes, with those stocks on his feet and that chain on his neck. And their only interest was to keep him.

"They played with this boy like a cat with a mouse, like wolves around sheep, until at the end of that chain he strangled to death."

Mrs. Maillefert wept at intervals as Durrance described the tortures he said her son had undergone and waved the chain before the jury box.

NEW BROADCASTS BARRED IN MEXICO TO AID TELEGRAPH

Government-Operated Wire Service Lost Business After Radio Started Practice.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15.—Press notices will no longer be broadcast in Mexico, according to the Director-General of Telegraph, as it has been cutting into the Government-owned telegraph business. Studios in Mexico City have been making a practice of broadcasting the day's news events late every night at just about the same time correspondents here for newspapers in outlying Mexican cities file their stories.

Editors of these newspapers have found it much cheaper and a great saving in telegraph tolls, to tune in on a Mexico City station and take notes on the news broadcasts. The national telegraph system, which is controlled by the Federal Government, felt radio's competition and the General Law of Communications was consulted. In this code an article was found upon which the Director-General of Telegraph has based his decree prohibiting the dissemination of news over broadcast stations.

CHEERING CROWDS GREET HOOVER'S TALKS EN ROUTE

President Makes Prepared Speeches at Three Points and Short Stops at Seven Others.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—On his way to Cleveland today, President Hoover told crowds along the way of efforts by the Government to stop the flow of foreign rubber into this country and cited what he called "tangible and positive evidence," of gradual economic recovery.

He made three prepared speeches in his journey through four states from the national capital to Ohio.

At Akron, a rubber center, he announced that the Treasury Department at his instructions had been holding an inquiry during the last week to determine whether the rubber goods which he said were beginning to flow into the country in large quantities were coming in violation of anti-dumping laws. He also said the Tariff Commission was investigating to determine whether the duties on these products should be increased. Police estimated the crowd at Akron at 30,000.

At Youngstown he said that increased steel production was "tangible and positive evidence that we are winning this battle."

Earlier in the day, at Cumberland, Md., before 5000 people, the President commended the Republican protective tariffs and asserted that the Democrats proposed to reduce them.

At seven other stops along the way, the President and Mrs. Hoover made rear platform appearances, but the chief executive did not discuss campaign issues.

As his train pulled out of Martinsburg, W. Va., a voice from the crowd shouted, "Use the big stick, Mr. President."

"All right," the President replied, smiling and waving a right hand circled in white bandage, to cover bruises and cuts he received while shaking hands with 3000 guests at a White House reception Thursday night.

At Meyersdale, Pa., the crowd had been gathering since early in the morning. President Hoover said that the welcome was "heartening and encouraging" because it was a "sign that you are supporting the Republican party." As the train started, a young boy yelled up at them: "Attaboy, Herbie."

Reviews 12-Point Policy for Wage Earner — Crowd Estimated at 30,000 Hears Address at Cleveland Auditorium.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15.—In the hardest-hitting speech that he has ever made, President Hoover, fighting for his political life, tonight charged the Democratic candidate for the presidency and other Democratic orators with spreading "mistaken statements and misinformation" throughout the country, and tore into the Democratic National Committee or sponsoring "contemptible statements" about his private record.

These statements, accusing him, as he said, of employing cheap Chinese coolie labor in South African mines, were denounced by the President as "lies," and he added he had a retraction from the man who first penned them.

The matter, he said, was of interest to the American people only because "it is proposed that a political party shall be placed in power over 120,000,000 people on the basis of votes secured in this manner."

The President's speech delivered to an audience filling the hall where Coolidge and Dawes were nominated in 1924, bristled with similar savage shots at the opposition. By comparison, the DesMoines speech, which many of the President's supporters hailed as a "fighting" effort, was a mild slap on the wrist.

Crowd Estimated at 30,000.

The President's address was heard by 11,000 persons gathered in the main hall of the Cleveland Auditorium and by overflow audiences in the basement, the annex and the music room of the same mammoth structure. It was announced at the meeting that 30,000 persons were in the four audiences.

The President got a cordial reception when he appeared on the platform, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, and again when he arose to speak after an introduction by David S. Ingalls, the Republican candidate for Governor. Following his custom, he read his speech—about 12,000 words long—from sheets placed on a high reading stand. He looked tired, but he brought out his points with somewhat greater emphasis than he usually manages.

His flings at the Democrats won frequent rounds of applause, though not in the volume that might have been expected. Probably the President's manner accounted for this. He has no oratorical bag of tricks. With the material which he had in hand tonight, a skillful orator would have produced a much greater show of enthusiasm.

Though the President's message tonight was addressed especially to labor, he devoted much of it to the general charge that the Democrats were unfit to be entrusted with the responsibility of carrying on

DEMOCRATS SEEM SURE TO NOMINATE PENDERGAST MAN

OLD POLITICIANS CONTROL COMMITTEE

Unlikely to Yield to Argument That Practically Unknown Candidate Would Weaken Ticket.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 15.—Members of the Democratic State Committee began gathering here tonight for their meeting Monday to choose their party nominee for Governor to fill the vacancy on the ticket caused by the death of Francis M. Wilson.

Confronted by a demand of Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City that his domination of the party be officially recognized by accepting his dictation of the nomination, some, at least, of the committee were disposed to look upon the problem before it as one of grave importance.

Pendergast and Russell L. Dearmont will arrive tomorrow to direct their forces in the conferences during the day and night on the floor before the committee Monday. It is expected each will have the proxy of a member of the committee.

Suites for headquarters have been reserved at the Missouri Hotel for Dearmont, Judge Park, Lloyd V. Stark of Louisiana and Judge William T. Ragland, all candidates for the nomination.

Pendergast Victory Likely.

In advance of the convention all indications pointed to a Pendergast victory, either through the nomination of Judge Guy B. Park of Platte City or Lloyd V. Stark of Louisiana or possibly somebody else, if it should develop that Park was only a stalking horse for some other Pendergast man.

The more experienced politicians of the boss organization played a surer game in the primary than did the younger and less experienced group which directed the Dearmont campaign. The anti-boss leaders directed their whole fight to the end of bringing about Dearmont's nomination. The more practical politicians of the boss organization, fighting not only for Wilson's nomination, but also to make certain they would control the party machinery even if they lost their candidate, gave attention to the selection of the members of the State Committee.

As a result of their political sagacity, there undoubtedly is a majority of the committee friendly to Pendergast, if not actually controlled by him. The Pendergast forces have announced they are certain of at least 36 votes for Judge Park, or three more than a majority, there being 64 members of the committee. The Dearmont leaders have figured they had 21 sure votes for him, but it is doubtful they can count on that many, as several are known to be for Dearmont only if their votes will make a majority for him.

Dearmont's Vote Argument.

Dearmont has announced that he is in the fight to a finish just as he was in the primary, and Ernest A. Green, a chief among his supporters, said there was no second choice.

There has been no intimation so far that as practical politicians the regular Democrats of the Dearmont organization would refuse to support the ticket if a Pendergast candidate should be named, but they have brought to committeemen the argument that among the 225,000 votes Dearmont received in the primary there were at least 50,000 which would not go to a Pendergast candidate. These are of independent voters who supported Dearmont only because of his fight to clear the party of boss rule.

Pendergast, with his almost complete control of Democratic politics in Jackson County, where his candidates received majorities of around 100,000 in the primary, appears to have lined up all the nominees on the State ticket in his present fight. Bennett C. Clark, who defeated Charles M. Howell, the Pendergast choice for the nomination for United States Senator, has gone over to the Pendergast forces at least to the extent of offering no opposition to the selection of Judge Park.

All the other candidates were boss-supported in the primary with the exception of one or two of the Congressional nominees.

"Pendergast Wants Him."

In support of the nomination of Judge Park almost the only argument which has been advanced is that Pendergast wants him and that the party cannot afford to antagonize the big boss with his huge block of votes.

As a practical political argument advanced against his nomination, the opposition to Pendergast has pointed out that he is virtually unknown throughout the State, and the party will be faced with the job of building up an unknown candidate and with only three weeks in which to do it.

In addition to that it has been the fight for economic recovery. He followed this assault with a 12-point summing up of the policies of his administration in respect to labor.

The Democrats, said the President, had been "going up and down the land" saying that the sole or major cause of the depression was the orgy of speculation in the United States three years ago, plus the passage of the Smoot-Hawley tariff act.

Observing that this law was passed "nine months after the storm broke," the President declared that the Democratic version of the origin of the depression was "absolutely untrue," and was "founded upon a complete misunderstanding of what has happened in the world."

"The United States," he said, "did not bring this calamity upon the world. The United States is not the oppressor of the world.

"Any party which exhibits such a lack of economic understanding upon which to base national policies should not be trusted with the fate of 25,000,000 American families.

"They should not be trusted to command the battle against the most gigantic economic emergency with which our people have ever been confronted, and to bring that battle to victorious issue in the reestablishment of the functioning of our economic machine."

He said that if nothing more had been the matter with us than appeared in the Democratic thesis, the depression would have been over two years ago. Instead, the nation had been compelled to keep on fighting against "the most destructive forces which we have ever met in the whole history of the United States."

"And I am glad to say," he added, "fighting victoriously."

He said that the Democratic leaders in explaining the depression, gave no indication that they had ever heard of the great war and the inheritances from it.

Apparently they had never heard, he particularized, of the killing or incapacitating of 40,000,000 of the best youth of the earth" in the war, or of the $300,000,000,000 that the war cost, or the debt that it piled up, or of the political instability that arose all over Europe from "the harsh treaties."

Russia and "A New Deal."

Apparently, he went on, they knew nothing of the economic dislocations in Europe or of the foreign tariff walls set up 12 years before the passage of the Smoot-Hawley bill, or of the huge increase in the standing armies of the world, or the effects on the United States of the upheavals in China, India and Russia.

"They have ignored," he said, "the effect of Russia's dumping into the world the commodities taken from its necessitous people in a desperate effort to secure money with which to carry on—shall I call it—a new deal."

That last was a sly dig at the "new deal" which Gov. Roosevelt has said he is offering the people.

The President went on to tell of over-production of basic commodities such as rubber, sugar, coffee and copper—a condition which, he said, brought a collapse of prices and with it "a train of bankruptcies and destruction of buying power for American goods."

He recited other world ills—revolutions, the failure of the gold standard in numerous countries, the repudiation of debts—and declared the Democratic leaders seemed not to know the effect of all these forces on the United States.

Replying to the Democratic contention that high tariffs were imposed abroad as "reprisals" against the Smoot-Hawley bill, the President said that in fact they were set up because "these nations, in their financial crash, impose direct or indirect restrictions on the import of goods in order to reduce expenditures of their people."

He told of the effect on America of the destruction of world commerce during the dumping of securities into the American market, the drains on our gold, the contraction of credit, and then came to the climax toward which we had been heading:

"Yet in the face of all these tremendous facts, our Democratic friends leave the impression with the American people that the prime cause of this disaster was the boom in flotation and stock prices and a small increase in American tariffs."

This, he continued, was the impression which the Democratic candidate had sought to leave when he said that the bubble broke first in the United States and the major collapse abroad followed.

Hitting sharply at Roosevelt, he added: "I may incidentally remark that the state governments have the primary responsibility to protect their citizens in these matters (speculation and the flotation of securities) and that the vast majority of such transactions originated or took place in the State of New York."

On a note of defense against a frequent criticism, the President said that "no man can foresee the coming fear or panic."

"I did not," he added, "notice any Democratic Jeremiahs."

He argued at length against the contention that the Smoot-Hawley bill was a large factor in the depression. The bill, he repeated, was not passed till nine months after the depression began in the United States and not until 20 other countries had got into the depression. He said that under the bill 66 per cent of our imports were duty free and cited other figures which, he said, disproved the claim that through the tariff we had produced grave dislocations abroad.

He said that duties were levied on only one-third of our imports; that the actual increases in the Smoot-Hawley bill covered only one-quarter of dutiable imports; that our import trade was only one-eighth of the import trade of the world.

"So they would have us believe," he scoffed, "that this world catastrophe and this destruction of foreign trade happened because the United States increased tariffs on one-fourth of one-third of one-eighth of the world's imports. Thus we pulled down the world, so they tell us, by increases on less than one 1 cent of the goods being imported by the world."

He said that he could "continue for hours in an analysis of mistaken statements and misinformation from the opposition."

"I assure you," he went on, "that this country is not to blame for the catastrophes that have come on the world. The American people did not originate the age-old controversies of Europe. We did not inaugurate the great war or the panics in Europe."

"No, my friends, the increase in duties collected by the United States by 2.2 per cent calculated on all the goods we import did not bring about the debacle in the world."

He dwelt on these matters, he said, because the Democratic policies were founded on misconceptions "of the utmost gravity for the future of the United States."

"There is vital determination before the American people," he said, "as to whether there shall be placed in power over the destinies of 120,000,000 people a party which so lacks a penetration into the forces active in the world and the dangers and responsibilities that arise from them."

Denies Coolie Labor Charge.

Digressing, as he said, to a personal matter, the President quoted from what he described as a copy of the instructions issued by the Democratic National Committee to its speakers. It contained a paragraph, he said, referring to his "dark labor record."

He quoted from this paragraph: "First and indelible, his early record is clouded by his former partnerships which contracted cheap Chinese coolie labor in South African mines."

The President branded this as a "calumny" which had been "disproved and denounced time and again." He said that when Chinese labor was imported into South Africa he publicly stated that high-paid labor was preferable. "Further," he added, "no South African concern with which I was ever connected ever employed a single Chinese laborer. But more important than this, I happen to have in the files in Washington, from the man who first penned these lies, a statement under oath, humbly and abjectly withdrawing them."

Again assailing the record of the Democratic House of Representatives, the President declared that so far from accepting his recommendations for reduction of expenses, it passed bills which, if they had become law, would have cost the country $3,500,000,000.

The President said that in talking about labor he spoke from "sharp personal experience"—the experience of one who had worked with his own hands, as well as that of the employer.

He declared that if strong action had not been taken by the Government, the shocks of the last three years "would have imperiled the republic and the whole hope of recovery." Business, industry, employment and agriculture, he said, were "all in the same boat and all must come to shore together."

He set out, in relation to labor, 12 measures and policies of his administration, and declared that "they speak louder than any promises."

Averting Hunger and Cold.

Point No. 1 was the work which had been done to avert hunger and cold among the unemployed. He told of the mobilization of various relief agencies and the "victorious battle" they had waged. In the forthcoming winter, he said, the fight would be continued, along the same lines. He cited the $300,000,000 made available to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for loans to the states for relief purposes, and asserted that he had great difficulty with Democratic leaders to keep this from being made "a pork-barrel operation."

"There should be no fear or apprehension at any deserving American fireside," he said, "that starvation or cold will creep within their doors to menace families and loved ones over the forthcoming winter."

Praising the relief record as one without parallel in any other nation, the President said, on the authority of the Public Health Service, that adult and infant mortality had reached its lowest rate and the general health of the American people stood at a higher level than ever before.

"Yet some say that things could not be worse," he observed. "Had these actions not been taken they would be a thousand times worse."

This idea that "things might be worse"—obviously in answer to one of the most damaging cries against his candidacy—ran like a refrain through much of the President's address.

Employer-Labor Conferences.

The second item in his catalogue of measures on behalf of labor was the calling together of leading employers and representatives of organized labor, at the White House after the market crash of 1929, and the resultant "understanding between industry and labor of the complete mutuality of their interest in the face of national danger." He credited the employers with having maintained the standard of wages in the United States for nearly two years in the face of disappearing profits. Readjustments, he said, had come about only after profits had been exhausted and the cost of living reduced. Among other beneficial results of the 1929 conference, the President cited the construction of new equipment which went on durnig the first year of the depression and which he indicated was about to be resumed.

Again he repeated that except for administration measures, the plight of the country would be much worse than it is. "Millions more," he said, "woud have been without jobs; wages would have been reduced far below their present levels."

He deemed it an "astonishing spectacle" that during the depression there had been fewer industrial conflicts than in normal times.

In giving his third point, the President alluded to Roosevelt's recent statement that in prosperous times a "nest egg" should be set aside for use public works in times of depression.

"He advances this," said Mr. Hoover, "apparently as a brand-new idea. Now it will doubtless surprise him to learn that the eggs have not only been laid but have hatched."

$2,400,000,000 for Construction.

Saying it had been his settled policy to speed up public works, he declared that by the end of the present fiscal year the Government would have expended nearly $2,400,000,000 on construction and maintenance work since the depression began.

As in previous speeches, he called special attention to what he described as the "pork barrel" $1,200,000,000 bill put through the House by the Democratic vice-presidential candidate. The expenditure of this sum, said Mr. Hoover, would have meant the destruction of the Government's credit. He asserted that Garner (whom he identified without naming) was still proposing that bill as a part of the policies of the Democratic party.

Point number four was the authorization to the R. F. C. to lend up to $1,500,000,000 for the building of public and private works of reproductive character.

Point number five was the application of the principle of shorter work hours to those in the Government service, in order that available employment might be spread out over the greatest possible number of workers.

Under this heading the President briefly discussed "technologic" employment, declaring it be an "economic force for which there must be a remedy."

Sixth, the President instanced the setting up of the Federal Home Loan Bank system. Indulging in another partisan thrust, he said that if the Democratic House had acted promptly on his Home Loan Bank recommendation, hundreds of thousands of foreclosures on homes would have been avoided.

Seventh, the President presented a table designed to show that, in terms of purchasing power, the American worker was vastly better off than his brother in other countries.

"Let no man say," he reiterated, "that it could not be worse."

Number eight in the catalogue was a defense of the tariff couched in familiar Republican terms. Referring to his table of comparative wage scales, he asked: "Do you want to compete with laborers whose wages in their own money are only sufficient to buy from one-eighth to one-third of the amount of bread and butter which you can buy at the present rates of wages?"

As his number nine, the President cited his executive orders cutting down immigration to a point where practically none is admitted except the relatives of residents.

Attacks Soldier Bonus.

His tenth point was the "great battle" fought by the administration to maintain the stability of the dollar, "in order that we might protect the working people of the United States." In this connection he again lashed the Democratic House for its passage of the Patman bill for cash payment of the soldier bonus.

Eleventh, the President told of his efforts to solve the all-important problem of "restoring the great mass of normal jobs in the country." This led him to a discussion of credit.

The contraction of credit had brought on "unpredecented perils" and to meet them the administration had taken "unpredecented steps," this had been done in order to preserve the savings of the people, their insurance policies, their homes and jobs.

"That battle," said the President, "is now being won. Credit is being expanded, and normal jobs are coming back. September alone shows an increase of 3.6 per cent in employment for the whole country."

Renews Former Argument.

Finally as point No. 12, the President repeated his oft-made assertion that foreign causes were mainly responsible for the depression and drew the conclusion that whatever might be done to improve stability abroad would be helpful to America. He recounted his proposal that the armaments of the world be reduced one-third and renewed his Des Moines suggestion that the war debts be utilized "to the advantage of agriculture and labor," he said again that he was against cancelation of these debts.

Roosevelt's proposal of tariff reduction in order that Europe might pay the debts out of the profits of an increased trade with us, was assailed by the President as "vastly worse than cancelation."

"This," he said, "would take money out of the pockets of the farmer, laborer and business man to pay Europe's debts."

The President in his conclusions eulogized "the unconquerable spirit of the nation," which he declared had "overcome dangers and perils which might have plunged the world in a long period of chaos."

The President completed his address in about and hour and 15 minutes.

The Chief Executive and First Lady were cheered again and again as they visited three more halls within the huge auditorium, where overflow crowds waited for them.

In a basement hall, the President remarked that "I don't believe you want to hear much more political debate this evening."

"Your reception," he added, "gives us great strength to carry on this battle to the end."

The President's special train left Cleveland at 10:30 for the return to Washington.

Campaign Sidelights

— By —
PAUL Y. ANDERSON
Of the Post-Dispatch Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.

REPUBLICAN leaders were rather downcast today as they surveyed the results of two of their choicest pieces of campaign strategy. Privately some of them lamented that "nothing seems to work." One of these strategic moves had consisted in publicly taunting the Democrats with having "muzzled" Speaker Garner, the vice-presidential nominee. They kept it up for days, from the stump and through the newspapers, always leaving the implication that Garner's "radical" and "unsound" views on government finance would alienate millions of votes if he were allowed to utter them.

What was the result? Garner, who is personally adverse to taking the stump, was goaded into the radio last night. Garner knows government finances inside out. I doubt if there is a man in either house of Congress who knows as much about taxes. And why shouldn't he, when he has participated in the drafting of every Federal tax bill for the last 20 years? He was able to show rather conclusively, it seemed to many Washington observers, that the failure of Congress to "balance the budget" was a direct result of the Treasury's inability or failure accurately to estimate revenues and expenditures.

Those parts of his speech dealing with economy and tax reduction might very well have been composed by Coolidge. Nor is that surprising to those who know Garner. The idea of John Garner, a banker and a millionaire, being "radical" about anything affecting money, is amusing. In the writer's opinion, he is more conservative than either Roosevelt or Hoover.

"Smoking Out Hiram" Bad for Republicans.

THE other piece of Repulican strategy which went wrong was known as "Smoking Out Hiram," and consisted in various efforts to force Senator Hiram Johnson of California, to make a public announcement of his position in the campaign. It culminated in the action of 70 Republican editors, who sent him a telegram demanding that he state whether he was supporting the Republican ticket. They asked for an answer—and did they get one.

Hiram's sizzling reply, concluding "I cannot and will not support Mr. Hoover," not only was the most slashing and picturesque attack which has been made on the President since the campaign started, but it is generally accepted here as destroying the Republicans' last hope of carrying California. Worse still, it is expected to have a powerful effect in Oregon and Washington, and in other states of the Northwest where Johnson has been popular ever since he ran for Vice-President on the Bull Moose ticket with Theodore Roosevelt in 1912.

Just who conceived the brilliant idea of "Smoking out Hiram," has not been disclosed, although it is attributed to Mark Requa, California oil magnate and old personal friend of President Hoover. Whoever it was, it is apparent that he never heard the old adage about letting sleeping dogs lie. How anyone who knows Hiram Johnson could suppose for an instant that he could be cowed or stampeded, or even challenged with impunity, must remain one of the mysteries of the campaign.

Hoover Saves Wilbur From Debate With Ritchie.

HOWEVER, comma, the strategy of the Republicans in this campaign has been full of mysteries—most of them ending unhappily. For example, how did Secretary of the Interior, Wilbur happen to fall into a Democratic trap by consenting to engage in a joint debate with Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, at Northwestern University? Gov. Ritchie, in addition to possessing a charming presence, is one of the most adroit, forceful and eloquent politicians in the country. Secretary Wilbur possesses none of those advantages. To send him against Ritchie would be like sending Senator Smoot to the mat with Jim Londos.

My lookouts report that when President Hoover heard of the arrangement the presidential blood pressure went up about 20 pounds.

At any rate, he lost no time in vetoing the plan. Former Gov. Henry Allen of Kansas has been substituted for the dour and pedagogic Wilbur. Henry is a good, rough and tumble scrapper, and should give a fair account of himself, even if the company is a little faster than that to which he is accustomed. Meantime, however, the whole country laughs as Ritchie chuckles; "It doesn't make any difference to me who is sent up to bat for the other side."

Change G. O. P. Looked For Has Not Come

THE harsh truth—which by this time must be percolating out to the country—is that the Republican managers are in pretty much of a panic. In July and August they knew that conditions were unfavorable, but they rather confidently expected a change in September. That month only brought a bumper crop of straw ballots, virtually all of which indicated that Roosevelt was far in the lead, but the staff officers of the G. O. P. said:

"Democrats always win presidential elections in September. Wait until October. A rise in the stock market and an increase of 10 cents a bushel in the price of wheat, and it will all be over but the shouting."

But October is half gone, wheat shows no signs of touching 40 cents a bushel, Iowa farmers are preparing to use their corn for fuel during the winter, and I know of no one who anticipates any appreciable rise in security prices. If such a rise did occur it probably would be flattened instantly by a rush of profit taking.

Appeals From Captains of Industry Expected.

THERE appears to be one string left to the Republican bow. That is to persuade those who still have jobs or homes that they will lose them unless President Hoover is re-elected. Of course, that argument has been used by Republican politicians throughout the campaign, but there is abundant evidence that it has failed to get across. It will not be surprising within the next three weeks to hear a group of Republican business men of the type, for example, of Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, appealing for the President's re-election on the ground that "things will be worse" if the Democrats get in.

VICE-PRESIDENT SLIGHTLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Woman Drives Car Into Side of Machine in Which Curtis Is Riding to Salt Lake City.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 1 —Vice President Charles Curtis, suffering from a strained right shoulder resulting from an automobile collision while he was on the way here today from Ogden, Utah, entered on a program which included attendance at a football game this afternoon, dinner this evening with Senator and Mrs. Reed Smoot and a public address in the Mormon Tabernacle later.

The Vice President's injury occurred when the car in which he was riding with Senator Smoot, Ernest Bamberger, Republican National Committeeman for Utah, and Col. Sherman Bullock, his aid, collided with a machine driven by Mrs. M. Pechart, 67 years old, of Wendover, Utah. Curtis, sitting in the rear seat, was thrown violently forward and his right side and shoulder were hurt.

A physician who examined him after his arrival here said the ligaments were strained. Although the injury was pronounced painful, it was declared not to be serious and save for handshaking, was not expected to interfere with the remainder of the Vice-President's program here.

Mrs. Pechart, driving along the highway in the same direction as the Curtis party, was ordered by motorcycle police to pull off the pavement and stop her car for the official machines to pass. She turned to look at the cars behind her, the wheels of her machine struck loose gravel beside the pavement and the car skidded, half turned and crashed into the side of the Curtis car.

The Vice-President's first concern was for Mrs. Pechart, as soon as he had gained his composure.

"My sympathy is for that woman," he said to Col. Bullock. "Go and do everything that can be done for her comfort."

Mrs. Pechart was shaken up but unhurt. There was only a slight delay and the Vice-President proceeded in another car.

He was taken through the business district on his arrival here and afterwards to his hotel.

YNTHETIC LION HUNT IS SET FOR THIS MORNING

ENE JUST EAST OF COMMERCE, MO.

y a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ENTON, Mo., Oct. 15.—Travel-[illegible]ed and weary after more than 22 hours on the road from St. Louis, the Wright lion-hunting expedition arrived here tonight, with plans to loose its two caged lionesses tomorrow and track them down in the best South African manner.

It had been an arduous trip, especially for the lionesses, who howled dismally as the expedition neared the goal where they are to be turned out before the high-powered rifles of the expedition's marksmen.

Tomorrow morning, if everything goes all right, they will be taken on a ferry to a 40-acre island in the Mississippi in this county, just east of Commerce, Mo. and about 150 miles south of St. Louis. Here the hunters under Denver M. Wright of Brentwood, leather novelties dealer, intend to give them a fair start and hunt them to the death.

So the scene is set for a new kind of lion hunt. The late Theodore Roosevelt won fame by bringing back his lions neatly made up into rugs that became drawing-room stumbling blocks. Frank Buck, a hunter of the new school, follows the motto "Bring 'em back alive." But the watchword of Mr. Wright, who is also resourceful is "Take 'em out alive," then turns 'em loose [illegible] see if you can shoot 'em.

Everybody in the expedition was [illegible] high fettle Friday night—everybody, that is, except the lionesses when the truck bearing the party's quarry in a stout cage on a small truck set out from Wright's home at 1618 Annelee avenue, Brentwood.

Zoo Proposal Overruled.

But before the caravan had gone far it was apparent there was a diversity of opinion about the disposition of the lions. A Post-Dispatch reporter who followed the party did not learn what the difference was until the hunters arrived early yesterday at Marshfield, about 20 miles northeast of Springfield, and about 150 miles west of the place where Wright had planned to hunt the lions.

At Marshfield it developed that O. W. Brinkmeyer, Maplewood plumbing contractor and owner of the truck that bore the animals in the cage, was against hunting them. The people of Southeast Missouri were against it, and, anyhow, the people of Springfield wanted the lionesses for the Zoo, so why not turn them over and let's all get back home?

Wright thought it over for a long time. Finally he reached a decision.

"Whatever I do now will make [illegible] ridiculous," he said. "So we're going on the lion hunt. I said I was going to have a lion hunt and that's what I am going to have."

And so the truck was swung eastward, and far off its original course, was started for Scott County, where Wright had intended to go in the first place.

"Those lions have made me do a lot of thinking," Wright told the correspondent as they resumed the trip. "In the first place, they were forced on me. A man who owned a circus got in touch with me and said he was broke. He had some lions to sell. I looked at them and said I wasn't interested.

"The next thing I knew he called me up and said he was sending them over. They were mine if I would pay the express charges—[illegible] I got the lions. I advertised them for sale. No one wanted any lions. I tried to give them away. Still nobody wanted them. They were eating their heads off, so I decided to have a lion hunt. And that," somewhat ruefully, "is how this thing started."

On the way from Marshfield to Benton, about 200 miles, the expedition stopped at Mansfield and Wright bought 18 pounds of beef for the lionesses, who snarled at each other amiably as they devoured their luncheon.

Tomorrow morning at the island at Commerce, the expedition is to be joined by more reporters and photographers and by Wright's two sons, who have been waiting there for him. After that it looks like a swift finish for the animals.

One Cent a Day Brings $100 a Month

Over One-Half Million Dollars Already Paid in Cash Benefits.

One cent a day ($3.65 per year), invested in a National Protective Policy, will now buy more insurance benefits than can be secured from any other Company for any amount up to $10 per year.

This new policy, paying benefits up to $100 each month or $1,000 to $1,500 at death, is now being sold to all men, women and children, between the ages of 7 and 80 years, whether employed or not.

The benefits for auto accidents of $100 a month (instead of the usual $50 a month) is said by many to be alone worth the entire cost of $3.65 per year. Yet this is but one of the many features of this new and unusual policy.

The National Protective is the largest and oldest company of its kind in the world. It has paid over one-half million dollars in cash to thousands of its policyholders when cash was most needed.

YNTHETIC LION HUNT IS SET FOR THIS MORNING

ENE JUST EAST OF COMMERCE, MO.

y a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ENTON, Mo., Oct. 15.—Travel-ained and weary after more than 2 hours on the road from St. ouis, the Wright lion-hunting expedition arrived here tonight, with plans to loose its two caged lionesses tomorrow and track them down in the best South African manner.

It had been an arduous trip, especially for the lionesses, who howled dismally as the expedition neared the goal where they are to be turned out before the high-powered rifles of the expedition's marksmen.

Tomorrow morning, if everything goes all right, they will be taken on a ferry to a 40-acre island in the Mississippi in this county, just east of Commerce, Mo. and about 150 miles south of St. Louis. Here the ters under Denver M. Wright Brentwood, leather novelties dealer, intend to give them a fair start and hunt them to the death.

So the scene is set for a new kind of lion hunt. The late Theodore Roosevelt won fame by bringing back his lions neatly made up into rugs that became drawing-room stumbling blocks. Frank Buck, a hunter of the new school, follows the motto "Bring 'em back alive." But the watchword of Mr. Wright, who is also resourceful is "Take 'em out alive," then turns 'em loose see if you can shoot 'em.

Everybody in the expedition was high fettle Friday night—everybody, that is, except the lionesses when the truck bearing the party's quarry in a stout cage on a small truck set out from Wright's home 1618 Annelee avenue, Brentwood.

Zoo Proposal Overruled.

But before the caravan had gone far it was apparent there was a diversity of opinion about the disposition of the lions. A Post-Dispatch reporter who followed the party did not learn what the difference was until the hunters arrived early yesterday at Marshfield, about 20 miles northeast of Springfield, and about 150 miles west of the place where Wright had ned to hunt the lions.

At Marshfield it developed that O. W. Brinkmeyer, Maplewood plumbing contractor and owner of the truck that bore the animals in the cage, was against hunting them. The people of Southeast Missouri were against it, and, anyhow, the people of Springfield wanted the lionesses for the Zoo, so why not turn them over and let's all get back home?

Wright thought it over for a long time. Finally he reached a decision.

"Whatever I do now will make ridiculous," he said. "So we're ing on the lion hunt. I said I was going to have a lion hunt and that's what I am going to have."

And so the truck was swung eastward, and far off its original course, was started for Scott County, where Wright had intended to go in the first place.

"Those lions have made me do a lot of thinking," Wright told the correspondent as they resumed the trip. "In the first place, they were forced on me. A man who owned a circus got in touch with me and said he was broke. He had some lions to sell. I looked at them and said I wasn't interested.

"The next thing I knew he called me up and said he was sending them over. They were mine if I would pay the express charges— I got the lions. I advertised em for sale. No one wanted any lions. I tried to give them away. Still nobody wanted them. They were eating their heads off, so I decided to have a lion hunt. And that," somewhat ruefully, "is how this thing started."

On the way from Marshfield to Benton, about 200 miles, the expedition stopped at Mansfield and Wright bought 18 pounds of beef for the lionesses, who snarled at each other amiably as they devoured their luncheon.

omorrow morning at the island Commerce, the expedition is to be joined by more reporters and photographers and by Wright's two sons, who have been waiting there for him. After that it looks like a swift finish for the animals.

SWALLOWS TACK

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
BILLY BARHORST

BOY, 2, TAKEN TO HOSPITAL AFTER SWALLOWING TACK

X-Ray Reveals Small Nail, But Fails to Show Exact Location of It.

Billy Barhorst, 2 years and 9 months old, is at City Hospital with a tack inside him. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barhorst, 2721 Salena street, took him to the hospital about 8 o'clock last night, when he explained a choking spasms by telling them he had chewed on a nail.

An X-ray picture revealed the tack, but did not disclose definitely whether it was in the windpipe or esophagus. Billy seemed none the worse for his experience and the doctors decided to wait until today to make another effort to locate it.

The tack was one his father had dropped in putting up curtain rods in the Salena street house into which the family moved a few days ago.

LOW-PRICE INFORMAL OPERA OPENS IN CHICAGO STADIUM

Critics Describe Spectacle on Nine-Story Stage at 55 Cents to $2.20 as Unsurpassed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—With overalls or swallowtails admissible, as you like, and in an auditorium capable of seating 22,000, Chicago opened tonight its winter season of grand opera at admission prices of from 55 cents to $2.20.

The presentation was "Aida," and the scene the Chicago Stadium, where boxing championships have been won, a President nominated, wild west shows presented and hockey games played.

The stadium succeeds the skyscraper Civic Opera Building with its salmon pink walls and glittering promenade, which Samuel Insull, the deposed utility magnate, reared as the home of opera.

Maurice Frank, the New York entrepreneur staging the stadium opera, explained he believed the days of opera supported by the plutocratic Insulls and McCormicks had passed.

Sponsors of the opera declared they had spared no expense for the opening night. There was a cast of 350 persons including the Civic Opera Symphony Orchestra and such stars as Anna Leskaya, Russian soprano, formerly with the Philadelphia Opera Co., singing the title role; Ina Bourskaya, Polish contralto, and Martino-Rossi, former baritone of the Philadelphia and Cincinnati operas.

There was a stage nine stories high, 150 feet long and 60 feet deep. Critics described the costuming and scenery at a dress rehearsal last night as fully as gorgeous as any in their experience.

Those in charge said many of the socially elite had ordered tickets under assumed names. Opera at the stadium will be presented only Saturday nights.

Webster Groves Police Benefit.

The eighth annual Webster Groves Police Benefit Show will be held the week of Nov. 7 at the Ozark Theater, Webster Groves. Proceeds from the sale of tickets at 50 cents each will be turned into a fund to pay police insurance and rewards for information and arrests offered by the department.

Married 50 Years.

Mr. and Mrs. Sebastian Zipf, 3871A Humphrey street, will celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary tomorrow. They were married at SS. Peter and Paul Church. He is a retired employe of the Lafayette-South Side Bank and Trust Co. They have four sons.

STATE LEADERS AMONG 5000 AT WILSON FUNERAL

Services Held for Democratic Nominee for Governor at Home of Brother in Platte City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—More than 5000 persons today attended the funeral of Francis M. Wilson, Democratic nominee for Governor.

The services were held at the home of Mr. Wilson's brother.

The services were conducted from the front porch of the colonial home. The body lay in the flower-filled living room.

Dr. R. S. P. Wilson shared this home with his brother for years. Long ago the nearby home of Senator Wilson burned. His work as a lawyer and public official kept him a large part of the time in Kansas City, and he did not rebuild.

So many truckloads of flowers came today, servants scarcely could find a place for all of them.

Visitors came today for brief stops at the bier. Among those who viewed the remains today were Judge and Mrs. Guy B. Park. Judge Park, a member of the Platte County Circuit Court, is spoken of as the successor to Senator Wilson as the Democratic candidate for Governor. Judge Park lives in Platte City and was an old time friend of the Senator. Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, Democratic leader, also called.

E. H. Winter, Republican nominee for Governor, and Mrs. Winter, paid a visit of condolence. Mr. Winter said he and Mrs. Winter had been personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson for many years.

The business part of Platte City bore many marks today honoring the town's dead leader. In some store windows all commercial displays had been removed, and only the campaign poster bearing the picture and name of Mr. Wilson remained. The line, "Democratic candidate for Governor," had been cut off from the posters.

Mayor Walter L. Perry issued a statement closing the business district during the funeral hours.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Frank R. Maple, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at Savannah, Mo., assisted by the Rev. Louis S. Cupp of Kansas City, who married Mr. and Mrs. Wilson years ago. The Rev. Mr. Cupp is pastor of the Ivanhoe Park Christian Church, Kansas City.

Mr. Wilson was buried in the old Platte City graveyard, about one-fourth mile north of the town, where his parents and many of the Kentucky and Virginia families that emigrated to Platte County decades ago are buried.

SUFFERS SKULL INJURY WHEN AUTO HITS POST IN FOREST PARK

Roy Warren Riding With Richard Donnelly, Who Is Cut by Glass.

Roy Warren, 26 years old, residing at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., suffered a skull injury early yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding with Richard Donnelly, 1533 Hanley road, University City, ran into an iron post near Union and Theater drives in Forest Park. Donnelly, who was attempting to make a left turn, was cut by glass.

Abraham Moulton, a merchant of 821 Westgate avenue, University City, was cut on the head and body when his automobile overturned near Grand and Wells drives in Forest Park Friday.

Two children were injured when they ran from in front of parked automobiles into the paths of oncoming machines. Margaret Armstrong, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong, 1033 Theobald avenue, was struck near 8300 Hall's Ferry road by an automobile driven by Sylvester Gerber, 5436 Hodiamont avenue. Harold Siler, 4 years old, who ran into the street in front of his home, 4882 Anderson avenue, was hit by a machine driven by John J. Golden Jr., 4740 Anderson avenue. The child's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Print Siler. Both children suffered skull injuries.

SLAIN MINER

ANDREW GANIS

STRIKER who was shot when he was alleged to have resisted arrest by Illinois National guardsmen near Taylorville Thursday.

'MELLER' SHOW QUITS, DIRECTOR, CAST UNPAID

Little Theater Off Grand Folds Up After 7 Nights of "Ten Nights in Barroom."

"Ten Nights in a Barroom," played only seven nights in the Little Theater Off Grand Avenue, presenting old-time melodrama in a former garage at 3875 Washington boulevard, before it was closed yesterday without pay to the 11 members of the cast, Director Edward Butler and about eight other employes.

Butler said that Norman R. Schuermann, one of the backers of the show caused the closing when he announced that salaries would not be forthcoming, but Schuermann said, just before the scheduled performance last night, that he was unaware of the final curtain.

Butler said that Schuermann telephoned him at the stroke of noon, the hour for pay envelopes, and said, "Well, I guess we're through, I wish you luck." The director passed the word along to members of the cast, then in rehearsal for next week's show, "The Return of the Mariner." Like good troupers, they took it philosophically but loitered hopefully around the building for several hours.

"I just can't figure it out," said Director Butler, "the show was on the up grade and everybody seemed pleased with the performances. We had a chance for a break and then Schuermann quit. If I know anything about the show business, St. Louis was ripe for this sort of thing and I think it would have been a money-maker."

Butler said that on opening night, Oct. 8, the theater was filled nearly to capacity of 1400 persons and that while attendance dropped off for several nights it picked up promisingly later. For last night, he said, about $160 worth of reservations had been made. Butler is a grandson of the late Col. Edward Butler, one-time Democratic political boss in St. Louis. He is a magician of note and is well known in local theatrical circles.

"There'll be no show this evening," Miss Bernadette Hartmann, one of the employes, informed customers as they began coming to the ticket window shortly before 8 o'clock.

Schuermann, reached at his home at 3517 West place, said he had not ordered the closing and in fact did not know certainly that it had been closed. "I did not say the salaries would not be paid because that wasn't up to me. I was backer of the show only to the extent that I left my walkathon equipment there for use, although, of course, I would have profited if it was successful.

"I believe it was just that the show went as far as it could and that there was no more money. I understand someone tried to raise some money Saturday, but without success. If the show's closed, I guess I'm out of luck."

Last February Schuermann shot and killed his brother, John J. Schuermann, vice-president of the Schuermann Brothers' Realty Co.

10,000 EXPECTED TODAY AT BURIAL OF SLAIN MINER

Militia Takes Precautions for Policing Procession of Strikers at Taylorville, Ill.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Oct. 15.—With 10,000 striking miners expected here tomorrow for the funeral of one of their group, killed Thursday by a National Guardsman, military officers tonight were perfecting their plans for policing the funeral procession.

The funeral is that of Andrew Ganis, member of the Progressive Miners of America, an organization formed last August by members of the United Mine Workers of America who rebelled against the $5 basic wage scale which their union officials signed with the coal operators association of Illinois. Two mines of the Peabody Coal Co. here are being operated by men who remained with the old union, while the Progressive Union members, until last Thursday, picketed the mines in an attempt to close them.

After Ganis was fatally wounded, several other pickets were shot and more than 1000 were arrested and told to leave the county.

Picketing stopped. However, National guard officers view the lull as ominous, fearing a renewal of the guerilla warfare in which two guardsmen have been fired on by snipers and one has been beaten by a crowd of Progressive sympathizers.

The Ganis funeral will be held in Pawnee, 15 miles west of here in Sangamon County. Following services there, the body will be brought to Taylorville for burial in Oak Hill Cemetery, according to the latest announcement. Mount Olive Progressive Union members insist that the burial will be in the Miners' Cemetery there, but local officials of the Progressive Union reannounced tonight that interment will be in Oak Hill.

A publicity committee to publicize the Progressive Union's side of the mine controversy has been formed here with Ray Tombozzi as one of its active members. Tombozzi's first clash with authority was last August when he was arrested for walking in front of one of the Peabody mines with a large sign reading "Do unto others as you would be done."

He explained to reporters at that time that he had been a working miner until the day before when he heard rumors that he was a spy for the Peabody company. To dispel the rumors he prepared the sign, was arrested and has since become an active Progressive, although he holds no office in the new union.

Lists "Outrages" by Guardsmen.

Tombozzi yesterday issued several typewritten pages of complaints over the "outrages" which he asserts the National Guardsmen have committed recently. The complaint follows, in part:

"Richard Jones of Taylorville was hit on the head while standing on the front porch of his home. Frank Kmet of Nokomis was shot and hit. Andy Krechnyak of Staunton was shot in the right arm. Nick Carter was jabbed in the hip by militiamen. Earl Lee was taken to the county line and told never to come back to Christian County or that they would shoot his head off.

"Henry Nordness of Tovey, who is not a miner, and who has flat feet and kidney trouble, also rheumatism, was told to get running and he told the officers he was not able to run and was jabbed by a bayonet through his clothes and knocked down with a club and hit across the face.

"Edward Newman, Taylorville, was arrested by the militia because he wouldn't get in his house and continued to stand in his own yard.

"Lawrence Amidel, accordion player, had played for a dance. He was arrested coming home and held for two days.

"George Armstrong, Taylorville, was told on the night of Oct. 13 to go in the house or they would crush his head, and all night they flashed lights about the house.

"Mrs. John Fesser, Taylorville, had permitted a number of men to rest in her pasture and barn. The militiamen came down to her house, ran the men into the creek bottoms and shot them and beat them and then came back later on and went through her house and ordered every one out of the house and arrested some.

"Mrs. Velma Gondonoll runs a boarding house just one block from the public square. The militia came down to her house and ordered the men staying there to get off the porch and out of the yard or that they would throw tear gas at the house."

No Groups Allowed to Form.

The guardsmen have proceeded on the theory that "three's a crowd" and when three or more persons stop together on the public square where guards patrol constantly, they are ordered to move on. Those who do not obey immediately are arrested.

AFRICAN WITCH DOCTOR HELPS TO FIND SLAIN GIRL

Miss Stevenson Discovered Near Crater of Kenya Volcano—Woman Companion Also Killed.

By the Associated Press.

NAIROBI, Kenya, Africa, Oct. 15.—On the slopes of extinct Menangai volcano searchers, guided by the advice of a native witch doctor, today found the body of Miss Winifred Stevenson, a 20-year-old Glasgow girl, for whom they had been hunting for a week.

She had been missing since she went for an automobile ride with her fiance and a young woman friend. This friend, Miss Margaret Kepple, of Leeds, England, a chemist, was found shot dead, and Miss Stevenson's fiance, W. R. Ross, 20-year-old son of Maj. Ross, big game hunter, was charged with her murder.

Young Ross surrendered to the police when the body of Miss Kepple was found. He said he remembered nothing after starting on the ride with the two girls, and he did not know where his fiancee was.

Europeans organized an extensive hunt for Miss Stevenson. About 2000 persons participated in it, including every available white man and many natives. They were assisted by aviators.

On the advice of a native woman witch doctor the searchers finally concentrated their efforts near the crater of the volcano. The witch doctor was correct except in one matter. She said the girl would be found alive.

The body was hidden under leaves near the crater. It was discovered by police accompanied by young Ross. Police said the girl appeared to have been shot.

MESSENGER VANISHES; $6365 DEFICIT FOUND

Kansas City Judges Find Their Bank Accounts Depleted by Bad Checks.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—Officers of the Kansas City Court of Appeals today announced the disappearance of Wesley Ellington, trusted messenger, handy man and janitor, at the same time it was discovered that $6365 had been taken from the bank accounts of the judges.

Judge Henry L. Arnold's account at the First National Bank had been reduced $4000 by fraudulent checks. Judge Ewing C. Bland's account at the Commerce Trust Co. had lost $65 and that of L. F. McCoy, in the same bank, had been reduced by $2300.

Ellington had been with the court 20 years. For 15 years or so he had deposited checks, signed for bank statements and cashed checks.

Police said bank statements furnished the judges and clerk appeared to have been altered to show fictitious balances after they had appeared at the offices of the court.

Failure of the State Auditor to acknowledge receipt of a $595 check for fees started an investigation which led to a discovery of the shortage.

DRAWINGS OF FRENCH ARTIST AND TEXTILES AT ART MUSEUM

A collection of drawings by Jean Honore Fragonard, eighteenth century French artist, and a group of fine sixteenth and seventeenth century textiles have been placed on exhibition in the downstairs galleries at City Art Museum in Forest Park.

Fragonard's drawings are 25 of a series of 136 prepared to illustrate an edition of Ariosto's "Orlando Furioso," which was never published. They are in pencil with sepia washes and are considered excellent examples of the artist's power and imagination.

The textile group comprises 17 examples of brocades, damask, embroidery and applique, woven by Italian, Spanish and French workmen. Two striking pieces are an Italian church vestment in purple and yellow brocatelle, and another of Spanish origin in green damask.

The drawings will be at the museum until Nov. 28, and the textiles until Nov. 1.

TEXT OF HOOVER'S DEFENSE OF REPUBLICAN POLICIES DURING DEPRESSION

SAYS DEMOCRATIC CHARGES AS TO CAUSES ARE UNTRUE; LISTS STEPS TO AID LABOR

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 15.

FOLLOWING is the text of President Hoover's speech here tonight:

I SPOKE at Des Moines about agriculture. My remarks this evening will be largely directed to employment and to the wage and salary earners. I propose to review what the administration has done and the measures and policies it has in action together with the relation of these policies to those of our opponents. As President of the United States, I have the duty to speak to workers, but I have also a certain personal right to speak.

When I talk to you tonight about labor I speak not out of academic imaginings, but from sharp personal experience. I have looked at these human problems, not only from the fireside of one who has returned from a day's work with his own hands, but I know the problem that haunts the employer through the night, desperate to find the money with which to meet the week's payroll. In public service during years past I have had to look at these problems from the point of view of the national welfare as a whole.

The people of a free nation have a right to ask their Government, "Why has our employment been interrupted? What measures have been taken in our protection? What had been done to remove the obstacles from the return of our work to us?" They not only have a right to ask these questions, but to have an answer. I am here tonight to give that answer.

Repeats All Are in Same Boat.

During the past three years our economic system has received the most terrific shock and dislocation which, had not strong action been taken by your Government, would have imperilled the republic and the whole hope of recovery. It has affected business, industry, employment and agriculture alike. It is appropriate to repeat that while many of our measures are directed to the protection and assistance of particular groups, yet all are in the same boat and all must come to shore together. And how are they to get to shore? By listening to those who manifestly display a lack of knowledge of the character of the storm and of the primary problems of navigation? By boring holes in the bottom of the boat? By throwing overboard the measures designed to meet the storm and which are proving their effectiveness?

Replies to Democrats.

Our opponents have been going up and down the land repeating the statement that the sole or major origins of this disruption and this world-wide hurricane came from the United States through the wild flotation of securities and the stock market speculation in New York three years ago, together with the passage of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, which took place nine months after the storm broke.

I propose to discuss this assertion.

First—Because it can be proved absolutely untrue.

Second—Because the United States did not bring this calamity upon the world. The United States is not the oppressor of the world.

Third—Because it can be demonstrated to be founded upon a complete misunderstanding of what has happened in the world.

Fourth—Because any party which exhibits such a lack of economic understanding upon which to base national policies should not be trusted with the fate of 25,000,000 American families. They should not be trusted to command the battle against the most gigantic economic emergency with which our people have ever been confronted, and to bring that battle to victorious issue in the re-establishment of the functioning of our economic machine.

The War and Its Aftermath.

This thesis of the opposition as to the origin of our troubles is a wonderful explanation for political purposes. I would be glad, indeed, if all the enormous problems in the world could be simplified in such a fashion. If that were all that has been the matter with us, we could have recovered from this depression two years ago instead of fighting ever since that time against the most destructive forces which we have ever met in the whole history of the United States—and I am glad to say fighting victoriously.

Nowhere do I find the slightest reference in all the statements of the opposition party to the part played by the greatest war in history, the inheritances from it, the fears and panics and dreadful economic catastrophes which have developed from these causes in foreign countries, or the idea that they may have had the remotest thing to do with the calamity against which this administration is fighting day and night.

The leaders of the Democratic party appear to be entirely in ignorance of the effect of the killing or incapacitating of 40,000,000 of the best youth of the earth, or of the stupendous cost of war — a sum of $300,000,000,000, or a sum nearly equal to the value of all the property in the United States, or the stupendous inheritance of debt, with its consequent burden of taxes on scores of nations, with their stifling effect upon recuperation of industry and commerce or paralyzing effect upon world commerce by the continued instability of currencies and budgets.

European Political Instability.

Democratic leaders have apparently not yet learned of the political instability that arose all over Europe from the harsh treaties which ended the war and the constant continuing political agitation and creation of fear which from time to time paralyzed confidence.

They have apparently never heard of the continuing economic dislocation from the transfer on every frontier of great masses of people from their former economic setting.

They apparently have not heard of the continuing dislocation of the stream of economic life which has been caused by the cravings of 12 new nations from three old empires. These nations have a rightful aspiration to build their own separate economic systems; they naturally have surrounded themselves with tariffs and other national protections and have thereby diverted the long-established currents of trade. I presume, however, that if our Democratic leaders should hear of these nine new tariff walls introduced into the world some 14 years ago they would lay them at the door of the Smoot-Hawley bill passed 12 years later.

Increased Standing Armies.

They apparently have not heard of the increase of standing armies of the world from two to five million men, with consequent burdens upon the taxpayer and the constant threat to the peace of the world.

Democratic leaders apparently ignore the effect upon us of the revolution among 300,000,000 people in China or the agitations among 300,000,000 people in India or the Bolshevist revolution amongst 160,000,000 people in Russia. They have ignored the effect of Russia's dumping into the world the commodities taken from its necessitous people in a desperate effort to secure money with which to carry on—shall I call it—a new deal.

The Democratic leaders apparently have never heard that there has been gigantic over-production of rubber in the Indies, of sugar in Cuba, of coffee in Brazil, of cocoa in Ecuador, of copper in the Congo, of lead in Burma, over-production of zinc in Australia, over-production of oil from new discoveries in the United States, Russia, Sumatra and Venezuela; and likewise the effect of the introduction into the world of gigantic areas of new wheatlands in the Argentine and in Canada; new cotton lands in Egypt. In each and every case these enormous over-productions, far beyond consumption even in boom times, have crashed into the immutable law of supply and demand and brought inevitable collapse in prices and with it a train of bankruptcies and destruction of buying power for American goods.

Economic Strangulations.

They appear not to recognize that these forces finally generated economic strangulations, fears, and panic, the streams of which precipitated another long series of world-wide disasters.

The Democratic leaders apparently never heard that there followed revolutions in Spain and Portugal, Brazil, the Argentine, Chile, Peru, Ecuador, Siam, with attempts at revolution in a dozen other countries, resulting in their partial or practical repudiation of debt and the constant decrease in buying power for our goods.

They seem not to know that the further accumulation of all these causes and dislocations finally placed a strain upon the weakened economic systems of Europe until one by one they collapsed in failure of their gold standards and the partial or total repudiation of debts. They would hold the American people ignorant that every one of these nations in their financial crises imposed direct or indirect restrictions on the import of goods in order to reduce expenditures of their people. They call these "reprisals" against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill.

They apparently have never heard of the succeeding jeopardy in which our nation was put through these destructions of world commerce, or the persistent dumping of securities into the American market from these panic-stricken countries; the gigantic drains upon our gold and exchange; or the consequent fear that swept over our people, causing them to draw from our bank resources $1,500,000,000, all of which contracted credit, resulted in demand for payment of debts right and left, and thwarted our every effort for industrial recovery.

Yet in the face of all these tremendous facts, our Democratic friends leave the impression with the American people that the prime cause of this disaster was the boom in flotations and stock prices and a small increase in American tariffs.

Where Bubble Burst First.

Such an impression in unquestionably sought by the Democratic candidate when he says:

"That bubble burst first in the land of its origin—the United States. The major collapse abroad followed. It was not simultaneous with ours."

I do not underrate the distressing losses to millions of our people or the weakening of our strength from the mania of speculation and floation of securities, but I may incidentally remark that the State Governments have the primary responsibility to protect their citizens in these matters and that the vast majority of such transactions originated or took place in the State of New York.

But as to the accuracy of the statement I have quoted I may call your attention to a recent bulletin of the highly respected National Bureau of Economic Research, in which it is shown that this depression in the world began in 11 countries, having a population of 600,000,000 people, before it even appeared in our country, instead of the bubble having "first burst in the United States." Their report shows that the depression in eight other countries, with a population of another 600,000,000 people started at the same time with ours. In fact, the shocks from the continued economic earthquakes in these other countries carried our prices far below the values they would otherwise have sunk to, with all its train of greatly increased losses, perils, and unemployment.

No Democratic Jeremiahs.

Our opponents demand to know why the governmental leaders or business men over the world did not foresee the approach of these disintegrating forces. That answer is simple. The whole world was striving to overcome them, but finally they accumulated until certain countries could no longer stand the strain, and their people, suddenly overtaken by fear and panic, through hoarding and exporting their capital for safety, brought down their own houses and these disasters spread like a prairie fire through the world. No man can foresee the coming fear or panic, or the extent of its effect. I did not notice any Democratic Jeremiahs.

So much for the beginnings and forces moving in this calamity.

I now come to the amazing statements that the tariff bill of 1930 has borne a major influence in this debacle.

I quote from the Democratic candidate:

"The Hawley-Smoot tariff is one of the most important factors in the present world-wide depression."

"It has destroyed international commerce."

"The tariff has done so much to destroy foreign trade as to make foreign trade virtually impossible."

"A Collection of Dull Facts."

I shall analyze the accuracy of these statements not only because I should like to get before my countrymen a picture of the lack of understanding which the Democratic party has of world trade, but also for the further reason that it is of vital importance to labor that, as our opponents have this obsession, it means that if they are intrusted with control of our government they intend to break down the protective tariff which is the very first line of defense of the American standard of living against these new forces.

It requires a collection of dull facts to demonstrate the errors in these bald assertions by Democratic leaders.

At the beginning I may repeat that this tariff bill was not passed until nine months after the economic depression began in the United States and also not until 20 other countries had already gone into the depression.

The Democratic party seldom mentions that 66 per cent of our imports are free of duty, but that is the fact. From half to two-thirds of the trade of the world is in nondutiable goods—that is, mostly raw materials; another part is in luxuries, upon which all nations collect tariffs for revenue; another part, and probably less than one-third of the whole, is in competitive goods so far as the importing nation is concerned and therefore subject to protective tariffs.

Nondutiable Goods Down Too.

The trade of the world has distressingly diminished under the impact of these successive dislocations abroad. But the decrease is almost exactly the same in the free goods everywhere as in the dutiable goods. That is the case in the United States. If the Smoot-Hawley tariff reduced our imports of dutiable goods, what was it that reduced the two-thirds of nondutiable goods?

If we explore a little further, we would find from the Tariff Commission that the total duties collected in a comparable year represent 16 per cent of the total imports, this being an increase from 13.8 per cent of the previous tariffs. In other words, the effect of the new tariff shows an increase of 2.2 per cent. This is the margin with which they say we have pulled down foreign governments, created tyrannies, financial shocks, and revolutions.

I may mention that upon the same basis the McKinley duties were 23 per cent; the Dingley duties 25.8 per cent; the Payne-Aldrich duties were 19.3 per cent of the whole of our imports—all compared with the 16 per cent of the present tariff—and yet they produced in foreign countries no revolutions, no financial crises, and did not destroy the whole world, nor destroy American foreign trade.

And I may explore the facts still further. The five-year average of the import trade of the United States before the depression was about 12 per cent of the whole world import trade. Thus they would say that 2.2 per cent increase applied to one-eighth of the world's imports has produced this catastrophe.

I can explore this in still another direction. I remind you that we levy tariffs upon only one-third of our imports. I also remind you that the actual increases made in the Smoot-Hawley act covered only one-quarter of the dutiable imports I may also remind you that our import trade is only one-eighth of the import trade of the world. So they would have us believe this world catastrophe and this destruction of foreign trade happened because the United States increased tariffs on one-fourth of one-third of one-eighth of the world's imports. Thus we pulled down the world, so they tell us, by increases on less than 1 per cent of the goods being imported by the world.

And I may explore the responsibility of the tariffs still further. My opponent has said that it—

"Started such a drain on the gold reserves of the principal countries as to force practically all of them off the gold standard."

"America Not to Blame."

At Des Moines I defended the American people from this guilt. I pointed out that it happens there had been no drain of gold from Europe, which is the center of this disturbance, but on the contrary, that Europe's gold holdings have increased every year since Smoot-Hawley tariff was passed.

My fellow citizens, I could continue for hours in an analysis of mistaken statements and misinformation from the opposition. But I assure you that this country is not to blame for the catastrophes that have come to the world. The American people did not originate the age-old controversies of Europe. We did not inaugurate the great war or the panics in Europe.

No, my friends, the increase of duties collected by the United States by 2.2 per cent calculated on all the goods we import did not bring about the debacle in the world. If every country in the world were to increase the duty upon their imports by 2.2 per cent tomorrow, but if at the same time they would also adopt domestic policies which would bring about release of the energies and progress of their people—if they would maintain peace and good will toward their neighbor—if they would support confidence in the world, then the world's, as well as our own, international commerce, would thrive and boom beyond any dimensions that we ever dreamed of.

I dwell on this point, not only because I believe it is important to correct current misstatements of our opponents, but because the policies of our opponents are founded upon misconceptions of the utmost gravity for the future of the United States. If it were not a matter of such utter gravity for the future of the United States, I should treat them not in a sense of seriousness, but in a sense of humor.

There is a vital determination before the American people as to whether there shall be placed in power over the destinies of 120,000,000 of people a party which so lacks a penetration into the forces active in the world and the dangers and responsibilities that arise from them.

Record of Administration.

I now wish to examine the record and policies of the present administration in their relation to our wage and salary earners, for that record is made. There are 12 major measures and policies which we have put into action. They speak louder than any promises.

1. My first concern in dealing with the problems of these times, while fighting to save our people from chaos and to restore order in our economic life, has been to avert hunger or cold amongst those upon whom these blows have fallen with heart-breaking severity—that is the unemployed workers.

In the fall, 1931, we mobilized again, through co-operation with Governors and local communities, all the associations and agencies in the United States and carried a victorious battle over the winter 1931-32.

Still again during the past few weeks, I have co-operated with the great national agencies in the remobilization of the voluntary forces of the country for an attack on the forthcoming winter.

But fearing that the resources of individuals of the local communities and states were being exhausted, I settled with the Congress an authority to be given to the Reconstruction Corporation to loan a total of $300,000,000 to those states whose needs might be found greater than the voluntary associations and local authorities could provide. I had great difficulties with Democratic leaders to prevent this being made a pork-barrel operation rather than based upon need. Under that authority many millions have already been provided. We have provided, in addition, large quantities of wheat and cotton for their aid. There should be no fear or apprehension at any deserving American fireside that starvation or cold will creep within their doors to menace families and loved ones over the forthcoming winter.

Health at Highest Level.

With these three years of unceasing effort in relief and by the patriotic service of our citizens and local communities and public officials, the stimulus and mobilization that we have been able to give through the use of the presidential office, we present to the world a record unparalleled in any other nation. That is a record expressed in technical terms yet interpretable in sheer human sympathy. That record is the information furnished to me constantly by the Surgeon-General of the public health service, which shows, down to this latest moment, that the adult mortality, infant mortality are at the lowest rate on record, and the general health of the American people is at a higher level today than ever before in the history of our country. I know that there are exceptions and that there is suffering which always arises in communities where their organization is less efficient than it should be. Even so no such record could be established if the nation's unemployed were starving and without shelter.

Yet some say that things could not be worse. Had these actions not been taken they would be a thousand times worse.

Labor and Industry.

2. In November, 1929, I assembled in Washington representatives of the leading employers, together with representatives of organized labor, and here we developed certain plans for dealing with this emergency. I believe this can be truly said to have been the first time in history that the Government has taken the leadership in securing an understanding between industry and labor of the complete mutuality of their interest in the face of national danger.

We worked out on that occasion many purposes.

The first was to uphold the standards of real wages, the second was to uphold the buying power of our working people until the cost of living had diminished. The third was to prevent that thing which had happened in every previous depression in our history, and that was an immediate attack upon wages as a basis of maintaining profit. This proposal had the sympathetic support of the employers of the country and for nearly two years they maintained the standard of wages in the United States. They maintained them in the face of disappearing profits. As the depression grew more severe there have been readjustments, but these readjustments have come about by agrement between employer and employe after profits were exhausted and the cost of living had been reduced. As a result of these efforts we have had the astonishing spectacle of a country in which there have been less strikes and industrial conflict, with all their bitterness, than even in normal times. The fourth of these undertakings made on this occasion was that the employers faced with the necessity for reducing staffs would stagger their employment. Instead of discharging a portion of workers into complete disaster, they would spread the remaining employment over the whole of their employes. That has been done on a wide scale in the manufacturing industries, and millions have continued with some income who otherwise would have been destitute. At a later date I secured the establishment of a definite organization which has been engaged for many months in the conduct of a campaign throughout the country for the adaption of these principles to office and service institutions. This has already resulted in much expansion of employment and relief of distress in those occupations.

Expenditures for Equipment.

The fifth of the undertakings made in 1929 was that manufacturers, railroads and utilities would expand their construction of new equipment beyond their present needs in order to maintain employment to the utmost of their capacity. A vast sum of money was expended in these directions during the first year of the depression. Some months ago I secured the interest of employers in organization of a new campaign to replace obsolete equipment and machinery. This also will result in expansion of employment. As I have said, when history records this depression, it will record no brighter chapter in the whole history of the United States than the approach to this problem by both employers and leaders of labor in humanity and a sense of social responsibility. To them I pay high tribute. In the face of these actions and these results let no man say that it could not be worse. If it had not been for these actions, this country would have been fired with the flames of bitterness and conflict between workers and employers, millions more would have been without jobs, wages would have been reduced far below their present levels.

"Eggs Have Hatched."

3. Day before yesterday my opponent announced a plan "to set up in times of prosperity what might be called a nest-egg to be used for public works in time of depression." He says "that is a policy which we should initiate when we get back to good times." He advances this apparently as a brand new idea. Now it will doubtless surprise him to learn that the eggs have not only been laid, but have hatched.

He either ignores or is ignorant of the fate that as far back as 1922, in our unemployment conference of that year under my chairmanship, we developed the idea of making use of public works to assist in the stabilization of employment in times of depression, and laid the foundation for its operation.

Upon the breaking out of this depression in November, three years ago, I announced that not only would the Federal Government speed up its public works, but I requested the states and municipalities to do likewise. During the year 1930, we not only maintained these types of construction work, but stimulated it to above normal, to an amount of $500,000,000 to $800,000,000. The wide extent and pressure of the depression, however, rapidly cut into the construction work of many states and municipalities. We, however, have held Federal construction work up to three times its normal. By the end of this fiscal year we will have expended nearly $2,400,000,000 of Federal money on construction and maintenance work since the depression began. Do you not think things could have been worse if these policies had not been adopted?

Wastes of National Wealth.

There has proved to be a limitation, however, on this, and that limitation is that the Federal Government should not and must not undertake projects which are not productive of value to the community and must not extend its liabilities beyond its ability to maintain a balanced budget. To take money from the taxpayer and thus decrease his ability to employ people himself, and to put it into public works which will never ma

waste of national wealth and a

Already the corporation has authorized the starting of works, the ultimate cost of which will exceed $400,000,000. The installation of these works will be productive in living for literally thousands of families.

Spread of Employment.

5. It is obvious that, in addition to the great dislocations which we had received by the demoralization of governments and markets abroad, there was also another economic force moving for which there must be a remedy. That was the so-called technological unemployment. In plain terms, our inventions of labor-saving machinery have outrun our discoveries of new commodities and new services upon which to absorb the men thus discharged from the older industries. In order to bring the Government into line with these facts, upon my recommendation to Congress the shorter hours were applied effectually to Government service in order that we should spread Government employment over the largest possible numbers and yet decrease Government expenses.

6—There is an agency of protection which we have created which has been near to my heart over many years. That has been the establishment of better opportunity for our people to purchase their own homes and to have a chance to keep them when they have undertaken this great step in life. In November of last year I propounded a plan for a national system of home loan banks. These banks were for the purpose, with the temporary assistance of the Government, of mobilizing the resources of building loans, savings banks and other institutions devoted to home ownership to enable them to borrow collectively on more favorable terms from the investor, and to assure to the borrower long term payments at more reasonable rates. The literally thousands of heart-breaking instances of inability of working people to attain renewal of expiring mortgages on favorable terms, with the consequent loss of their homes, have been one of the tragedies of this depression. Had the Democratic House of Representatives acted upon this measure at the time of its recommendation, we would have saved hundreds of thousands of these tragedies.

Gives Owner Fighting Chance.

I finally secured the passage of that bill through the Congress. Those banks will be operating by the end of this month. The system is not as perfect as I should wish, yet it has already had one immensely beneficial effect, and there will be others. The anticipation of its aid has largely stopped foreclosing on homes, and with its operation it should enable every man who wants to make a fight to hold on to his home an opportunity to do so.

And there is another purpose in setting up this new institution. Despite the tendency of the people in some communities to huddle in depression, and therefore to create many vacant dwellings, yet there are other communities where people today wish to build homes but cannot do so because they cannot borrow a portion of the cost. Text of Hoover's Defense of G. O. P.

Summary of Hoover's 12-Point Policy to Aid Wage Earner

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 16.

The following is a summary of the 12 measures and policies listed by President Hoover as the record of his administration in relation to wage and salary earners:

1.—Mobilization of national and local relief agencies; appropriation of $300,000,000 for loans to states; and distribution of Farm Board wheat and cotton.

2.—Calling of a conference of employers and labor to uphold wages and buying power "until the cost of living had diminished."

3.—Use of public works to assist in the stabilization of employment which by the end of this year he said will total $2,400,000,000.

4.—Appropriation of $1,500,000,000 for construction of public and private works of a reproductive character which he asserted had already resulted in starting works the ultimate cost of which will be $400,000,000.

5.—Application of shorter hours to the Government service to spread employment.

6.—Creation of a system of home loan banks, the anticipation of which he said has "largely stopped foreclosing on homes."

7.—Advocacy of high wages as "the economic basis for the country."

8.—Protection of the American market for American labor by the maintenance of a protective tariff.

9.—Prohibition by executive order of all immigration except relatives of American residents.

10.—Preservation of the integrity of the American dollar, "in order that we might protect the working people of the United States."

11.—Restoration of normal jobs through the maintenance of credit.

12.—Efforts to improve American markets by improving the internal stability of other nations and freeing the world from political shocks, including a proposal for reduction of armaments, participation in the development of a world economic conference, and opposition to cancellation of war debts.

These institutions by furnishing this capital will give renewed employment to many thousands of people.

7. I have for many years advocated high wages as the economic basis for the country. That is the road to economical production and high consumption of products of the farm and factory.

Bread and Butter Comparison.

Those who say that things could not be worse speak without knowledge of what has happened in other countries which have gone through this cataclysm. In order to show you what the rates of wages are in the United States compared with other countries I have this week secured through the Department of Commerce a calculation on a basis which I have used before for purposes of illustration. The actual wages in terms of the currencies of other countries are difficult to compare. We must find a common denominator.

If we say that 5 per cent of butter and 95 per cent of flour form the basis of that useful mixture called "bread and butter," then the weekly earnings in each country would buy at retail in those countries the following totals of this useful compound:

Weekly wages if applied to the purchase of "composite pounds of bread and butter" as of October, 1932.

Further Discussion of Tariff.

8. I wish for a moment to return to the tariff. There is no measure in the whole economic gamut more vital to the American workingman and the farmer today than the maintenance of a protective tariff. I stand on that principle of protection. Our opponents are opposed to that principle. They propose "a competitive tariff for revenue." They propose to do this in the face of the fact that in the last year currencies of competing nations have depreciated by going off the gold standard and consequently wages have been lowered in 30 competing countries. This is a flat issue which every farmer and workman in the United States should consider from the point of view of his home and his living.

That it is the intention of the Democratic candidate to reduce the tariffs—on all commodities—must be clear from these typical expressions in respect to the present tariff used in this campaign—"wicked and exorbitant tariff," "its outrageous rates," "almost prohibitive tariffs," "the notorious and indefensible Smoot-Hawley tariff," "the excessive rates of that bill must come down," "until the tariff is lowered," "our policy calls for lower tariffs."

Do you want to compete with laborers whose wages in his own money are only sufficient to buy from one-eighth to one-third of the amount of bread and butter which you can buy at the present rates of wages? That is a plain question. It does not require a great deal of ingenious argument to support its correct answer. It is true we have the most gigantic market in the world today, surrounded by nations clamoring to get in. But it has been my belief—and it is still my belief—that we should protect this market for our own labor; not surrender it to the labor of foreign countries as the Democratic party proposes to do.

Immigration Prohibited.

9. In order ot hold the jobs we have for our own people and to prevent further additions to our unemployed and thus prevent further burdens upon our communities, I have by administrative order practically prohibited all immigration from every quarter of the globe except the relatives of our residents. It has reduced the numbers of people coming into the United States seeking employment to less than those who are departing. That order was issued two years ago. Had the net immigration taken place since the date of that order which took place in the two years previous, we would have had 400,000 jobs taken from our people or had just that many persons added to our unemployed. That might have been worse.

10. There is nothing in which the American workman is more concerned than in preserving the integrity of the American dollar. The Democratic party his at various times, and specifically by the passage of the Patman bill by the Democratic House of Representatives on June 15 last, endeavored to undermine the integrity of the American currency through the issue of $2,300,000,000 of greenbacks—harking back to the disastrous experience of 60 years ago. If any of you will study what happened in Germany, or France, or Austria, or any other European country when they resorted to these measures in order to meet their immediate difficulties, you will find that the major hardship fell upon the working people. There was a time when the value of the German mark was five to the dollar. They tried this plan of relief. I have in my desk a five-million mark note which before the entrance into these processes would have been worth one million dollars, and yet which I bought for actually one dollar. The effect of their experiment was a subtle and steady reduction of real wages, right and left.

We have fought a great battle to maintain the stability of the American dollar, the stability of its exchange, in order that we might protect the working people of the United States.

Normal Jobs Big Problem.

11. Over and above and of infinitely more importance than all these measures I have mentioned is the problem of restoring the great mass of normal jobs in the country. Emergency jobs have helped enormously, but the normal jobs are the permanent dependence of the worker. Emergency jobs will never heal the depression.

Obviously the normal jobs lie in the production and distribution of goods and services; in other words, the factories, the mills, the mines, the railways, the public utilities, the stores, the offices.

And every part of this mechanism is lubricated by what we call credit. That is, the ability of the manager of a business to borrow money to buy his raw materials and to pay his labor. This credit is the very life-blood of this whole structure. It is the life-blood of jobs. If credit fails, the enterprise dries up; it withers or it dies. And jobs decrease or disappear.

And what is the source of credit? The savings of the people themselves. These are gathered in a myriad of tiny rivulets of their deposits in the banks, their premiums to life-insurance companies, their dues to benevolent fraternal organizations, their payments to building and loan associations, and a score of other ways. These rivulets in total volume are a mighty river. Their waters are stored in credit reservoirs. These are the banks, mortgage companies, the insurance companies, investments in the services of industry and business.

Credit Born of People.

Thus credit is born of the people themselves. What the people give, the people can take away. The reservoirs of credit are built upon the confidence of the people in them. Fear is death to credit.

When the great economic earthquakes abroad struck directly at the credit structures of those foreign countries, the shocks reverberated to us. I have already said foreigners dumped their securities here at panic prices and demanded gold in payment. They claimed their deposits from American banks. They demanded cash for all goods they had sold us. Our own people in fear drew out $1,500,000,000 of their savings from our own banks.

Thus credit began to dry up. The managers of business turned in vain for the accustomed loans to buy raw materials and to pay their labor.

Beyond all this contraction of credit was the fear and panic through the world, spreading its destruction into the United States. It imperiled the institutions in which were the savings of every fireside—bank deposits or insurance policies or investments. In this contraction of credit lay dangers to everyone who owed money, for upon demand for immediate payment he was compelled to sell his property in a limited and vastly depreciated market and so was threatened with ruin.

"Battle Is Being Won."

Faced with these unprecedented perils, we took unprecedented steps. We refused to allow these destructive forces to run their course to chaos and ruin. We organized the co-operation of the community; we thrust the strength of the Government as a shield before the people as has never been done before in the history of all time.

I have referred to these gigantic measures on other occasions. I will not take your time again to describe the weapons and instrumentalities we have brought to bear in this battle. We created them, and we created them to preserve your savings deposits, your insurance policies; to protect you from foreclosure on your homes. We did it to hold for you the jobs you have, and, finally to recover the ground lost in the battle and restore the jobs which have been lost. It has been a battle with inevitable casualties, but that battle is now being won. Credit is being expanded, and normal jobs are coming back.

These agencies are working day and night. They are producing results. September alone shows an increase of 3.6 per cent in employment for the whole country. If these policies shall be uninterrupted, if we shall hold the financial integrity of the United States by maintaining a balance in our budget, these measures and the courage and industry of our people will bring back our economic system a long way toward its normal functioning and the restoration of our people to their jobs.

Let no man say that things could not have been worse. Without these many measures, things would have been so much worse that today would look like prosperity in retrospect.

Arms Cuts and Buying Power.

12. It must be clear to you and clear to the country that a major part of the shocks and dislocations which have brought this destruction are of foreign origin. They are not of American making; but by the fact that we have suffered from them it is implied that labor and agriculture have a fundamental interest in securing greater stability abroad. Our self-containment is such that we can build back a long way on our own resources. But if it is possible to improve the internal stability of other nations, it would at once allow them to relax their emergency restrictions against exchange and the import of commodities; it would allow them to return to stable currencies and enable the world to be free from political shocks—all of which build for American markets for the American farmer and for American labor. It would protect the American worker and farmer and business man from the rising flood of goods due to depreciated currencies and lowered standards of living. To this major end, which means work for our unemployed and increased prices for our farmers, we have given great devotion over the past year.

As the first direction to strike at the root of such evils I have proposed that the armaments of the world should not only be cut by one-third but that the weapons and methods in use should be so altered as to increase the power of defensive weapons and decrease the power of offensive weapons. We not only thereby seek to remove fear and political shocks but the substantial acceptance of this proposal would save the United States over $200,000,000 annually and through savings of taxation in European countries would increase their buying power by probably a billion dollars a year. It would release a thousand energies among their people.

"Paying Europe's Debts."

Further, we have taken part in the development of a world economic conference to be held later in the year to consider a multitude of monetary and other economic questions which will reduce the obstacles to recovery.

In this connection, with all these problems, the European war debts to the United States constantly arise. I have consistently opposed cancellation of these debts. The Democratic candidate, to use his own words, proposes to reduce our tariffs so that out of Europe's profits through the increased trade they would obtain from us Europe would pay us these debt annuities. That is vastly worse than cancellation. This would take money out of the pockets of the farmer, laborer and business man to pay Europe's debts.

In the constructive handling of this question I have said that I would favor the utilization of war debts to advantage agriculture and labor. Such action has received support of many leaders of labor and agriculture.

TEXT OF HOOVER'S DEFENSE OF G. O. P. POLICIES IN DEPRESSION

I am confident that if these policies which we are proposing in building up these three directions—that is, disarmament, economic stabilization of the world, and the proposed use of these debts to secure the ends I have mentioned—I believe we can confidently hope to promote more rapid recovery, and that we can greatly safeguard ourselves from future economic shocks.

And that is the record of organization and measures in aid to labor. It is radical in its defense of our people's interests; it is progressive in constructive advancement of our people; it is conservative in maintaining the fundamental principles of American life.

Replies to "Coolie Charge."

I should like to digress for a moment to a more personal matter. In my hand I have a copy of the instructions issued by the Democratic National Committee to their speakers. I find a paragraph referring to my "dark labor record." I am glad that is neither pink nor red. But they say: "First and indelibly his early record is clouded by his former partnerships which contracted cheap Chinese coolie labor in South African mines." It goes further with references to statements of Democratic leaders grieving over this coolie labor and implies that I engaged in the slavery of human beings.

This calumny has been disproved and denounced time and again. Some of my friends have even gone to the extent of digging up the public records of 28 years ago, which show that at the time Chinese labor was imported into South Africa, I publicly protested on the grounds that high-paid skilled labor would do the work more efficiently, and further, no South African concern with which I was ever connected ever employed a single Chinese laborer. But more important than this, I happen to have in the files in Washington, from the man who first penned those lies, a statement under oath, humbly and abjectly withdrawing them.

Such contemptible statements in a political campaign would be ignored were it not that they were issued by the authority of the Democratic National Committee, and they would be of no interest to the American people except that it is proposed that a political party shall be placed in power over one hundred and twenty millions of people on the basis of votes secured in this manner.

Assails Democratic Record.

I should like a moment also, shortly, to indicate the Democratic record of action during this trying period.

The Democratic party has laid before the country its program both in the last session of Congress and in the promises of its candidates.

At no time in the history of the United States have we required more constructive statesmanship than in the past two years. The Democratic party in the last congressional election promised a definite program for restoration of the country. That program was not disclosed until 18 months later in the House of Representatives, which they controlled. Aside from the patriotic support of some of their members to our program, the organized program of their party was evidenced by passage through the House of a series of bills which had to be stopped either by veto or successful opposition in the Senate through public support. These bills consisted of an omnibus pension bill; of an order to the Federal Reserve Board and the Treasury to fix prices in the United States, which they could not physically carry out; of a $1,200,000,000 pork-barrel public works bill; of payment of a cash bonus to veterans of $2,300,000,000; of the issuance of $2,300,000,000 of old-fashioned greenbacks, which I have referred to; of the destruction of the effectiveness of the Tariff Commission, and of placing the United States Government into direct and personal banking on a stupendous scale.

Willing for Comparison.

Instead of decreasing Government expenditures, as they are assuring the country that they will do if they are given full control of the Government, they failed to accept the recommendation of the administration for reduction of expenditures, and on top of it they passed measures which would have increased our expenditures by $3,500,000,000.

We are willing to rest our case upon comparison with these records of actual performance — not upon promises.

In closing, let me carry these issues to a plane far above all personal considerations. I have discussed with you tonight the battles we have fought, the measures and policies we have in action which more particularly relate to those who work at the bench and at the desk. Parallel with these actions other battles have been fought on a score of fronts, in behalf of agriculture, industry and business, to which the welfare of every worker is indissolubly related.

But One End to Serve.

"We have been fighting, not only as an administration but as a people, to relieve distress, to repel impending catastrophes, to restore the functioning of our economic life. This economic system has but one end to serve. That end is not the making of money. It is to create security in the millions of homes of our country, to produce increasing comfort, to open wider the windows of hope, to increase the moral and spiritual stature of our people, to give opportunity for that understanding upon which national ideals and national character may be more and more strengthened.

In securing these ends the first necessity is to preserve those previous heritages and principles which have come down to us forged in the fires of long generations of Americans. Principles and institutions which, while they have the imperfections of humanity, yet represent the highest expressions of human attainment in thousands of years.

And to me a great historical truth has been revealed during this period of trial and stress. This is the striking fact, driven home above all others, that never during these trying weeks, months and years has the soul of America yielded to the bitter sting of defeat. Bewilderment and dismay seized upon some of our people, but never did the spirit of America itself surrender. Never for an instant did the American people lose faith in the principles of their government, their institutions, their country, or their God. Had America not stood stanch in this world storm; had it surrendered; had our people lost faith, the tide of disintegration might now engulf us all.

"Intangible, Mighty Forces."

It has been the intangible and mighty forces of this unconquerable spirit of the nation that has overcome the dangers and perils which might have plunged the world in a long period of chaos. Incessant above the storms in business, above the din of political debate and legislative battle, there has been the firm, strong voice of the people bidding that we should carry on.

No one who has seen this battle as I have seen it, who has watched the bright fabric of recovery woven laboriously from day to day, with the stout efforts of American faith and confidence in their people, could harbor a doubt for the future of this nation.

If there shall be no retreat, if the attack shall continue as it is now organized, then this battle is won.

DEMOCRATS SEEM SURE TO SELECT PENDERGAST'S MAN

argued that his failure to direct a grand jury investigation of the Green Hills Club, a gambling resort, and a horse race track, in Platte County, within his jurisdiction as Circuit Judge, would weaken him with rural voters.

In support of Dearmont, the claim has been advanced that he has a strong organization built up in the primary, is widely known in the State, and would attract to the ticket many thousands of votes of independents.

The candidates for State offices, in choosing between the boss and Dearmont from the standpoint of practical politics, were facing the dilemma of going with the boss and losing maybe 50,000 votes, or going against the boss and risking his displeasure and the possibility that he would bolt the ticket and throw his influence to the Republican candidates.

That Pendergast would knife the Democratic ticket is hardly conceivable. Practical politics, if nothing else, would dictate to him that if beaten he should support the ticket and attempt to strengthen his organization to win the next time. But his lieutenants have encouraged the circulation of a report that it would be party suicide to antagonize the boss.

The candidates on the State ticket seemingly have come to the conclusion that it is better to risk antagonizing the unorganized independent vote than to go against the boss who alone controls nearly twice as many votes.

The action of the committee in nominating a candidate for Governor can easily mean success or defeat for the Democratic State ticket. It was apparent all over the state that with Wilson heading a Pendergast State ticket, the local nominees were going to run far behind Roosevelt.

In view of the Roosevelt sentiment, as it appeared to be, Democratic politicians saw the possibility of a majority of as high as 150,000 for him in Missouri, but they were not able to foresee more than half as big a majority as that for Wilson and the State ticket.

Most of them realized that Missouri has been rather consistently Republican in presidential elections for 30 years, Woodrow Wilson being the only Democratic candidate for President to carry it in that time. It has been roughly figured there were some 30,000 or 40,000 more Republicans than Democrats in the State.

While it appeared this had changed for this election and that Roosevelt would be far in the lead, there was no assurance that the change would extend to the State ticket.

Ballot Scratching in 1928.

The number of Republicans voting for Roosevelt who would vote their regular party ticket on other offices was problematical. In a landslide election there is always a large number of voters who vote the whole ticket straight, but the last election demonstrated that in Missouri a very large element of the voters do not hesitate to scratch the ticket. Hoover carried the State by 172,000, but the majority of the Republican candidate for Governor was only slightly in excess of 50,000. That's how much scratching of ballots there was in that election.

If it should be that the Roosevelt majority had been overestimated and that it was not over 60,000 to 75,000, the loss of the independent vote to the Democratic local ticket might mean the election of the Republican State candidates.

The nomination of a Pendergast candidate would fit well into the Republican campaign plans. The whole force of the Republican campaign for Lieutenant-Governor Winter against Wilson was that Wilson was a boss nominee, and that Democratic success in the State would mean control of the State by Pendergast. As against an anti-boss candidate this campaign plan would be worthless. As against a boss-nominee it would be continued.

Boss-Picked Candidate.

From the anti-Pendergast group the argument has been advanced that the Republican campaign plan would be more effective against a candidate named by the State Committee than against Wilson who was nominated, in the primary, the theory being that nomination of a boss candidate by the committee would officially commit the party to Pendergast domination.

But Pendergast has indicated that he has no intention of relieving the party of its embarrassment. His organization leaders take the position that opposition must be crushed and that his candidate must be named.

While it may have been that in the beginning Pendergast brought Judge Park out as a stalking horse, the opposition may have put the boss into the fighting mood to bring about his nomination in preference to any other. Pendergast so far has not publicly committed himself to Park's nomination, but his lieutenants have, and they do not act without orders. Pendergast still could switch to Stark or any dark horse he chose. But at this stage of the preliminaries it looks like he will stick to Park.

The committee will meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the Capitol. The only business of importance before it is the nomination of a candidate for Governor, and, if no deadlock develops, the nomination should be made by noon.

SAYS INSULL MADE HIS FIRM ASSUME FRIENDS' LOSSES

Prosecutors Aid Reports "Favored Few," Speculated, Mississippi Valley Utility Paid Bill.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Evidence that an Insull company assumed large losses to make good on stock investments made by close business associates of Samuel Insull was disclosed today at the office of State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

Information obtained by John J. Bailey, financial expert of the State's Attorney's office, indicated, it was said, that the favored few were permitted to speculate in stock with money of the Insull firms and that, when the market slumped, the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment Co., an Insull firm, took over their losses.

State's Attorney Swanson was not surprised when the State Department declined to issue the presidential warrant for Insull's extradiation from Greece for which his two assistants, Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos, applied today in Washington. He said he was aware the two prosecutors were not in possession of sufficient evidence when they left here for Washington. He explained:

"They were sent at this time to keep abreast of the situation there and to become acquainted fith the red tape necessary to obtain a President's warrant."

He said that a deposition to be obtained next week from Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of the Middle West Utilities Co., would establish a prima facie case.

Bailey, Swanson's financial assistant, in explaining how extraordinary favoritism was shown to friends of Insull, mostly officers in his compaines, said:

"These people were allowed to buy all kinds of stocks of the Insull group with money from various Insull companies. The accounts were carried as special investment accounts. When the stock began to decline to the point where the market values were lower than the companies' investments for these individuals, the accounts were charged into the investment accounts of the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investments Co., and were closed out under a post-dated journal entry.

"Some of these entries dated back six months, so as to give an impression that the various securities held in these investment accounts would have a value somewhere near the market value as of the date specified in the entry."

$2,509 AWARDED IN 18TH ST. WIDENING TO BUTLER HEIRS

Court Orders Payment for Property at Northeast Corner of Eighteenth and Market.

Payment of a damage award of $2,509 to the Butler Estate Securities Co. was ordered by Circuit Judge Hoffmeister yesterday from a fund of $197,513.20 which was deposited in court by the city in the condemnation suit for the widening of Eighteenth street between Chestnut street and a point 224 feet south of Walnut street.

The award was for property owned by the company at the northeast corner of Eighteenth and Market streets, part of which was condemned on account of the widening project. The Butler Estate Securities Co., represented by Attorney Forest P. Tralles, is owned by heirs of the late Edward Butler, contractor and Democratic politician.

The balance of the fund, which was deposited last week, will be disbursed on account of property owned by the St. Louis Brewing Association, which was awarded net damages totaling $60,000, and the Martin Israel Hotel & Realty Co., whose net damage award was $55,004. Eighteenth street is to be widened between the points mentioned near the Union Station from 60 to 80 feet, a distance of two and a half blocks.

G.O.P. CONTRIBUTED TO SLUMP, SAYS DAVID I. WALSH

Massachusetts Senator at Belleville Says Administration Failed to Check Inflation Orgy.

United States Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, addressing a Democratic mass meeting in Belleville last night, discussed what he said was the Republican argument in the present campaign. "The Republican thesis," he said, "is that the lunge downward in the economic cycle was an act of God, but that the climb up again, present and prospective, is a Republican party achievement.

"The Democratic party," he said, "does not contend that Republican blundering, and worse, is the sole or even the primary cause of all our present economic ills. We do not contend that the administration, when one disaster on top of another came upon us, stood idly by and left us to our fate. There can be no doubt that during the past year the President, within the limit of his capacity, has made every effort to stem the tide, and to bring back a semblance of prosperity which might tip the scales in his favor on election day.

"What we do contend is that the Republican administration assisted and contributed to the orgy of inflation, speculation and over-production, the get-rich-quick era, that preceded the debacle, and that much of our present suffering is the direct consequence of the preceding era of frenzied finance and false prosperity. That they approved and boasted of a prosperity and financial policies that we now know was unsound, if not dishonest and destructive of the public welfare, is beyond dispute.

"We also contend that when the cyclone hit us, the administration, though amply warned, was wholly unprepared, was woefully belated in formulating any effective and adequate relief, blundered badly at almost every turn, and in the adoption of the present emergency aids to our situation, was driven rather than led."

Senator Walsh was in St. Louis yesterday, and was scheduled for a political address at the City Club at luncheon, but this was canceled because of the funeral of Francis M. Wilson, Democratic nominee for Governor. In an interview, Walsh conceded that he had found more anti-Hoover than pro-Roosevelt sentiment.

"If you condemn the Republican administration in a speech," he said, "you get tremendous applause. If you praise Democrats, the audiences do nothing. I was in Illinois before going to Detroit, and I am surprised at the extent of the farm revolt. Senator Johnson is merely vocalizing the feeling of protest of tens of thousands of Republicans, when he says he will not support Hoover."

Although the latest announcement of the Literary Digest straw vote gives Hoover 49,543 votes in Massachusetts and Roosevelt, 28,526, Walsh asserted that Roosevelt was likely to carry the Bay State. There are many anti-Hoover Republicans there, he asserted, and, while there has been much talk of disaffection among Al Smith's followers in the Democratic ranks, he discounts it.

LEADERS WONDERING IF PENNSYLVANIA WILL STAY IN G. O. P. COLUMN

normal Republican majority," for the Hoover-Curtis ticket. He admits that Hoover will not get the 2 to 1 vote he received four years ago because of the lower registration this year, but he declares there is no cause for alarm.

G. O. P. Leaders Not Optimistic.

Unofficially and confidentially, the Republican leaders are not so optimistic. They frankly admit that seven of 10 Republican representatives will be defeated, and they confess, somewhat shamefacedly, that "Puddler Jim" Davis may receive a larger vote than the President. The reason for the latter prediction is that the Democratic senatorial candidate is an unknown lawyer who accepted the nomination just to fill out the ticket. A strong candidate, the Republicans say, could easily defeat "Handshaking Jim" and might carry the presidential candidate with him.

When these Republican leaders are asked about the various straw votes going against them they start to talk earnestly about "the organization." Immediately arise the questions: Will "the organization" go down the line for President Hoover? Can "the organization" deliver the vote this year?

The Pennsylvania "organization" is really composed of four machines—the Vare machine in Philadelphia, the Mellon machine in Pittsburgh, the Pinchot machine in Harrisburg, and former Senator Joseph R. Grundy's financial fat-frying machine that operates throughout the State. These machines have not been co-operating in the last few years. It remains to be seen whether they will forget their individual dislikes, and work effectively for the re-election of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis.

William Vare, the Philadelphia ward boss who aspired to be a United States Senator, has few reasons besides his Republicanism to work for Hoover's re-election. He has convinced himself that he was responsible for Hoover's nomination at Kansas City in 1928. He outsmarted the Mellon crowd by coming out for Hoover before it did, and he expected the President to show his gratitude when he was fighting for a seat in the Senate. Only Senator David A. Reed came to his defense, principally because Reed was soon to become a candidate for re-election. Vare received no administration support and was not seated. In 1930, Hoover and most of his Cabinet came to a world series baseball game in Philadelphia. Vare was all set to return a presidential nod. He was ignored, either unconsciously or deliberately.

A politician's source of strength is patronage. Vare thought the President, in return for the huge Philadelphia majority in 1928, should consult him about Federal jobs in Pennsylvania. In the last year, after a hard fight, he was finally permitted to have a say in the appointments of a Federal Judge and a District Attorney. It is known in Philadelphia that he had a difficult time in obtaining recognition in these appointments. That sort of talk going around doesn't help a city politician.

Machine Loyal, Leaders Say.

Here in Philadelphia, Republican leaders say that Vare will go the limit for the President. They accept at full value his announcement this week that the tariff is an issue and that Pennsylvania must vote the straight Republican ticket. As evidence of Vare's good faith, these leaders point to the significant fact that the last day's registration in Philadelphia this year was 66,000 greater than on the last registration day in 1928. This record-breaking registration, Republicans say, means that Vare hopes to deliver his organization for the President and the Republican ticket. The total registration, however, has dropped about 90,000 from the 1928 figure. One explanation given for this was that many voters registered in 1928 who had never registered before and never expected to register again. These included, leaders said, nuns and priests who had taken little interest in previous elections. Another explanation given was that many of the unemployed did not have the 25 cents poll tax and that the Vare machine, fearing that an unemployed vote was a vote for Roosevelt, did not want to take the chance of using their meager funds for a doubtful vote.

Democratic observers here point to a flaw in the Vare machine. For a long time it was considered almost a crime for a Vare organization man to scratch the Republican ticket. But in 1930 Vare was so hostile to the Republican dry gubernatorial candidate, Gifford Pinchot, that he sent the word to his men to scratch the ticket and vote for John M. Hemphill, the wet Democrat. Republican leaders say this means nothing—that the Vare organization will follow instructions. Democrats insist that voters in the Vare wards have learned something.

Pinchot Expected to "Lay Low."

Gov. Pinchot is not expected to declare for either candidate, and thereby hangs one of the most amusing tales in Pennsylvania politics. Pinchot is a personal friend and an admirer of Gov. Roosevelt. Persons close to Pinchot say that he would like to vote for his friend and against President Hoover, who has gone out of his way to show what he thinks of Pinchot and his policies. Pinchot, however, wants to run for the Senate in 1934 as a Republican.

The writer was astounded when he heard many Republicans say that regardless of whether Senator Davis is acquitted or found guilty in the lottery trial in New York, the Senate will not allow him to take his seat. This, the Republicans explain, would give Pinchot the appointment of Davis' successor. Pinchot, they continue, cannot seek the place himself because the Lieutenant-Governor, a stalwart Republican, would refuse to appoint him. If Davis is refused a Senate seat, they say, Pinchot will appoint Mrs. Pinchot to the Senate and run for the place himself at the next election.

In the present election, Pinchot is expected to "lay low and say nothing." If he announced for Gov. Roosevelt, there is no doubt that he would add to Roosevelt's majority in the anthracite regions, which went for Smith in 1928. Whether his silence will help Roosevelt is problematical. He can hardly urge the re-election of President Hoover.

Speculation on Mellon Machine.

When practical politicians are asked whether Roosevelt will come to Philadelphia with a majority as former Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, the Democratic senatorial candidate, did in 1926, they reply that the Pittsburg vote will decide the question. They decline to predict what the Mellon machine will do in the western end of the State. The Mellon crowd, they say, are in-and-outers, meaning there are times when the machine appears to be defunct, yet it comes to life quickly when the financial oil is supplied by the Pittsburgh bankers. Pittsburgh has been terribly hard hit by the depression and the percentage of unemployment is extremely high. As in Philadelphia the question is whether the unemployed vote can be controlled.

All the regular Republican leaders complain about the scarcity of campaign funds this year. They point out that if party funds were available the Vare and the Mellon machines could look after the unemployed families, Tammany fashion. The chief collector of the party, Joe Grundy of tariff fame, who in previous campaigns, "fried the fat" in the old Mark Hanna style from the tariff beneficiaries, has not been active this year, although he recently became a member of the Republican State Executive Committee. The "boys" who expect to be looked after during the campaign, are hoping that Grundy, a stalwart of the stalwarts, will follow the tactics of the late Boies Penrose, a Pennsylvania Republican hero, and see that the sinews of the campaign are forthcoming. Political collections admittedly will be hard to get this year, but the "boys" believe that Grundy could collect if he would only get on the job. The report is that thus far he has taken small interest in his usual hobby.

Such are the major factors in the Pennsylvania Republican situation. On the Democratic side there are the same confusion and lack of co-ordinated effort. Vance McCormick, William D. Wilson, Mitchell Palmer have taken little or no part in the seeming Democratic uprising. Joseph Guffey, Western Pennsylvania, has been active, but throughout the State most of the Roosevelt sentiment has been unorganized, spontaneously the result of the depression. Prohibition and the tariff, it is said, have had little influence. The number of unemployed in the State is somewhere between 700,000 and 1,000,000. In the Philadelphia metropolitan area and Pennsylvania the figure is said to be between 270,000 and 300,000.

The straw votes indicate that these distressed people want Roosevelt and Garner for a change. The Philadelphia Record poll discloses that Hoover sentiment is growing, but very slowly. The question is whether that sentiment can be stimulated during the remaining three weeks and whether the machines will be co-operating effectively to save a part—even a small part—of the million majority of 1928 to re-elect President Hoover.

Drifting apart and they don't know the Reason

Can this be the congenial pair whose happiness was once the envy of all their friends? Now irritable, impatient, they get on each other's nerves continually..find fault..fly off the handle without provocation. He sulks..she grieves. Yet the cause of their difficulties is pathetically simple.

Without knowing it they have both fallen victim to that modern malady which doctors call ASTHENIA*.

Without knowing it—that's the disarming thing about ASTHENIA. It drags you down.. it slows your mind .. it robs you of your joys and pleasures. Yet all the while you hardly realize you are slipping.

Millions are in just that plight today. They toss and turn at night.. wake up with a headache.. drag through the day feeling dull, depressed and in constant fear that something serious is wrong with them.

Are you a victim of this health-destroying blight? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination not only must be "regular"..it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accumulate..bred by millions of micro-organisms in the digestive tract. Little by little these poisons seep into the blood stream. Then comes that half-alive feeling.. the danger signal of ASTHENIA.

If you feel tired, listless, irritable.. if your work weighs you down like an unbearable burden, decide today to rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it! You can do so easily .. and in 10 days' time.

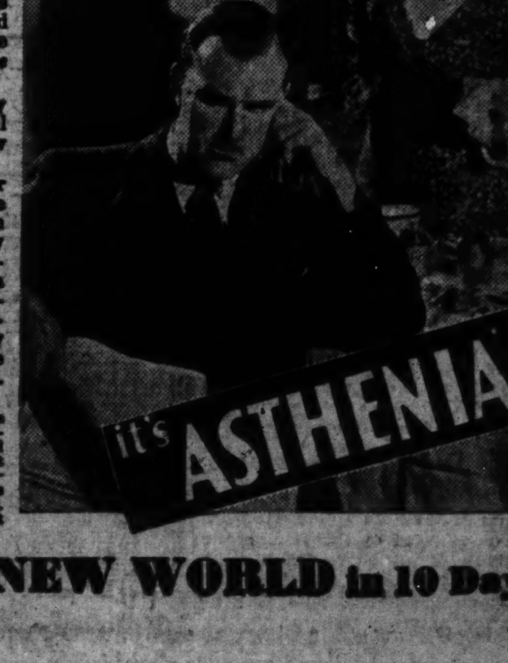
Buy a bottle of Pluto Water and take it as directed—one-fifth glass in four-fifths glass of hot water—every morning for 10 mornings. Don't miss a day—for 10 days! You'll be amazed how this gentle treatment will change your entire viewpoint..make you see a new world in ten days!

After that—take Pluto Water every Sunday morning regularly, and you'll find that you do everything with new vim and pleasure.

Then you'll understand why for nearly ninety years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this famous 10-day Pluto Water treatment.. why physicians recommend Pluto Water as a mild, agreeable and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming. Economical too..for by actual comparison Pluto Water is the least expensive laxative you can take.

GENTLE EFFECTIVE AGREEABLE
When taken as directed .. one-fifth glass Pluto to four-fifths glass hot water . Pluto Water is virtually tasteless. It is non-irritating and non-habit-forming.

PLUTO WATER
PLUTO



PLUTO WATER ends *ASTHENIA—the want or loss of strength.. debility.. diminution of the vital forces—often due to intestinal micro-organisms. Pluto Water—the biggest selling Laxative Mineral Water in the world—is recommended by doctors everywhere. It is bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana—America's Greatest Health Resort. In 2 sizes—25c and 45c.

Take PLUTO WATER and see a NEW WORLD in 10 Days!

FINDS STEINBERG PARTNERS HAD NO INTENT TO DEFRAUD

State, After 10-Day Inquiry, Drops Citations Looking to Revocation of Brokerage Licenses.

REPORT SAYS FIRM FOLLOWED RULES

Declares Most of Complaints of 25 Customers Resulted From Misunderstanding of Procedure.

The State's investigation of the closed brokerage firm of Mark C. Steinberg & Co. disclosed no intent by any of the nine partners to defraud customers, State Securities Commissioner Stockard has announced.

Citations against the Steinberg firm and four other St. Louis brokerage houses containing former Steinberg partners to show cause why their dealers' licenses should not be revoked were dismissed by Commissioner Stockard yesterday. The other four firms are Peltason, Tenenbaum & Harris; McCourtney, Breckenridge & Co.; Scherck, Richter Co.; John Grunik Jr. & Co.

In a long report following his 10-day inquiry, Stockard said he had investigated complaints of about 25 customers and found that most of them arose from a misunderstanding of the rules and regulations of the stock brokerage business. The Steinberg firm, he reported, had followed the rules and practices of other firms doing a like business in St. Louis.

Quotation from Report.

"So far as I have been able to learn," he said, "there has been no criminal intent on the part of any one of the firm to convert any of the securities to his individual use or the use of the firm. In fact, it is indeed surprising that there was not a large number of discrepancies and errors, taking into consideration the enormous number of accounts handled and the total amount of such accounts.

"One strong thing that should speak for this firm," he continued, "is that it was able to resist the temptation of taking the hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of free securities that were on hand and pledge them for additional loans to bridge them over the financial crisis."

Stockard said he had concluded that the banks had no knowledge that the firm was in financial trouble until the evening of April 27, the day before the firm was placed in State receivership, when Mark C. Steinberg sought the advice of his banker.

Throughout his investigation, Stockard said, he received full co-operation from all members of the firm, particularly from Mark Steinberg, senior partner. In conclusion, he said that if he were offering any suggestion or criticism to anyone, it would be for persons with small incomes to "stay away from the marginal stock market."

Pleased With Report.

Steinberg expressed gratification at the Commissioner's report and said responses to the firm's composition offer were satisfactory.

"It is not my intention on completion of the composition to seek readmission to the New York Stock Exchange," he said, "until such time as when, through the composition and other efforts, I shall have contributed to the repayment of my creditors a sum substantially in excess of the value of the Stock Exchange seat." The seat is valued at about $175,000.

The composition offer, which has been accepted by a majority of the creditors with claims on file, is for 20 per cent cash payment to general creditors plus 80 per cent in promissory contingent on future earnings of the partners. A hearing on the offer is set in Federal Court tomorrow, when creditors not accepting may offer objections.

SENATOR BARKLEY PRAISES LEAGUE'S EFFORTS FOR PEACE

Speaks at Dedication of Virginia World War Memorial Carillon at Richmond.

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 15.—Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, speaking at the dedication of the Virginia World War memorial carillon here today, told his hearers that some method better than war must be found to settle international disputes and that in his judgment "the world now has its face set toward such a goal."

"Whatever one may think of the League of Nations," he said, "the fact that there is such a league and that it has held together through these years of controversy and discouragement is of itself a hopeful indication. Whatever shortcomings may surround the World Court, the fact that there is such a court and that most of the nations of the world are willing to resort to it for the settlement of their disputes rather than fly to the arbitrament of the sword, gives earnest hope to those who believe in peace and strive for its accomplishment."

Nominated for Missouri Senate.

By the Associated Press.

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., Oct. 15.—Delmar Dall of Marceline, Mo., has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for the State Senate from the Sixth District to succeed Senator Roy McKittrick, who is running for Attorney-General.

BILL CONTINUING CITY BRIDGE TOLL EXPECTED TO PASS

Final Action by Aldermen on Measure to Retire Relief Bonds Is Scheduled for Tomorrow.

EADS BRIDGE ALSO MAY BE AFFECTED

If Transfer Is Made in Time Similar Tax Will Shorten the Period in Which Tolls Will Be Collected.

An ordinance providing for continuing tolls on the Municipal Bridge, until all bonds which may be issued for unemployment relief funds have been retired, is slated to be passed tomorrow by the Board of Aldermen.

Mayor Miller will sign the bill as soon as it is presented to him and a campaign in favor of the $4,600,000 relief bond issue which voters will be asked to approve Nov. 8 will be started immediately.

The bill, introduced at a special meeting Friday, had its second reading yesterday and was approved by the Public Utilities Committee, to which it was referred. The committee will report it for passage at tomorrow's meeting, set for 11 o'clock.

Harry B. Wallace, chairman of the Citizens' Bond Issue Campaign Committee, and City Counselor Muench spoke in behalf of the measure at meeting. Wallace said its approval was necessary for a successful, bond issue campaign because real estate owners would oppose the bond issue if the bonds were to be retired out of general tax funds.

Muench declared he was convinced that retirement of the bonds out of bridge tolls was legal. The Comptroller's office has estimated that bridge tolls would retire the bonds within 10 years.

Should the highway deck of Eads Bridge come into possession of the city within that period, Muench said, a similar tax could be imposed for use of that structure, and this would lessen the period required to retire the bonds.

Alderman Kaufmann asked if it would not be a breach of faith with those who voted bonds for construction of the bridge to continue tolls on it for a period of years, because the bonds were voted for a bridge that would be "forever free." Muench replied that while there might be a technical breach of faith, he felt sure that in the present unemployment emergency it was justified.

VIRGINIA PASTOR ACCEPTS CALL TO DELMAR BAPTIST

The Rev. Edward B. Willingham to Preach First Sermon Nov. 6.

The Rev. Edward B. Willingham, Lynchburg, Va., has accepted a call to the pastorate of Delmar Baptist Church, Skinker boulevard and Washington avenue. He will deliver his first sermon there on Nov. 6. With his wife and small daughter he will arrive in St. Louis the week before. Since May, 1931, the pastorate has been vacant, following the resignation of the Rev. Dr. Ryland Knight, who went to a church in Atlanta, Ga.

In Lynchburg the Rev. Mr. Willingham has been pastor of Rivermont Baptist Church, in a residential district. He is 35 years old, the son of the Rev. Dr. R. J. Willingham, secretary of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board. He is said to have inherited his father's oratorical talent. After being graduated from the University of Richmond he served on the faculty there for a time. He has been active in the Virginia State Mission board.

COLUMBUS SERVICES TODAY

St. Louis Italian Societies to Hold Commemorative Program.

St. Louis Italian societies will hold a Columbus commemorative service this afternoon at the Columbus Statute in Tower Grove Park.

A procession will form at 2 o'clock at Magnolia and Tower Grove avenues and march to the Grand boulevard entrance to the park, where the ceremony will be held. Flowers will be placed at the base of the statue, and there will be speeches by Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Mario Alfani, Italian Consul.

MOVE TO END BANKRUPTCY OF UNITED CIGAR STORES

Order to Show Cause Why It Should Not Be Set Aside Issued by U. S. Court.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The Court and Montague Realty Corporation of Brooklyn has obtained a Federal Court order returnable Tuesday requiring the trustee of the United Cigar Stores Co. of America to show cause why the bankruptcy should not be set aside.

The petition for the order, which was consented to by State Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick, as liquidator of the Bank of United States, charged the bankruptcy had been sought for the sole purpose of voiding valid leases and that the company is and always has been solvent.

Broderick's consent was necessary because the Bank of United States holds a mortgage on a piece of Brooklyn property owned by the petitioning realty company.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN LEVY ON FIREMEN $3182

That Is, If All Pay — Amount Scaled Down Following Pay Cut.

Fire Department officers are receiving contributions from the 961 members of the department for the campaign treasury of the Republican City Committee. Since Mayor Miller took office in 1925 it has been the custom to make such collections among the firemen.

If all the men pay according to a schedule suggested by Chief De Voto the G. O. P. chest will be enriched by $3182, not counting what the chief himself may give. De Voto said yesterday the schedule was not compulsory but had been proposed after he had conferred with some of his men, with the idea of avoiding excessive or insufficient donations on the part of individuals. There was no coercion and no action would be taken against men who could not or would not pay, the chief declared.

For the 679 privates in the department, the schedule calls for $3 each, or $2037. Their pay is fixed at $180 a month, but this year they are getting only $162, because of the 10 per cent cut in all municipal salaries. The rest of the schedule follows: Twelve district chiefs, $10 each; 75 captains, $5; 75 lieutenants and 56 engineers, $4; 63 night watchmen, $2. Yesterday was payday for the department and the captains and lieutenants started to collect.

In the past privates have been asked to contribute about $5 each for campaign funds and the rate for upper ranks was correspondingly higher.

Director of Public Safety Steininger, who appoints the Fire Chief, said he had told De Voto to make the schedule reasonable. He said no action would be taken against those not paying. City officials have been called before representatives of the Republican City Committee and told that their employes must contribute to the fund and work on election day to get out the vote.

All firemen off duty on election day, Nov. 8, are expected to join the party workers. This means about half the department will be on duty at the engine houses and the other half at the polls.

BURGLAR PUTS PILLOW SLIP ON VICTIM'S HEAD; GETS $2.50

Spends Half an Hour Searching House; Two Safes Robbed of $140.

Louis Brodsky, 4281A Maffitt avenue, was awakened early yesterday by an armed Negro burglar who flashed a light in his face and ordered him not to awaken his wife, who was asleep beside him. The burglar then tied a pillow slip over Brosky's head and spent half an hour searching the place, escaping with $2.50.

Two safes were broken open, one at the Aubert Theater, 4949 Easton avenue, where $60 was taken, another at the Olive Wet Wash Laundry Co., 3029 North Newstead avenue, which was robbed of $80.

Jewelry and clothing valued at $770 were stolen from the home of Mrs. Nona Kunz, 4549A Arco avenue, by burglars who first entered the flat of Mrs. Roland R. Falkenhainer on the floor below, taking $27 in cash and $100 worth of jewelry.

W. J. Gartland, 4820A North Twentieth street, was robbed of $172 by three men who forced his automobile to the side of Natural Bridge road near Carsonville Friday afternoon. The robbers' automobile bore a California license.

Louis Landherr, 4026 Bamberger avenue, driver of a bakery truck, was forced to the side of Lindbergh boulevard near St. Charles road and robbed of $30 by three men.

FILES SUIT TO DIVORCE CLELLAND A. ANTRIM

Former Ruth Burlingame Seeks Custody of Children and Alimony.

Mrs. Ruth Burlingame Antrim, 7120 Washington avenue, University City, filed suit at Clayton yesterday to divorce Clelland A. Antrim, treasurer of the Antrim Lumber Co., on grounds of general indignities.

They were married in 1920 and separated Aug. 30. She asks for custody of their three children, Katharine Alice, 11 years old; Clelland A. Jr., 6, and Ruth, 4, money for their support and alimony.

The petition alleges Antrim was indifferent to her, spending his evenings away from home and refusing to tell where he had been. She also charges he told her he did not love her and would not take her to places of amusement. In filing a general denial and entry of appearance, Antrim indicated he would not contest.

Mrs. Antrim is a daughter of the late Ira L. Burlingame, former general manager of the Terminal Railroad Association and former president of the General Freight Service Association. Antrim is the son of Charles A. Antrim, president of the lumber company, in the Arcade Building.

12 FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANKS OPEN FOR APPLICATIONS

System Designed to Permit Commercial Companies Holding Mortgages to Rediscount Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A chain of 12 Federal Home Loan Banks, strung across the country, opened for business today, ready to receive applications for loans on small home mortgages.

The new structure began official life without formality or celebration. At headquarters here Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said he was "very pleased to announce that every one of the 12 district banks opened by Oct. 15, which was the mark set six weeks ago."

For 30 days past the banks have had subscription books open to afford member institutions opportunity to contribute capital. What was not taken locally is to be subscribed by the Treasury.

Board officials said no money is to be handed out by the new banks immediately, but that cash will begin flowing as soon as loan application are approved. The mortgages to be taken are limited to those on homes valued at not more than $20,000.

Other Federal funds were made available for distribution today, as the Reconstruction Corporation approved a total of $1,221,855 of relief loans to six states for immediate use.

The states receiving these funds are Arkansas, $529,400; Tennessee, $193,256; Ohio, $182,887; Oklahoma, $131,312; Montana, $95,000, and Michigan, $40,000.

The home loan system is designed primarily to permit commercial companies holding mortgages to rediscount them, making more money available to increase mortgages or extend them, particularly in cases where home owners are threatened with loss of the property through inability to meet payments due.

The board has set a minimum capitalization of $134,000,000 for the 12 regional banks, and the Treasury is empowered under the law to subscribe up to $125,000,000. While the subscription books have been opened since Sept. 14 the board has not announced the total taken privately, but Franklin W. Fort, the chairman, has said they were in satisfactory amounts.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS FOR 'FATHER TIM' CONTINUES

Subscription Blanks Sent to Business Houses and Various Organizations.

The citizens' committee raising funds for charities of Mgr. Timothy Dempsey has sent subscription blanks to industrial, wholesale and retail establishments and to various organizations.

For the next year's work at least $100,000 will be required, said Samuel W. Fordyce, chairman of the committee. Responses to the appeal since it was made a week ago have been gratifying but the goal is still far away, he added. If the emergency lunch room set up by Father Dempsey lacks funds, many persons will go hungry this winter, Fordyce declared. The lunch room and lodging houses are nonsectarian.

Contributions may be sent to the treasurer, Father Dempsey Fund, 621 Locust street.

Insurance Man Collapses at Wheel Taking His Sister Home.

Joseph H. Walker, insurance broker, died suddenly at the wheel of his automobile yesterday morning. He had met his sister, Miss Mary L. Walker of San Diego, Cal., at Union Station and was driving her to his home at 7373 Pershing avenue, University City.

In the 5800 block of Enright avenue he collapsed. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where physicians said heart disease apparently had caused death. He was 74 years old and had seemed in excellent health.

Mr. Walker had been a partner in the insurance agency of George D. Capen & Co. since 1893. Born in Carondelet, he went to work when he was about 16 years old for George D. Capen, founder of the concern, and became a partner when Capen died. Mr. Walker is survived by his sister, two sons, Joseph K. and Truman E. Walker; a daughter, Mrs. Samuel Forder, with whom he resided. His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Bull Walker, died several years ago.

HOPEFUL FOR PLAYER WITH BROKEN NECK

Doctors Put Canvas Collar on Football End, Hurt in His First Game of Season.

His neck incased in a heavy canvas collar, 16-year-old Thomas Bagwell is at De Paul Hospital awaiting the outcome of the injury he suffered Friday afternoon in a football game at High School Stadium.

X-ray examination revealed that the fourth cervical vertebra was fractured when Bagwell went down beneath other players after a fourth-quarter kickoff in a game between Soldan and Christian Brothers' College. Bagwell, substitute end for Soldan, had just been sent into the game and was making his first play in his first high school game when he was hurt.

Physicians, who have the case in charge, are hopeful of correcting the fracture by holding the neck rigid. The doctors are unable to determine definitely whether serious damage has been done to the spinal cord, but that there is some injury there is indicated by the fact that the patient is paralyzed. It is not planned to operate at this time, it was stated.

Thomas, whose brother, Allen, is the regular halfback on the Soldan team, dashed into a group of interfering players on the opposing team in an effort to stop the ball carrier. He was at the bottom of the resulting heap, and was unable to rise. Accompanied by his brother, who left the game, he was carried from the field, and taken to the hospital.

Thomas is the youngest of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Bagwell, 5455 Delmar boulovard. He is a first year student at Soldan High School.

Bernard Martin, St. Louis University football player, suffered fractures of three vertebrae in a game with Wyoming University here Oct. 7. He is a patient at St. John's Hospital.

An Appreciation

An announcement of new low rates for "Want" advertising was printed in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday.

The rates were designed to afford big savings for advertisers taking advantage of these reductions on three and six time orders.

The reductions were expected to increase orders. They did. The increase started Monday. Want-Ad activities continued to grow--- Tuesday---Wednesday and throughout the entire week.

St. Louis saw the advantage of using more People's Popular Wants at the new low rates. They used them!

Despite provisions to take care of the increased orders, apologies may be due some patrons for a seeming lack of the usual prompt service. Please accept our apology. Now the enlarged Want-Ad organization is equal to meet the new demands.

Ad Takers await your future calls. With their usual courtesy they invite you to try the new service---and take advantage of the new low rates.

Here and There on the Air

Where to Tune for Philharmonic Today.

WGN (720 kc), WHAS (820) and WCCO (810), all announce that they will broadcast the concert by the New York Philharmonic Orchestra from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon. Toscannini is to conduct. . . . Another concert series that will be an important factor in the trend toward providing better musical broadcasts in the afternoon than in the evening is that by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra. Friday afternoons over CBS chain stations . . . Early reports indicate that Walter Damrosch's concerts from 10 to 11 o'clock Friday mornings are attracting as large a country-wide audience as in past year.

New Giant Mexican Stations Serious Threat.

PROTESTS to the State Department and to the Mexican Government are coming thick and fast as a result of the announcement that Dr. John Brinkley's XER on the Texas-Mexican border, which broadcasts with 75,000 watts on 735 kc., has been authorized to increase power to 500,000 watts, 10 times the power used by any station in this country. XENT, another Mexican station, reported to be backed by Norman Baker, formerly owner of a station at Muscatine, Ia., will soon go on the air with 150,000 watts power. XENT will use the 1115-kc. channel, only a notch and a half on the dial of a receiver marked in kilocycles from KMOX. Serious interference with KMOX is expected. Canadian stations also are protesting. The XER-XENT power grants are the most serious threats to broadcasting on this continent that have developed. Incidentally, the programs of XER are by no means worthy of a station of such power.

"Behind the 500,000-watt station project," Martin Codel writes from Washington, is believed to be Dr. John Brinkley, the Kansas medico-broadcaster, who was ordered off the air by the Radio Commission in 1930 because his medical talks and patent medicine sales by radio were adjudged inimical to the public health. Brinkley immediately went to Mexico and built XER with 75,000 watts.

Denied vindication by the courts, which upheld the Radio Commission, and suffering revocation of his medical license by the Kansas Medical Board, Dr. Brinkley continued his broadcasts from Mexico and in 1930 ran as an independent for Governor of Kansas. He failed of election by a narrow margin. This year he is again running for Governor, and in the three-sided contest political experts say he stands a good chance of election.

It is not improbable that he has even greater political aspirations than the Governorship of Kansas, and believes he can achieve them through a radio station that may blanket the United States. The only qualification placed on XER in the 500,000-watt grant, which was made to the Mexican corporation under which the station operates, is that it must pay the Government $15 a day in taxes whereas it now pays $5 a day.

"Assigned now to 735 kilocycles with 75,000 watts, XER was given the alternative by the Mexican Ministry of Communications of using 655 kilocycles when it uses superpower.

"On 735 kc the station is now heard very widely over the United States. But it is interfering with stations on adjacent channels, namely WGN (720), WSB, Atlanta (740) and CKAC, Montreal (730). If it goes to 655 kilocycles, it threatens to ruin the broadcasts of WEAF, New York, key of the NBC red network, on 660, and WSM, Nashville, on 650.

"With such tremendous power, its overlap may also interfere with stations as far removed as 670 and 640 kilocycles. On 670, WMAQ, Chicago, operates. On 640, the following operate: KFI, Los Angeles; WOI, Ames, Ia., and WAIU, Columbus, O."

Mexico is not a party to the Canadian-American wave division, but the Mexican delegation at Madrid has been in conferences with American radio experts looking to a solution of the radio problems. Mexico is under no constraint at present to respect to 10-kilocycle spacing between channels now enforced by the United States and Canada.

The diplomatic negotiations are expected to revolve around the propriety of licensing American capital, even if invested in a Mexican corporation, to operate a radio station in Mexico with an intent so obvious.

'Mystery Tenor' Has Sung All Over World.

THE "MYSTERY TENOR," who sings over WJZ stations at 1 o'clock Sundays, has sung in concert in virtually every country, from England to this country, Australia and South America. The announcer, in introducing his songs, describes concert halls where he has sung and mentions noted men and women who have been in his audiences. Many listeners, of course, have seen him. . . . Reports are that Paul Whiteman's orchestra and singers will replace the Parade of the States on KSD and the WEAF net, beginning Oct. 24. . . . "The Pridgets" mammy, and what happened when the plumber head of the family won $600,000, will hold the 8:30 period on KSD Wednesday nights, starting this week. Their plans for a trip to Europe and their experience abroad will be told in a series of playlets. as the CBS station in Washington, . . . When WJSV replaces WMAL D. C., the night of Oct. 20, a half hour special program will be carried by the network. . . .

Eddie Cantor Back on KSD Oct. 30.

AL JOLSON has been definitely engaged for a revival of the "Big Six of the Air" programs on KSD and the WEAF chain at 9 o'clock Friday nights, beginning Nov. 18. . . . Eddie Cantor will return to the Rubinoff programs on KSD at 7 p. m. Sundays, beginning Oct. 30. . . . Georgie Price, who has been substituting for him on Sundays, will continue on his CBS chain series. . . . Ted Weems' orchestra will be featured with Jack Benny in a revamped program Sundays and Thursday nights, starting Oct. 30. . . . Don Clark, who directs the CBS chain Dramatic Laboratory plays Sunday nights, says listeners prefer a flavoring of mystery or comedy in their drama, that many of them fancy plays in which imaginary inventions play a part, and that there is a trend away from the heavy or melo-dramatic play. . . . Thelma Kessler, one of the finer radio singers, has been engaged as staff soprano for WLW. . . . Louise Bernhardt, operatic contralto, will make her radio debut in a performance of "Carmen" over the WJZ chain Tuesday at 10:15 p. m.

Winners of Missouri Radio Audition

FIRST PLACE in the Missouri State finals of the National Radio Audition last Wednesday were awarded to Melba Louise Reineke, 20, soprano, of St. Louis (upper picture), and Clyde Franklyn Kelly (lower picture), 24, baritone, also of this city. Miss Reineke, who was No. 2 in the audition broadcast, sang "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from "Samson and Delilah". Kelly, who was No. 13, sang the Prologue to "Pagliacci."

Second place awards went to Dorothy Enslen, 21, soprano, of Kansas City, who sang "Una Voce Poca fa," as No. 6, and William C. Rice, 21, tenor, of Middleton, who sang "La Donna Mobile," from "Rigoletto."

The judges were Richard Spamer, Scipione Guidi, D. C. Zytowski, Mrs. Max Goldstein, Theodore Kelsey, Birdie Hild and Edward A. Faust. The audition was in charge of Mrs. Frederick Nussbaum, State chairman. Votes of listeners counted 40 per cent and of the judges, 60 per cent, in deciding the winners.

Three-Speaker Model Heads New Sparton Line.

New Sparton superheterodyne receivers, including the Triolian model, which has three speakers, are being shown by the E. J. Straus Radio Co., distributer. The Triolian, leader in the line, has a 13-tube chassis using the newest screen grid pentode and super control tubes, as well as a audio amplifier of unusual power and fidelity of reproduction.

The three speakers are used to insure covering the tonal range and to give realism of reproduction. Altogether the three speakers provide 155 square inches of reproducing surface, to say nothing of the baffle provided by the large cabinet.

A super band pass circuit and exceptional selectivity and distance range, automatic volume control, between stations noise suppressor, tone and static control are among features. The second detector is of the twin tube duo-linear type, for greater clarity of tone and to prevent overloading the amplifier. Shielding is double and of solid copper and aluminum.

In the new Sparton line are also sets with two speakers and console and mantel type models, all superheterodynes. There are also an auto set, a short wave converter for use with any receiver, and a short and long wave combination set.

Zenith Factory Behind on Orders for New Sets.

The Zenith Radio Corporation reports to Geller, Ward & Hasner, its local distributer, that its factory in Chicago is 6000 units behind schedule in spite of working two shifts 20 out of the 24 hours daily. The company says further that it has re-employed virtually all its old employes and that orders continue to outnumber receivers that can be manufactured.

A new line of Zenith sets, including 12-tube models, models with automatic tuning and radio-phonographs has been introduced. The leaders in the line have audio systems said to give unusual tonal range and quality.

Frank Phillips Addresses Sales Managers' Bureau

Tells St. Louisans of Business Potentialities for City in Mid-Continent Field.

Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum Co., which recently completed a 780-mile pipe line to transport gasoline from the Panhandle of Texas to St. Louis, addressed a meeting of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, Thursday noon at Hotel Jefferson.

In the course of a talk on salesmanship and the part it plays in business, he spoke especially of the continuous and growing importance to St. Louis of the development of the Mid-Continent oil field, which is tributary to this city and includes Kansas, Oklahoma, North Texas, Northern Louisiana and Arkansas. Asking whether St. Louis fully realized the vast potentialities for it in this great oil field, and whether it was getting the amount of business it should, he continued:

Vast Expenditures.

"In speaking of the oil industry as it affects St. Louis, we are not speaking of a temporary development or a brief influence on the business of the district, but of a continuous and growing industry.

"It is estimated that in the Mid-Continent, as above limited, there has been marketed $10,000,000,000 worth of crude petroleum, measured by the sale price as produced.

"In addition to this production of crude, are the vast expenditures in exploration, transportation, refining, marketing and other activities directly connected with the industry. In these facilities, hundreds of millions of dollars are invested, covering which no separate statistics are available.

"In the Mid-Continent territory in 1931, $45,000,000 was paid by operators to farmers and land owners in royalties, and $50,000,000 was paid as rentals on undeveloped acreage, making a total of $95,000,000 paid in cash.

St. Louis' Strategic Position.

"The present investment in the industry in the United States is approximately $12,000,000,000, with a total 2,500,000 employes, and in the Mid-Continent, close of $5,000,000,000, with 800,000 employes.

"Annual payrolls for the country as a whole approximate $3,600,000,000, and for the Mid-Continent, $1,200,000,000. The Mid-Continent produces approximately half of the nation's current supply of crude oil.

"These facts show the large place the Mid-Continent region holds in the nation's petroleum industry, and its importance to your city, which is so strategetically located to serve this territory of vast natural oil resources.

On Good Salesmanship.

Summarizing his remarks on salesmanship, he said:

"Do not hesitate to advise your business interest to be always on the alert to place itself in a position to avoid a restricted market. Do everything possible to break down monopoly of purchase.

"Do not hesitate to make the necessary expenditures in developing a good product and in overcoming sales resistance.

"Do not let economic waste stop you in breaking down sales resistance by taking your superior products direct to the consumer.

"Quality and price are the dominant, underlying fundamentals which are necessary for outstanding success in salesmanship.

"Salesmanship is no doubt the most powerful weapon of mankind, and can be employed either for a constructive or a destructive purpose. If properly directed, it can become one of the greatest factors in solving the problems of our country."

New Federal Truck For House-to-House Delivery Service

A new drop-frame truck, designed for house-to-house delivery, is announced by the Federal Motor Truck Co. Both chassis and body are built by Federal as a complete transportation unit.

The truck is available in two wheelbases—108" and 120". For milk, this means capacity for 42 and 56 cases, respectively.

Pedal control, particularly practical in frequent-stop service, is a feature. At the right of the regular clutch pedal is a combination brake and clutch pedal. To stop, the driver steps on this pedal which, actuated by vacuum booster, accomplishes the following: throws out the clutch; applies the brakes and locks them in position, and throttles the engine to an idling speed by means of an automatic engine speed regulator attached to the clutch pedal.

Nash Sales Executive Visits Distributor on Central States Tour

M. N. Larson, recently appointed assistant sales manager of the Nash Motor Co., Kenosha, Wis., paid a visit Monday to the local distributers, the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., of which E. A. Hatfield is president and J. W. Richardson is general manager. Previous to his appointment Larson was district representative on the coast for some time. His present trip is through the central states on his way south. He expects to stop at Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth. After the trip he will return to the factory at Kenosha.

Larson said that in the first six months of this year business for the Nash Motor Co. was very satisfactory. He felt that all the Nash dealers were getting their houses in order for next year's business, which he believed would come in increased measure.

A new drop-frame truck, designed for house-to-house delivery, is announced by the Federal Motor Truck Co. Both chassis and body are built by Federal as a complete transportation unit.

The truck is available in two wheelbases—108" and 120". For milk, this means capacity for 42 and 56 cases, respectively.

Pedal control, particularly practical in frequent-stop service, is a feature. At the right of the regular clutch pedal is a combination brake and clutch pedal. To stop, the driver steps on this pedal which, actuated by vacuum booster, accomplishes the following: throws out the clutch; applies the brakes and locks them in position, and throttles the engine to an idling speed by means of an automatic engine speed regulator attached to the clutch pedal.

Nash Sales Executive Visits Distributer on Central States Tour

M. N. Larson, recently appointed assistant sales manager of the Nash Motor Co., Kenosha, Wis., paid a visit Monday to the local distributers, the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., of which E. A. His present trip is through the central states on his way south. He expects to stop at Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth. After the trip he will return to the factory at Kenosha.

Larson said that in the first six months of this year business for the Nash Motor Co. was very satisfactory. He felt that all the Nash dealers were getting their houses in order for next year's business, which he believed would come in increased measure.

The George E. Thilenius Tire Co., Greater St. Louis distributers of India tires and batteries, for 10 years at 4943 Delmar boulevard, formally opened yesterday its new building on the northwest corner of Washington and Spring avenues.

The two-story brick structure, 27 by 80 feet, occupies the extreme northwest corner of the lot fronting 50 and 150 feet on Washington and Spring avenues.

The first floor is partitioned to accommodate salesroom, accounting department, used tire display room, vulcanizing and battery departments. At the rear of the first floor is a sheltered area for greasing and general service in inclement weather.

The entire second floor will be used for tire storage, with space equivalent to three freight cars.

The large concrete service court, directly and easily accessible from both streets, affords space to service 30 to 35 cars at one time. In addition to India tires and India plate lock batteries, Shell oil and greases and Quaker State motor oil will be dispensed. A policy of "call for and deliver service" for customers' cars has been inaugurated.

Officers of the concern are George T. Thilenius, president; Ed E. Thilenius, sales manager, and Mabel Conarro, secretary. Harry C. Hering is manager of commercial accounts, assisted by Elmer Stege and W. Vernon Aurien. The service department, supervised by Roy Mangold, includes four tire changers, a lubrication man and a battery man.

Motor Analyzer Use Shown at Meeting by F. S. Wiemeyer Co.

A service meeting, to introduce and demonstrate engine inspection by the new motor analyzer, was held Tuesday night by F. S. Wiemeyer Co., Inc., distributer.

The session was in charge of L. P. Neal of the Weidenhoff Co., automotive electrical engineer. It was attended by some 160 service managers, mechanics, fleet owner-operator and others interested in automotive maintenance and preventive service.

This preventive service is built around use of the analyzer, which is designed to detect the exact condition of every unit of an auto or truck engine. It enables mechanics to correct defects before they become serious and to keep an engine at its performance peak.

Glenn Wall, branch manager for United Motors Service; P. G. Sedley, service manager for the Carter Carburetor Co., and Vic Smith, district representative for the Stromberg carburetor. James Caruso, service manager for the Oliver Cadillac Co., furnished a 12-cylinder Cadillac for inspection by the motor analyser.

Celebrates Record

GEORGE H. KEMMERER.

Who is general manager of Goodyear Service, Inc., which is celebrating a sales record for its first year in business in St. Louis.

Goodyear Service, Inc., Makes Sales Record In First Year Here

Goodyear Service, Inc., 2843 Washington avenue, observed its first anniversary on Oct. 16. This store is under the management of George H. Kemmerer, who has been connected with the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. since 1909, starting as a clerk. In 1911 he was made district sales manager, in 1921 and 1922 branch manager at Salina, Kan. After that he was sent back to St. Louis, being promoted to division truck tire salesman, and in 1923 was moved to Toledo, O., and made branch manager.

In October, 1931, Kemmerer returned to St. Louis as manager of Goodyear Service, Inc., a newly formed company which was to take over the Henry Maginnis Tire Co., at that time one of the largest Goodyear dealers in St. Louis.

Since that time the St. Louis store has shown a remarkable sales record. During July and August, in a sales contest sponsored by the Goodyear factory, St. Louis Goodyear Service Inc., under Kemmerer's management, won 12 prizes which were awarded to members of his organization. They ranked first in sales in Group A, consisting of 12 large cities.

Kemmerer is a St. Louis and attended the Irving school in North St. Louis.

Oldsmobile Reports September Sales Up With Figures in 1931

September retail sales of Oldsmobiles were within one and a fraction per cent of those in September, 1931.

"Retail sales of Oldsmobiles in September were 98.66 per cent of those of the same last year," says a statement from the factory. "This is considered remarkable in view of the fact that the industry as a whole is selling only about half the number of cars it did in 1931.

"A most encouraging feature of this record from a business viewpoint is that it was made at a time when normally automobile sales are receding. Further, the Oldsmobile September sales materially exceeded those of August, a month that usually is better from a motor car selling standpoint."

Motor Vehicles in Italy.

Italy is still one of the countries of the world in which the number of motor cars per head of population is lowest, although there has been a rapid increase in recent years. Official statistics show that at the end of last year there were 95,518 motorcycles, 211,844 motor cars, 9078 busses, 73,321 trucks, and 986 tractors in use in Italy.

Chevrolet Awarded First Place at Two National Auto Shows

For the sixth consecutive year the Chevrolet Motor Co. has won first place at the annual automobile shows sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

This honor, one eagerly sought by the industry, carries with it the right to first choice of exhibition space at the two automobile shows to be sponsored by the N. A. C. C. at New York and Chicago early next year.

Relative positions are awarded by the chamber on the basis of dollar volume of member companies in the 12 months ending June 30. In this period, Chevrolet led all member companies of the N. A. C. C., having built and sold more cars than any other manufacturer in the association.

First place at the N. A. C. C. drawings was taken by Chevrolet originally in 1927 when the company was building a four-cylinder car, and every year since then the award has gone to this largest producing division of General Motors by a constantly widening margin year after year.

Graham Cars Win Grand Prizes at Two French Style Shows

A sharp increase in foreign shipments in September is reported by the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation. Overseas trade was the largest in any month since July, 1931, showing an increase of 66 per cent over the preceding month and 63 per cent over the same month last year.

Graham is one of the American makes exhibited at the Paris automobile salon, Oct. 6-16.

In the two most recent style shows in France, grand prizes were awarded to Graham entries. At the fashionable resort of Vichy, a Graham convertible coupe took the "grand prize of honor." At Brignoles, in Southern France, two Graham cars scored, taking the grand prize, first class, and also the first prize for open cars.

'Mystery Car' Turns Out to Be Franklin Addition to Its Line

Supercharged 100-H. P. Engine One Feature—Motor Will Be Aircooled.

H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Co., admitted yesterday that the "mystery car" which has been mentioned throughout the contry is a product of his company and that details will be announced within the next week.

While Franklin, who has pioneered air-cooled automobiles for 30 years, refused to reveal the important details of the new car, he said he regarded it as the most important development in the history of his company.

He said that the engine would be air-cooled and, like the other current Franklin models, the engine would be supercharged and develop 100 horsepower. He said also the new car would not replace models already on the market, but would be an addition to the line.

Franklin hinted that he regarded the pricing of the new car as sensational.

He said that nearly the entire dealer organization of the company had inspected the new models and that their enthusiasm and the initial orders already placed indicated that it would prove one of the most popular develpoments ever made by his organization.

Franklin, long an advocate of super-highways to make traveling safe at 100 miles an hour, said that in performance it met every modern requirement of the driving public.

Rockne Advances To Eighth Place in August Registrations

Despite a decrease of more than 10 per cent in total registrations of all makes of automobiles in August as compared with July, Rockne Motors Corporation not only showed a gain, but also moved from eleventh to eighth position in the sales standing of all makes, F. L. Wiethoff, Rockne sales manager, reports.

"Our figures are based on actual registrations compiled by R. L. Polk & Co.," Wiethoff said, "and tell a very interesting story of Rockne progress in the first eight months of 1932. On Jan. 1 of this year, Rockne stood in last place in registrations of all makes in the industry. Month by month it has gradually improved its position until it stood in eighth place in the industry in August."

Wiethoff said that Rockne has shipped more than 21,000 cars to date.

"The Rockne showing in individual states and cities is also in line with our national showing in August. In many key cities we stood in third, fourth, fifth and sixth places, while in 21 of the 48 states in August Rockne showed registration gains over July ranging from 20 per cent to more than 200 per cent in some instances," he added.

Lubrite Corporation To Put Employes on Five-Day Week Basis

Will Increase by Nine Per Cent Number of Persons Employed by It.

The Lubrite Refining Corporation, operating refineries in East St. Louis and distributing gasoline and oil through approximately 1606 outlets in Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana, yesterday announced adoption of the five-day week.

The plan, approved at a recent meeting of the board of directors, will become effective Nov. 1.

According to H. T. Ashton, president, an increase of 9 per cent in the number of persons employed by the company will result. About 850 are now employed in the St. Louis area. This, it was pointed out, is but a small fraction of the total employed by the corporation and its subsidiaries.

Ashton said it was decided to adopt the five-day week as a contribution to the "share-the-work" movement. The details which must be worked out before the plan can become effective have not yet been decided upon, he said.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Financial markets groped rather nervously for a foothold this week, with securities giving some evidence of success toward the end of the period. The behavior of principal commodities, however, was less satisfactory.

Wall street found considerable encouragement in the week's business and financial statistics, with some business barometers indicating that the autumn pickup was running somewhat beyond the usual seasonal expectation. But with the normal autumn peak at hand, financial quarters were inclined to look beyond the current statistics to deeper problems, such as the Federal deficit and unemployment.

Stocks had a buoyant recovery on Friday, perhaps largely at the expense of an over-crowded short interest, and ended this week somewhat above the levels of the previous Saturday. The price average of 90 representative issues, at 57.2, was 3.4 points above the level of a week ago, but somewhat under the level of 10 days ago. At the week's low, prices had receded to the lowest level since early August.

Bonds Under Pressure.

The bond market was under considerable pressure for a time, but stiffened toward the end of the week. The price average of 60 corporate issues, however, ended at 70.5, net loss of :7 of one point for the week.

Among the week's conspicuous financial developments were the appearance of strong support for the American dollar in the foreign exchange markets, and a decline in short term money rates to the lowest levels since 1908. The drop in money rates came with abandonment of the 2 per cent call loan rate in the Stock Exchange, in effect since July. The rate was cut to 1 per cent, to bring it into line with the "outside" market, where some offerings were reported as low as ½ and ¾ of 1 per cent.

Saturday's Trading Fails to Disclose Much of a Trend.

Stocks had a steady undertone today, finishing a little higher on balance, but trading was dull and the market failed to disclose much of a trend. Net changes were largely fractional. Transactions amounted to 593,510 shares.

Rails tried to anticipate a favorable carloading statement in the first half hour, but the actual statistics on freight movement for the week ended Oct. 8 were somewhat under Wall street's expectations and traders took profits. Carriers steadied again with the general list later.

Losses averaging half a point by American Telephone, Case, Harvester, United Aircraft, American Tobacco "B," American Can and Baltimore & Ohio were more than offset by moderate gains in Woolworth, North American, Westinghouse, New York Central, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel preferred, Eastman and some of the metals and oils.

The freight traffic figures were subject to favorable interpretation since they represented an upturn of 3561 cars over the previous week, making another new high total for the year, whereas volume frequently begins to taper off early in October.

American Telephone's financial statement for the first nine months showed that subsidiaries had failed by $18,000,000 to cover dividends paid by them, most of which go to the parent company.

A. T. & T. EARNINGS REPORT FOR THE PAST NINE MONTHS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. reports for the nine months ended Sept. 30 net income of $110,541,623, equivalent to $5.92 a share on the outstanding capital stock. This compares with $128,529,560 in the corresponding period of 1931, which was equal to $7.01 a share.

After payment of dividends for the period, the company had a deficit of $15,422,862 compared with a balance of $6,882,671 after dividends in the 1931 period. Total income for the period, including dividends received from the Associated Bell companies, interest and telephone operating revenues, amounted to $191,819,358 against $219,055,457 in the like period of last year.

On the basis of net income reported for the nine months, the company earned $1.90 a share on the outstanding stock for the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with $1.95 a share in the June quarter and $2.07 a share in the March quarter.

In a statement accompanying the report, Walter S. Gifford, president, said:

"There has been a gradual increase in new telephones connected and a slowing up of telephones disconnected during recent weeks. There was a net loss for September of 90,000 telephones, which is materially below that for any month since April, and about one-third of the net loss of 268,000 for July. The 14,000,000 Bell-owned telephones now in service are about 10 per cent below the maximum development, a point reached in 1930.

"Long distance calls during the first nine months were about 20 per cent less than for the same period last year, but show somewhat more than seasonal improvement in recent weeks.

"While the company shows earnings of $5.92 per share in the first nine months of 1932, dividends received from associated companies of $103,414,238 were not fully earned by those companies during the nine months by about $18,000,000.

"No dividends have been received this year from the Western Electric Co. as compared with $10,325,862 received in the first six months of last year. That company is operating at less than 20 per cent of capacity, with an estimated net loss for the first nine months of this year of $8,000,000."

NEW YORK COTTON CLOSES LOWER AND BARELY STEADY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—A slight opening advance in cotton was checked by Southern selling and realizing and prices eased off from 6.53c to 6.40c for December contracts. Closing quotations were the lowest for the day, with the market barely steady at net declines of 5 to 8 points.

Prices opened 3 to 6 points higher, then eased off on Southern selling and week-end realizing or liquidation. March contracts eased off from 6.66c to 6.55c, closing at that figure.

Southern selling here was in small lots, but persisted during the entire morning. In some quarter this was attributed to an increasing demand for October commitments, and no easing was reported in the basis. Houses with European connections were among the early buyers here, while there was a moderate demand from the domestic trade as well as more or less covering for over the weekend in view of the weather outlook.

Liverpool cables said that some liquidation in that market had been absorbed by trade calling together with continental and Bombay buying. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance from U. S. ports at the end of the week was estimated at 165,000 bales against 194,000 last year.

CHICAGO WHEAT IS NERVOUS AND LOWER AT WEEK'S CLOSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO Oct. 15.—Collapse of speculative buying power led to a flurry of stop-loss selling in wheat today, and December contracts outdid the season's bottom price record.

Rural marketing of wheat in Canada was again heavy and advices at hand said the Winnipeg market was upheld solely by Government support, big quantities of wheat being offered at a sixteenth of a cent over the Government limit. Traders here who looked to the New York stock market for a new buying incentive switched to the selling of wheat when securities became easier after a steady opening.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝@1c under yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c down, oats ⅛@⅛c off and provisions varying from 7c decline to 5c advance.

Selling pressure on wheat increased with every ¼c break until the market had fallen 1½c. Then a fractional rally ensued, owing for the most part to demand from traders who earlier had sold and were in position to collect a profit.

Reports that 8,000,000 acres of domestic winter wheat were in serious need of rain failed to bring about price upturns of any consequence. On the contrary, a few showers in Kansas served to emphasize bearish sentiment. Another weight on the market was an estimate circulated that Canadian farmers had already delivered about 190,000,000 bushels of wheat at country stations this season, and still gave little sign of holding wheat back.

Corn and oats displayed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, and received good support on price dips. Word of 500,000 bushels of corn having been taken for export was a steadying factor.

Provisions had a rather firm tone, with moderate buying and offerings light.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec., 47⅝@⅛c; 49⅛@⅛c; May, 52⅝@⅝c, 54⅝c; July, 55⅝c, offers. Corn—Dec., 25⅝@⅝c, 26⅛c; May, 30⅝@⅝c, 31⅛c.

NARROW CHANGES ON CURB, MOSTLY A FRACTION UPWARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO WHEAT IS NERVOUS AND LOWER AT WEEK'S CLOSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Collapse of speculative buying power led to a flurry of stop-loss selling in wheat today, and December contracts outdid the season's bottom price record.

Rural marketing of wheat in Canada was again heavy and advices at hand said the Winnipeg market was upheld solely by Government support, big quantities of wheat being offered at a sixteenth of a cent over the Government limit. Traders here who looked to the New York stock market for a new buying incentive switched to the selling of wheat when securities became easier after a steady opening.

Wheat closed nervous, ⅝@1c under yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c down, oats ⅛@¼c off and provisions varying from 7c decline to 5c advance.

Selling pressure on wheat increased with every ⅛c break until the market had fallen 1½c. Then a fractional rally ensued, owing for the most part to demand from traders who earlier had sold and were in position to collect a profit.

Reports that 8,000,000 acres of domestic winter wheat were in serious need of rain failed to bring about price upturns of any consequence. On the contrary, a few showers in Kansas served to emphasize bearish sentiment. Another weight on the market was an estimate circulated that Canadian farmers had already delivered about 190,000,000 bushels of wheat at country stations this season, and still gave little sign of holding wheat back.

Corn and oats displayed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, and received good support on price dips. Word of 500,000 bushels of corn having been taken for export was a steadying factor.

Provisions had a rather firm tone, with moderate buying and offerings light.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec., 47⅝@½c, 49⅛@¼c; May, 52⅝@⅞c, 54¾c; July, 55¼c, offers. Corn—Dec., 25⅝@¾c, 26⅛c; May, 30⅝@¾c, 31⅛c.

SOME NEW '32 HIGHS FOR CANADIAN BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Aside from renewed interest in Canadian securities, many of which advanced to new 1932 highs, the bond market was a rather stagnant affair today.

Sales totaled only $4,969,000, par value, considerably less than normal for a short Saturday session, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was up one-tenth of a point.

Of the Dominion group, seven National Railway and both the Government 4s and 5s reached top figures for the year in only moderately active trading. Popularity of Canadian obligations was attributed partly to the recent tariff accord with Great Britain.

A few low-priced domestic railroad bonds added as much as a point or more to their gains of yesterday, although the turnover in this category was the smallest in several weeks.

The carrier liens that exhibited strength included some of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Hudson & Manhattan, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven and Southern Pacific.

The utilities and industrials generally followed a narrow range, with their averages holding barely steady. The heaviest trading was in International Match 5s, which gained 1⅛ points. International Telephones also were rather active, with gains of more than a point. Many others held to their previous positions.

Most United States Government loans were fractionally firmer. In the foreign section improvement was shown by some of the Germans, Italians, French and Norwegians.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 15.—An increase of ½-cent a gallon for all grades of gasoline, effective tomorrow, was announced today by the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio. All other major oil companies are expected to follow suit. The new prices will be 11¼, 12¼ and 15¼ cents a gallon, plus 5 cents in State and Federal taxes. The increase, Standard officials said, follows wholesale gasoline advances resulting from efforts in Oklahoma and Texas to reduce crude oil production.

2000 SURGEONS HERE TOMORROW FOR MEETINGS

MANY INTERNATIONAL FIGURES ON PROGRAM

These Include Sir Wilfred Grenfell and Robert T. Millikan — Radio Addresses Scheduled.

More than 2000 surgeons are expected here tomorrow to attend the annual Clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons, attracted here for the first time in its 22 years by the increasing distinction of St. Louis' medical schools and hospitals.

Attendance, drawn from both Americas and from Europe, will be limited to 2500. In addition, nurses, executives and other concerned from all parts of this country are to participate in the annual Hospital Standardization Conference, beginning tomorrow morning at Hotel Jefferson, when the college's 1932 list of "approved" hospitals will be announced.

Headquarters will be at the Jefferson, where the congress proper will get under way in the presidential meeting tomorrow evening. Other sessions, with afternoon showing of surgical moving pictures, will be held at Hotel Statler, and daily clinics will be held in 28 hospitals of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

International Figures.

Men of international distinction will address the congress. The fellowship address, at the concluding session Friday evening at the Jefferson, will be delivered by Robert A. Millikan of California Institute of Technology, Nobel prize winner, who will discuss "Some New Things in Physics."

Sir William I. de Courcy Wheeler of Dublin will deliver the John B. Murphy oration in surgery tomorrow evening, and Sir George Lenthal Cheatle of London is to speak Thursday evening. Also to participate are Sir Wilfred Thomason Grenfell, famous for his medical work in Labrador, and Dr. Jose Goyanes, professor of surgery in the Spanish National Academy of Medicine and president of the Madrid Society of Surgeons. Dr. Goyanes is to arrive from New Orleans today by airplane.

Famous surgeons attending the congress will give the public the benefit of their advice on keeping well in radio and luncheon club addresses, and in a community health meeting at 8 p. m. Wednesday at the St. Louis University gymnasium, 3672 West Pine boulevard, which has been prepared with loud speakers for a capacity attendance of 5000.

"Adding years to your life and life to your years," will be the aim of this meeting, in the words of Dr. Evarts A. Graham, chairman of the congress arrangements committee. Eight surgeons of distinction are to give 10-minute talks, in the simplest terms, on such topics as "That Ache in Your Back," "Choosing Your Hospital," "The Seven Wonders of Medicine" and "Why Are You Nervous?" The meeting, to conclude with a moving picture, "Acute Appendicitis," will be free to the public.

Discussion of Cancer.

"Cancer is Curable," will be a theme presented at the public meeting, and also will be the subject of a symposium Thursday at the Jefferson, where 32 distinguished specialists will each report dozens of cases where cancer has not returned within five years after treatment. The American College of Surgeons for years has emphasized that, if all cases of cancer were discovered and treated early, the cancer death rate in the United States would be reduced by one-third.

Dr. Robert B. Greenough of Boston is to preside. Dr. William J. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., is to speak on the general subject of the curability of cancer, and speakers on "five-year cures" will include such well known surgeons as Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland and Dr. Joseph C. Bloodgood of Baltimore.

The latest things in surgery—many of them developed and tested here—and a thorough exposition of what St. Louis has to show in surgery will be provided for the visitors in the five days of exhaustive clinical demonstrations. One institution, for example, will demonstrate the most recent proved surgical treatment for tuberculosis. Another will demonstrate a new giant magnet in treatment of the eye. A third will endeavor to elucidate such abstruse subjects as the "clinical applications of bacteriophage"—a substance whereby bacteria have been said to "commit suicide."

St. Louis Hospitals Praised.

St. Louis hospitals "rank among the foremost in the United States," commented a spokesman for the Congress, and its president, Dr. Allen B. Kanavel of Chicago, stated in its bulletin that the clinical program would show "some types of surgical work not to be seen elsewhere in the United States."

Dr. Kanavel is to speak at the presidential meeting tomorrow evening, when the president-elect, Dr. J. Bentley Squier of New York, also is to speak. Dr. Squier will deliver his presidential address at the Friday evening convocation, when about 600 surgeons are to be admitted to fellowship.

Teaching methods in surgery and the surgical specialties will be discussed Wednesday afternoon and is among fundamental problems of policy under consideration by the Board of Regents. It is to be the subject of a report by Dr. Franklin H. Martin, director-general, at the annual meeting Thursday afternoon.

Results of surveys to determine facilities for the care of sick and injured in industry, and co-operation with industry in formulating plans for the care of employes, are to be covered in the report. Dr. Martin also is to report on a study of facilities for the treatment of cancer, based on personal surveys.

Coffin, chairman of the Wayne County Republican Committee. He will speak from his office at Dearborn.

League Near Shipwreck On the Rock of Japan, Lloyd George Declares

Twiddles Its Thumbs in Despair, He Says, While Germany Demands Either General Disarmament or Right to Rearm Itself and Mikado's Forces in Manchuria Defy the World.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

War-Time Prime Minister of Great Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 15.

THE League of Nations is today on the point of foundering. Germany demands general disarmament or German re-armament. France will agree to neither. Japan defies the world over Manchuria. Geneva twiddles its thumbs in despair. It is face to face with two problems, failure to deal with which may result in war in both Europe and Asia.

Is the League equal to the great task of settling these two disputes simultaneously, or even one of them alone? Nothing it has done so far would justify the confidence that exists among its best friends.

For 13 years the League of Nations has struggled on, freighted with the hopes of scores of millions of peace lovers in many countries. In calm weather it has seemed to make some headway, though when storms have appeared it has commonly sought cover in an improvised shelter wattled with pious resolutions. It has on these occasions made up in meekness what it has lacked in strength.

Now, with no funk hole in sight, it must either go forward or run away. If it pursues the latter course, then its sumptuous palace at Geneva will be "for sale." No self-respecting nation would, after such an exhibition of cowardice and futility, think it worth the annual subscription.

League's Minor Achievements.

No one can accuse me of being anything but a friend to the ideals of the League of Nations. At the peace conference in Paris I assisted in its birth, and, indeed, its very constitution was, in all its main features, drafted by a committee appointed by me and presided over by Gen. Smuts.

No one can have greater happiness than I in recognizing whatever good the League has achieved, and its pitiable failure to grapple with the main issues for which it was created can strike no one with keener disappointment.

While I am attempting here to eulogize the League, I would point with pride to the list of 56 nations which have signed its covenant; to the 200 treaties of arbitration and conciliation it has promoted; to the energetic work it has done for the suppression of the drug traffic and white slavery, for the prevention of epidemics, for the financial reconstruction of bankrupt nations, and for the promotion of friendly relations among statesmen in widely separated lands. But no successes in minor fields can excuse its essential failure in achieving the prime object of its existence.

The League was born out of the horrors of the great war and was established specifically to prevent a recurrence of modern warfare among civilized nations.

"A Ridiculous Failure."

The preamble of the covenant clearly sets out that its prime object is "to promote international co-operation and to achieve international peace and security by acceptance of obligations not to resort to war."

The terms of the covenant pledged its signatories not to take up arms to settle a dispute with another nation, but to bring the matter into conference for peaceful arrangement, and the League itself was pledged to secure the maintenance of peace by bringing about general disarmament and by enforcing with the whole strength of its membership the peaceful settlement of quarrels and the restraint and punishment of any nation entering on a course of armed aggression.

Has it obtained even passable success in the realization of any of these aims? In this it has not only been a failure but a ridiculous failure.

When put to the test it has proved incapable of compelling disarmament, of checking or punishing acts of war by a powerful nation, and of inducing its members to treat seriously obligations into which, under its covenant, they have entered.

The ideals of the League are excellent. So, too, are the treaties it has promoted. But the attitude of signatories appears always to be: "I'll stick to my word until it pays me to break it."

Pledges With a Reservation.

Pledges given with that reservation are not worth the paper on which they are written. If, despite solemn obligations to the contrary, minority populations can be shamelessly maltreated, immense armaments massed and retained, territories snatched from another nation, towns bombed and civilians massacred by thousands, the solemn parliament at Geneva have become no more than a grotesque hypocrisy.

Its pompous deliberations with their endless reiteration of meaningless cliches are beginning to weary and irritate. They were all very well when uttered in the mellifluous voice and sonorous rhetoric of Aristide Briand. But the rasping and sterile platitudes of smaller men produce an earache.

The fact is becoming too painfully evident that important signatories of the League covenant have regarded Geneva primarily as a potential tool for their own national objects and have treated it with contempt whenever it seemed likely to advise a course from which they had nothing to gain

Italy, Germany, and Russia have recognized that, whatever the ideals of the League on paper, it cannot in practice rise higher than the idealism of the stronger nations composing it. If this is lacking the League is bound to be impotent.

The Corfu Incident.

Admirable as has been work fostered by the League in many minor fields, it was foredoomed to meet its Waterloo whenever confronted by a major issue seriously affecting the interests and ambitions of one of the stronger Powers. That is the situation which has now arisen in the case of Japan and China, and is the equally menacing situation which has arisen between Germany and France.

A more disastrous stage setting for the League's ordeal could hardly have been devised. When in August, 1923, trouble between Italy and Greece led to the Corfu incident, the League of Nations was equally ineffective, but the Council of Ambassadors was in a position to save its face.

Were France or Britain to become a main actor today in an affair which broke the peace of the League, their sympathizers and diplomatic connections among other nations might quite possibly assist them to disguise the issue so that the League's incapacity to deal with it could somehow be glossed over.

Japan May Be Rock of Shipwreck.

But Japan occupies a peculiar position. It is of all the great Powers the most isolated, alike by geographical situation, by temperament, by racial and lingual affinities, and by diplomatic associations. For 800 of the last 1000 years it has held aloof from cultural association with any other nation. Mentally isolated, the Japanese are also physically isolated by the fact that their Western neighbors, the United States, Canada, and Australia, either exclude them or subject them to serious disabilities.

As an eager pupil of the West, Japan joined the League of Nations because it seemed a Western thing to do. But the democratic and international ideals which the League embodies find no echo in the Japanese mentality and it is hardly surprising, therefore, when in the name of those ideals Japan is called on by the League to abandon projects of aggrandizement in Manchuria, which it considers vitally important for its national well-being, it should be not only annoyed but bewildered and quite calmly doesn't understand.

The Japanese does not say: "My country right or wrong," because he never dreams that his country can be wrong. He does not put the interests of his own country first. For him no other interests exist.

This sturdy, compact and isolated nation is today becoming the rock on which the League of Nations may well be shipwrecked.

Murderous Attack' on Shanghai.

Choosing the time which seemed to it propitious, Japan has for its own ends wrenched Manchuria from China, and, because China protested in the only way left to it, by boycotting Japanese goods, then in a sudden excess of nervous anger Japan attacked the Chinese murderously at Shanghai.

The League of Nations has bleated and occasionally screeched, but without the slightest effect. The Japanese abandoned their war at Shanghai, not for any pleadings of Western Powers, but because they found resistance from the ill-equipped youth of China such as they had never anticipated, and

The City's Unemployment Problem—How Can It Be Permanently Solved?

Head of Great Relief Drive Discusses Ways and Means for Community to Cure Its Own Ills, Instead of Depending Upon External Sources, As Fourth Winter of the Depression Approaches With 125,000 Jobless and 65,000 Families on the Dole.

By SAM J. SHELTON,

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

THE joint Community Fund campaign for approximately $4,000,000 which soon will be started and the launching of the local phase of the national "share-the-work" movement for unemployment relief dramatically signalize the beginning of the fourth winter of the depression for St. Louis.

These events come at a time when municipal and private resources have been strained by the cumulative burdens of the extraordinary efforts required in the last three years to supply food, clothing and shelter to the growing army of the destitute jobless and their dependents; at a time when thoughtful and public-spirited citizens are asking, what is the cause of this deplorable condition, how long will it continue and what are the prospects for permanent improvement?

The question involves the welfare of perhaps 125,000 workers without jobs in St. Louis, not more than 60 per cent of whom thus far have had to turn to relief agencies for support. What is in store for these and how many more will have to seek aid?

One of those closest to the present situation and, therefore, most concerned about what can be done that will be of lasting benefit in helping the city out of its plight is Emil G. Steger, director of the Community Fund and Community Council, the central organizations for providing funds for charitable relief, who was drafted for that important post after serving for seven years as head of the Provident Association.

Because of Mr. Steger's training and extensive experience in the field of sociology, economics and welfare work, the Post-Dispatch asked him to discuss in an interview the various aspects of the city's problem.

Viewing the matter broadly and looking about for constructive measures to apply to it, he said: "If after 20 years in this work I am not equipped to do more than just hand out relief, then I have failed and so has organized social welfare work."

Seeks Real, Not "Made" Work for Unemployed.

It is possible, in a few words, to summarize the striking points made by Mr. Steger before giving more extensive discussion of his views:

> The community needs to focus attention upon itself as a unit and to consider the possibilities of putting people to work—at real productive work, not just "made" work—in the existing industries, and increasing the payroll.
> This is no short-term emergency but a condition which may become permanent and progressively worse, or at least no better, unless the present trend is checked.
> Although direct relief may be administered under ideal conditions and with the best safeguards it is possible to throw around it, we cannot escape its ill effects upon the community and upon many of those who are aided.
> To increase the "buying power," that is, the consuming power of the great mass of workers is the real need.
> A possible means of permanent betterment would be a local "economic council" in which the city government and the industrial and business leaders would work together to increase employment and enlarge payrolls, and thus create a greater market for the products of the city's industries and stores.

Says Means of Recovery Lie Largely in Our Own Bounds.

Did Mr. Steger think of segregating the community problem and applying intensive thinking with the purpose of finding a solution within its own borders?

The question, he said, gets at the root of the problem. Then he explained: "Without for a moment losing sight of our place as a part of the nation or forgetting that we are one unit in the pattern of communities that make our nation one country, now is the time to search out the real outlines of our problem by focusing our attention on our own community. Our community, St. Louis and the St. Louis trade area, is the nation in miniature.

"A clear view of our own community and specifically of the problem which is exclusively ours is bound to change our present attitude of hopeful expectancy to an attitude of vital activity which is essential to genuine recovery.

"We are bound to discover that the remedies leading to genuine recovery lie, to an astonishing extent, within our own bounds ready for us to apply through purposeful and intelligently planned action."

E. G. STEGER.

MR. STEGER has been engaged actively in public welfare and social service work for about 20 years. After preparation for the ministry at Concordia College at Fort Wayne, Ind., where he received his bachelor's degree, and at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, he turned to newspaper work and shortly afterward joined the United Charities in Chicago. At the outbreak of the war he became a field secretary for the American Red Cross and in January, 1918, he became secretary of the United Charities of St. Paul, Minn. He remained in St. Paul until 1923 when he came to St. Louis as manager of the Provident Association. He has been called upon extensively for addresses and lectures on sociological and social welfare topics.

What did he mean by "hopeful expectancy?" Simply that many persons, here and elsewhere, are taking the comforting view that the crisis will soon be over, that the normal processes of industry will somehow return and the unemployed will be restored to their jobs.

This is a delusion, Mr. Steger thought, capable of incalculable harm.

"It is rather ironical," he said, "to keep referring to 'this emergency,' as if it would soon be completely cleared up. There is a long stretch ahead before employment conditions will be very much better. Giving full weight to the probable normal absorption of workers by industry on the mend, St. Louis must go through 1933 with probably 25,000 families wholly or partially dependent." And the estimated requirement for local relief in 1933 reach the staggering total of about $5,000,000!

Here he explained that for some time the average number of families on the relief rolls has been about 25,000 although as many as 65,000 individual families have been aided at one time or another this year, but he added that thus far not more than 60 per cent of the 125,000 estimated to be out of employment have called upon the relief agencies for aid. How soon others will call, and how many, cannot be foretold, he said.

In view of the well-known fact that for several years before the depression began, employment had been steadily decreasing, as was shown in a special article on the subject in the Post-Dispatch Feb. 14, he was asked how this affected the outlook, which he had already described as discouraging unless positive action was taken to bring about improvement.

The relief record for the first eight months of 1929, a year of prosperity, illustrated his point. That was the year of greatest commercial activity and it was not until October that the depression began so definitely as to be recognized.

Yet in the first eight months of 1929 the Provident Association supplied relief to 13,865 families as compared with 8549 in all of 1928, 8214 in 1927 and 6329 in 1926.

Here was evidence of the effect in St. Louis of the "technological" unemployment now identified as a puzzling accompaniment of the "machine age."

St. Louisans recall the outstanding local example of the displacement of labor by the mammoth machines which scooped out the River des Peres sewer in Forest Park, in 1928 and 1929. On that job 70 skilled operators in charge of giant machines and trucks accomplished results which engineers estimated it would have taken 7000 men and 1000 mules to perform without the machines. There was an $872,000 contract in which the greater part of the money went to repay investment in machines and a minimum to labor.

Old Processes No Longer Fit New Emergency.

Speaking of the St. Louis relief figures for the years preceding the depression, Mr. Steger said: "If during those astonishing days when the normal processes of industry and business were functioning at top speed unemployment and relief demands were steadily increasing, are we justified in putting our dependence for genuine recovery on those same unchanged normal processes? Such an attitude can hardly be called realistic and certainly does not indicate a clear understanding of our problem."

Asked about the effect of continuing technological unemployment on the purchasing power of the country, and therefore on the volume of trade and commerce, Mr. Steger continued:

"The normal processes of industry and business as they functioned before the depression, if they should be resumed now without change would, of course, to a degree reduce unemployment and relief demands. However, such expected resumption cannot reasonably be looked to to solve our problem. This problem will continue just as long as considerable numbers of men and women, who are both willing and able to work for their livelihood, are deprived of the opportunity of earning because of the lack of employment opportunity. And there is no reason to expect that a return to unchanged normal functioning will do other than continue the increasing burden of technological unemployment so clearly evident even before the beginning of the great depression.

"So our problem, lifted out of its depression setting, shows us the prospect of increasing technological unemployment, corresponding reduction of purchasing power, which in turn inevitably creates relatively more unemployment, adds so much more to the relief need, and so on to what end?"

Unemployment Growing Strain on Community.

What about the effect upon the community of the heavy drain required to maintain the destitute, and the effect upon individuals of long enforced dependence upon charity, Mr. Steger was asked?

"Only the willfully blind and the hopelessly stupid," he said, "can fail to see the disastrous effects of unemployment on the community life. Community problems grow apace with enforced idleness, throwing on government increasing burdens involved in the control of problems of delinquency, problems of health, problems of housing and sanitation, and at the same time the financing of the operation of governmental activities becomes more and more difficult.

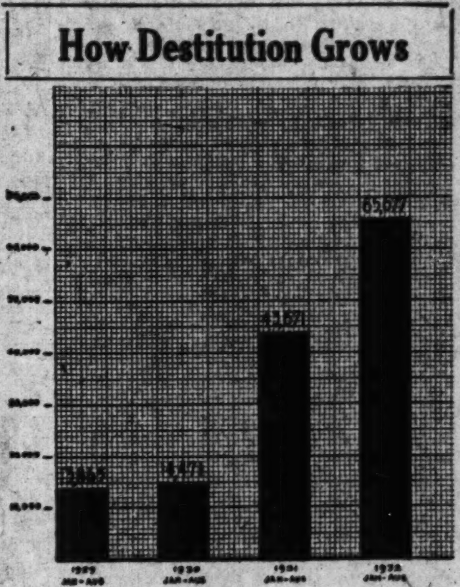
"Then add to this the ultimate price of enforced idleness paid in terms of manhood and womanhood, paid in terms of citizenship, and the result is a sum total which no community can afford. Relief measures are essential. It is the moral obligation of community, state and nation, government and citizenship alike, to spend, if need be, all available wealth and strength to prevent all the preventable suffering due to enforced idleness.

"It is our moral obligation to administer all necessary relief under conditions which will be most likely to safeguard those priceless human values which are so necessary to manhood and womanhood, the right to privacy, the integrity of the home, decent appearance, and the like.

"However, no system of unemployment relief has yet been devised that can provide a substitute for self-support, or give a feeling of security. Even the best imaginable unemployment relief system cannot prevent in any community a terrific loss in self-respect, in destroyed or weakened family life, in individual initiative and ambition."

Directing attention to the various expedients to reduce unemployment and aid the destitute that have been proposed or tried, nationally or locally, the writer asked Mr. Steger to comment upon their prospects for success. He felt that no adverse criticism should be voiced of any sincere effort at improvement, but also that false hopes should not be stirred by uncertain remedies. Among the measures discussed were the "share-the-work" campaign, staggering of jobs, "made" work, borrowing, special taxes and public subscription campaigns.

How Destitution Grows



THIS chart, prepared by the Citizens' Committee Agencies, shows the number of families under their care at one time or another during first eight months of year, 1929 to 1932.

Success of these measures might be expected, in varying degree, he said, but he could see in them no permanent value. He pointed out that "borrowing always mortgages the future," that taxing becomes more unproductive as the number of dependents increases, that the possibilities of public subscription may be exhausted, and that "made" work is at best only a temporary expedient.

As to this last, he called attention to the Federal Government's $100,000,000 public buildings program, reduced to $90,000,000 by the economy cuts. First there is the long delay in getting started, and then there is the virtually negligible effect of $90,000,000 applied to 10,000,000 unemployed, especially since the Government, in order not to squander public funds, must employ the most efficient construction methods with the use of manual labor reduced to the minimum. Again the machine. Many public projects could be carried out with manual labor exclusively only by paying wages so low as to seem shameful.

There have been recently some pertinent comments as to the "share-the-work" campaign. The Socialist candidate for Vice-President, James H. Maurer, said in St. Louis: "It makes two paupers where one existed before." The Central Trades and Labor Union adopted a resolution opposing it, stating that "instead of such plan making available more buying power and releasing a greater volume of money with which to speed up buying, such a scheme would make the purchasing power of labor just what it is at this time, no more and no less."

Virtual agreement with these views that no permanent betterment was to be expected from the plan as now devised, was expressed by Mr. Steger. He could see in the movement only a thinner spreading out of present payrolls, since it contemplates only increasing workers and not payrolls, and consequently no increase in purchasing power.

"No Temporary Emergency But Absolutely New Situation."

What then, Mr. Steger was asked, could he suggest to increase employment permanently as an aid to the working part of the population and to increase the purchasing power of the whole population as an aid to business in general and ultimately to the whole community?

Again he emphasized, "Any increase in unemployment decreases purchasing power," and added:

"Is there any escape from the conviction that we as a community are facing not merely a temporary emergency but an absolutely new situation, one created by the machine age which demands courageous measures to meet the effects of changed methods in normal processes of industry and business?

"These measures must bring about employment possibilities in increasing degree

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Suggests Starting at the Top.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE efforts of the administration's representative to promote a share-the-work—which means sharing the income from labor—movement is a noble gesture, but a rather belated and converse movement to restore prosperity, though it will have the good effect, if put into force, of preventing suffering by some of the present unemployed. With wages reduced by the general wage cutting in 1930—by which the industrial leaders were going to bring back prosperity—many of the present employed have not so much income to share.

It is not the inequitableness between the man earning $1200 a year and the man earning $1000 a year that counts so much in breaking down prosperity or prolonging a depression. Rather, it is the inequitableness between the men receiving $100,000 a year salaries, $200,000 a year expense accounts, 400 per cent stock dividends, $1,000,000 a year bonuses, and the man receiving only $1000 a year income, that breaks prosperity and prolongs a depression. It appears that among all the movements started from the top for the revival of prosperity, the one that should have been started from the top is started from the bottom. When so much money that was not coming from gold mines or from inflated currency was clamoring for investment during the so-called prosperity era, it should have been apparent to even the most mediocre economist that the toiling millions were being robbed of their equitable share of the national income; for, in spite of all the propaganda to the contrary, the toiling millions had no money clamoring for investment. Rather, they were clamoring for money with which to buy the products of the nation's farms, forests, factories and mines, but they did not get it. R. F.

Says People Are Being Misled.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN the composer wrote the late popular song, "Crazy People," he certainly knew whereof he spoke. In our President, we have a man who stands for honesty in government to the last degree and that is what the people are clamoring for, and haven't sense enough to see it. They want to experiment at a critical time like this with something new, they don't know what.

I heard a person say the other day that "the reason we are having hard times is because Mr. Hoover sent all of our money over to England." Such things are beyond being laughable. They are tragic. Such people will go to the polls in November and help decide the fate of our country.

With the help of our partisan-crazed press, the people of St. Louis are being sadly misled. MRS. F. C. WINKLE.

Would Nominate Reed.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SUGGEST the name of that outstanding Missouri Democrat, James A. Reed, for Governor. I believe he should be drafted and nominated. He owes it to his party. No man is bigger or greater than his party. Though he once aspired to the presidency, the governorship is no reproach. He should be proud to acknowledge the great honor to be Governor of Missouri. WILLIAM BAGGOT.

Now It May Be Told.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN Calvin Coolidge was President and made that magnanimous decision to reduce the tariff on paintbrush handles, many people condemned his act as one of sheer madness. Others considered it to be a matter of small consequence. Time has proved they were both wrong. He was wisely laying an economical foundation for this white-wash job of making his own and Mr. Hoover's administration appear lily-white. Since it appears to be the most stupendous undertaking of all time, the saving on cost of paintbrush handles alone will keep his "horsie" in luxury for the rest of his days. FLAXSEED.

As to Mayor Hoan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT sort of mental processes have these men like Mayor Hoan of Milwaukee, who are always spouting about how wonderfully well a city government, conducted on capitalist principles by a Socialist, works under Socialism? Of course, not a Marxian principle is applied by Hoan in his administration of Milwaukee's government. Just as well say it is a good Protestant or good Catholic government, if he be either, as to say it is socialistic. Whatever success he has in the conduct of his city's government is not a triumph of Socialism, but of capitalism under hostile, though efficient, management.

If all that is said about Hoan is true, then his record is a good argument against Socialism, for what he has done for Milwaukee may be done for every other government in the country. It is simple enough. All that is needed is honest, capable and courageous men in office. The best way to get them is by the short ballot and the convention system of nominations—not the old convention system, but conventions elected and conducted under strict statutory regulations, with penalties for fraudulent and corrupt conduct. The primary system has all but wrecked popular government in this country.

GLENDY B. ARNOLD.

Missouri's Battle Against Bossism

Boss Pendergast insists upon his right to name the Democratic candidate for Governor of Missouri. Unfortunately, he is going to Jefferson City Monday, though not a member of the Democratic State Central Committee. The name of his candidate, like that of Abou Ben Adhem, leads all the rest.

Missouri's fight against bossism thus becomes acute. The members of the committee cannot ignore the possible consequences of an alliance with Pendergast. While it is true that the chances of Democratic success in this best of all opposition years are extraordinary, it is still possible for the Republican candidate for Governor, Lieut. Governor Winter, to benefit immensely from a revolt among Democratic voters who object to delivering the State hog-tied into the greedy clutches of the Democratic boss at Kansas City.

The Democratic State Central Committee will have to consider whether it can afford to take Pendergast upon its back, and get anywhere in November. There is no reason in the world why it should assume any such handicap. There is every reason why it should not do so. The party can find a candidate without any disqualifications, one unprejudiced by Pendergast affiliations. It has a much better chance to win with such a candidate than it has with some Old Man of the Sea.

It all depends upon the freedom of the committee and its right to call its soul its own. If it is to be led around with a ring in its nose by Boss Pendergast, it is not free and cannot call its soul its own. In that event, the people of the State, whether Democrats or Republicans, must perforce join hands in the cause of good government. They can do so by supporting Mr. Winter for Governor. Mr. Winter has no serious disqualifications for the office he seeks. He won the nomination over Secretary of State Becker because the better element in his party did not want the Republicans of Missouri to make the same mistake that the Democrats can now easily make.

If the committee is free, it will resolutely set its face against Pendergast and all his works. The fortunes of the party in the State have not been happy for some time. It has not had the governorship since 1921, when Gov. Gardner went out of office. He has been succeeded by three Republican Governors, Messrs. Hyde, Baker, and Caulfield. The party's fortunes in the State can be repaired only by good works. They cannot be repaired by an alliance with the Democratic boss at Kansas City. Any such alliance must be at the cost of good government, and the penalty for bad government would be certain. The people of Missouri cannot reach Pendergast in Kansas City, but they can reach the Democratic party in Missouri.

The powers of the Governor in Missouri are too great for any suspicion that politics govern or control his judgments and actions. The Governor should, like Caesar's wife, be above suspicion. There are the 1800 policemen in St. Louis, who are absolutely under his control, a power for which designing politicians have clamored throughout the excellent regime of Gov. Caulfield. There are election boards of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Kansas City, which are filled by the Governor and therefore made responsible to him. There is the non-partisan State Highway Department, the great usefulness of which could be easily impaired by political interference, something it has never known. In a word, the stake which the people of the State have in the selection to be made at Jefferson City Monday is far too great to have bossism control the situation.

Beat the Boss!

History and November, 1932

There is nothing unusual about the tremendous majorities which the various straw votes are giving to Gov. Roosevelt or about the reports from numerous states that long-intrenched Republican Senators and Representatives are facing certain defeat three weeks hence. Revolts at the polls come at intervals and when they come nothing that politicians can do or say can stop them.

A President goes into office with a good majority for his party in each house of Congress. Administration missteps, a fatal tariff bill, bad appointments, a downturn in business follow and a popular reaction sets in. When the mid-term election comes around, the President loses one or both houses of Congress. During the last half of the term, adverse sentiment accumulates still more rapidly and when the next presidential election is held, the opposition party wins with a landslide. That is the formula. American history bears it out time and again. Whether the party in power be the Democrats or the Republicans makes no difference. It was true in Cleveland's time. It was true in Taft's and in Wilson's. It is true in President Hoover's.

In 1892 Cleveland was elected for his second term and with him a Democratic Congress. His party received 44 seats in the Senate to 38 for the Republicans, and 220 House seats to the Republicans' 126. Hard times followed, and in the mid-term election he lost both houses of Congress. So complete was the reaction by 1896 that Mark Hanna's candidate, William McKinley, in many ways Cleveland's opposite, could be elected in his stead.

Or take the case of William Howard Taft. He was elected over Bryan in 1908 by large popular and electoral majorities. He began his term with about twice as many Republicans as Democrats in the Senate and a majority of about 50 in the House. Popular dissatisfaction with the Taft administration registered itself in unmistakable terms in the following congressional election. The Republican majority in the House was swept out and an even larger one for the Democrats put in its place. The Republicans did manage to retain control of the Senate by a close margin, but the party's losses were great. The full effect of the reaction against the Republican party was made manifest two years later when Woodrow Wilson carried all but eight states, the Democrats winning both branches of Congress, the House by about 150 majority.

In time, the tide of popular esteem turned against Wilson. Re-elected in 1916 with Democratic majorities in Congress, he led the country through the war and bore the brunt of the resentment which followed. Knowing that he would need a friendly Congress to carry out his peace program, Wilson asked for a Democratic majority in 1918. The country refused his request. Instead, it sent back to Washington a Republican majority of nearly 50 in the House. The seating of Truman H. Newberry gave the Republicans an advantage of one vote in the Senate, enough to organize and frustrate the Wilson dream of the United States leading the world in forging the peace. Two years later, the reaction culminated with the landslide for Warren G. Harding, a candidate for whom many in his party cared nothing. The Senate went Republican by 21 votes, the House by about 170, overwhelming majorities in each case.

We now come to the case of President Hoover. He was elected on a prosperity platform four years ago by the tremendous majority of approximately 6,000,000 votes. With him he took to Washington a Republican majority of 17 in the Senate and 104 in the House. The mid-term election two years ago provided the people with their first opportunity to register official judgment of the Hoover administration. That judgment left no question as to the state of the popular mind. The Republican majority of 17 in the Senate was reduced to one. Illinois and Massachusetts, normally heavily Republican, were among the states which sent Democrats to replace Republican Senators. Subsequent special congressional elections confirmed the trend. When the House convened in December, 1931, Mr. Hoover's party had lost control and the Longworth-Tilson-Snell domination passed just as "Czar" Cannon's rule passed 20 years before.

Thus does the past illumine the present. Mr. Hoover has suffered the reverses that were the lot of Cleveland, Taft and Wilson. The mid-term reaction against him represented the same inclination of the people to hold the party in power to account that was manifest in 1894, 1910 and 1918. It leaves 1932 standing with 1896, 1912 and 1920, years of tremendous presidential overturns. To ignore that is to ignore a fact written indelibly on the pages of American history.

Illinois and Its Governor

A truly noteworthy development has occurred in the campaign for Governor of Illinois. It is the indorsement of Judge Henry Horner's candidacy by 200 professors at the University of Chicago, the majority of whom are Republicans. Led by Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the university, they have sent the following message to all alumni:

> This committee is not concerned with your views on national issues. Our belief is that Judge Horner is not only a fit man for the governorship, but also is unusually able and demonstratedly trustworthy, and that, with conditions what they are in our country, we must have a fit, able and trustworthy man in charge of State affairs.

Such an appeal rises high above party politics. It places the welfare of the people above adherence to a label. It recognizes that national party policies are not involved in the conduct of the government of a great state. The duty of the conscientious voter, it says in effect, is to support a man whose record of public service is the best testimony to his fitness for the high post of Governor.

As the election approaches, the Republican swing to Judge Horner becomes increasingly marked. A few days ago, the Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph, long one of the outstanding Republican newspapers in agricultural Illinois, announced that, unable to support the Republican candidate for Governor, it would throw its influence behind Judge Horner. We have previously called attention to the stand in his favor taken by the Chicago Daily News, a leading supporter of the Hoover administration, and other metropolitan newspapers. Small city dailies and country weeklies have taken the same position in all parts of the State. Organizations, civic leaders, business men, war veterans and others have indorsed him. At the present, the Daily News is printing a series of carefully written articles, reviewing the career of Judge Horner's opponent, which might well be read by Illinois voters who have forgotten the State scandals that arose between 1920 and 1928.

But it is not against the unfortunate record of his opponent that Judge Horner is making his campaign. As Illinois audiences know, it is his own record, his reputation for ability and integrity, that he has asked them to base their decisions on. A native and lifelong resident of Illinois, he was first elected Probate Judge of Cook County 18 years ago. Each election since he has been returned to his post. Two years ago he won by a majority of 400,000.

The court over which Judge Horner has presided is said to adjudicate the greatest volume of legal matters before any single court in the world. His methods have eliminated much waste in time and money and protected thousands of estates for widows and orphans. He originated the "Horner plan," which administers the estates of dead soldiers without legal costs to heirs. His reputation for fairness in labor disputes led the Department of Labor to choose him to arbitrate national wage controversies. It is no wonder that Jane Addams and other social workers have volunteered to support him. They have but one choice when they contrast such a reputation with that of his opponent, whose padded payrolls caused the late Julia C. Lathrop to resign in protest from the State Board of Charities.

Few there are, whatever their religious affiliations, who will not resent the slurs against Judge Horner's being a Jew. Such an attack is always the last resort. Frank O. Lowden is a Protestant. Edward F. Dunne is a Catholic. Both served Illinois well in the Governor's chair. That Judge Horner's religion should affect his candidacy is unthinkable. At the present time, Oregon and New Mexico have Jewish Governors. The Democrats of New York have just nominated a Jew for Governor. Mr. Hoover recently appointed Judge Cardozo, of Jewish descent, to the United States Supreme bench. There is no reason to believe that Illinois voters would put religious prejudice ahead of good government.

Judge Horner's plan to reapportion the State Legislature so that down-state would control the Senate, while Chicago would have representation according to population in the House, his support of the $20,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue as a means of preventing a virtual doubling of the State property tax rate, his specific plans for the reduction of State expenditures, all commend him to the voters of the entire State, irrespective of locality.

Illinois will need a Governor of unquestioned honesty as it goes about solving the problems with which it is confronted. Judging by the way in which voters are placing that realization above party considerations, they are apparently convinced they have found the man they want.

LATEST REPORT FROM THE LITERARY DIGEST.

Business vs. Finance

Troubles of business result largely from its link with speculative finance, which brews poison of over-expansion; such financiers, profiting from instability, have become masters of production; solution is to remove money from investment field and devote it to buying; drastic tax on unspent hoards of money is one way to do this.

David Cushman Coyle, Consulting Engineer, in Corporate Practice Review.

IT is evident enough that, in attempting to free itself of the poison of over-building, business is pulling the beard of that man-eating ogre, finance. It is only beginning to be dimly recognized that in a plenty economy there is and must be, between the interests of business and those of finance, an irrepressible conflict. The normal processes of finance are poisonous to business. Finance causes instability.

One way to make financial profits is to wait till business starts to be profitable, and then lend money to over-extend its plant. Then, when it naturally goes bankrupt, the lender gets it. Another way is to buy securities when they threaten to go up, and hold them so that they will go up, and sell when they threaten to go down, and hold off so as to help them to go down. Business pays the costs. Business needs stability to prosper, finance gets its profits from instability.

To be more specific: The income tax makes for stability and is hated by finance; the sales tax makes for instability and is hated by business. Over this conflict of interest there must be a battle, because so long as finance dominates business, both are headed for the precipice, and finance will not lose its grip without a fight. The question whether they go over the edge together will be settled by whether business is able to rouse itself and muster the power to reduce finance to its proper place as a servant of production.

The conflict between the interests of business and finance illuminates the true relation between the securities market and business. If money is artificially diverted from investment to spending in adequate amounts to keep over-building within bounds, it will cause low prices for stocks and bonds. The prosperity of trade due to active buying of goods will be accompanied by a low state of the stock market, owing to scarcity of funds looking for investment.

The principle needs to be taught in all the schools that sound business growth is NOT marked by rising securities markets, but by high rates of return on invested money. If securities are paying high rates of return, it means that finance is calling for money and cannot get it, which means that machinery is going on double shifts and that extensions of plant are blocked for want of capital, which means that new competition is not being built up, which means that business is sound. But the "good times" which we are accustomed to see are marked by rising stock markets, which means that new plant is being floated, which means that overhead is going to rise, which means that finance is already digging the hole for business to fall into. It will be a new era when we see business active and profitable without a rise in the securities markets. When that happens, it will be a fairly good sign that business has finance under control, for the moment at least.

A cure for the present depression is not the subject of this discussion, but there are obviously some pertinent conclusions to be drawn from the facts that have been pointed out. Everybody knows it would be easy enough to turn the button by selling to the Federal Reserve a large issue of Federal bonds, and spending the proceeds on public works. Prices would rise, and business would start up.

The trouble with applying this simple remedy is that we cannot be assured that the profits of revived business will not go into another orgy of over-building. About one more shot of that kind of poison, and no one knows what may happen. Anti-deflation might go right on into uncontrollable inflation. The fact is that, until we have a means of effectively keeping money out of Wall Street and making it stay in Main Street, where it belongs, it will be foolish to venture out of the frying pan where we now simmer.

It is one thing to say that there ought to be a law, and quite another to muster the power to get it and use it. Where can the power be found to clip the claws of the financial lion?

In all matters that depend on political action, it is necessary to be in line with the emotional forces that have driving power. Such a force in America is the desire for individual freedom of initiative. The Socialist solution, while mathematically sound, is fatally handicapped by our temperamental distaste for discipline. Capitalism, as it has been organized, also subjects the majority of our people to a galling yoke, and it is a vital fact that the measures which are necessary to save capitalism will lead to a wider spread of individual liberty.

Great sums must be removed from the hands of financiers and put in the hands of buyers. That means a measure of emancipation for business from the clutches of the banks. The necessary measures will remove the incentive of purely financial mergers, and the incentive to try to grow rich beyond all bounds. That means more chances for middle-sized concerns to survive, and therefore more openings for individual initiative and leadership. Money must be poured into the consumption of goods, which means not only more profitable business, but relative scarcity of labor.

This is only the first step. Dozens of other adjustments will have to follow, notably the establishment of a good attempt at credit control and of cash-hoarding systems to carry dividends, wages and public works over the low spots. But this is the key-log; everything else is jammed against this.

For the moment, business has one thing to do; to provide for a drastic tax on unspent accumulations of money. That one thing is simple, effective and dramatic. It is so simple that a considerable number of business men have already thought of it and are preaching it to their friends. It is, in fact, old stuff, going back to Hobson, and even to Malthus and Lord Lauderdale over a century ago; its dramatic quality is simply due to the fact that now the time is ripe, the plenty economy is here and this adjustment is imperatively necessary.

When the emotional desires of the majority run in one way—when the economic interests of manufacturers, merchants, professional men, laborers and farmers all point the same way—when the solution is simple enough to be discussed in Pullman smokers and country stores—then the stage is set for something to happen. All that is needed is to get the issues clear.

The Changing Theater

Alexander Bakshy in Current History.

THE theater in America is manifestly in a state of profound disturbance. Not only is it suffering from the financial straits brought about by the economic crisis, but its very foundations have in places given way and threaten to collapse with the entire elaborate structure which they have supported for the past 30 years. At least, unless the wish is father to the thought, such is the situation as it appears to one who is unable to shed any tears over the plight in which Broadway finds itself, but rather regards it as the most promising thing that has as yet happened to the drama in America.

There can be no doubt, indeed, that there is everything to be gained from the disintegration of the interests, and particularly of the big business interests, that have been holding the drama in their grip. In spite of an occasional production like "Street Scene," "The Green Pastures," "Chicago" or "Of Thee I Sing" thrusting its way to the Broadway footlights, the purveyors of stage attractions have done their utmost to bring the dramatic art of the country to a condition which makes of it merely an article of commerce, manufactured by methods of mass production, and palmed off on the consumers with as little regard for the finer artistic values as they can be made to endure.

Perhaps it is natural for the economic system under which we live that commercial enterprise in the art of the theater, as in any other field of commercial activity, should eventually concentrate in the hands of a few powerful trusts. From the purely commercial point of view, such a development has obvious advantages and undoubtedly leads to greater commercial efficiency as well as greater profits. Unfortunately, or perhaps fortunately, art and commerce can tolerate one another only in small doses. The more commerce is mixed with art, the less art is left in the mixture.

In the amazing growth of "little," "community," "college" and "university" theaters and similar developments, we see the beginning of the decentralization of the American theater. A new and vast audience is growing away from Broadway influence. Authors are beginning to find opportunities to see their work tried on the stage, whether it turns out to be a popular success or not. They are also placed in direct contact with their public so as to learn its reactions and the means of making their work more effective.

In sum, the public and the dramatist are coming into their own. The day seems, indeed, not far distant when they will be able to dispense with Broadway altogether.

CURVING STREET CORNERS.

From the Bangor (Me.) Commercial.

AMONG sane recommendations that experts have made is for a larger radius at street intersections. There is not a motorist or traffic policeman who does not realize the inconvenience and danger of the right-angle curb of the average street intersection. It is more than either a danger or an inconvenience. It is actually an obstacle to traffic, for it slows down unnecessarily the vehicle in making the turn.

In the days when traffic was slower and the principal vehicle was horse-drawn, the sharp turn at a street intersection was permissible. Today with traffic properly moving faster, if only to accommodate its volume, the right-angle turn is an impediment.

Here and there in the city, this fact has been recognized and the radius enlarged. The practice will continue. The experts are convinced after study that in cities, this is one of many things required to facilitate the efficient handling of traffic.

WILBUR HOPEFUL HOOVER WILL WIN AS M'KINLEY DID

Secretary of Interior Recalls Bryan Was Regarded as Sure Winner in 1896 Until October.

He Speaks at Alton After Stop Here—Says People Have Right to Know Roosevelt's Bonus Stand.

In an interview yesterday, Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur said he hopes sober thinking will come with cooler weather and result in the re-election of President Hoover.

The Cabinet member stopped in St. Louis on his way to Alton, where he addressed a public meeting last night.

He thought his home State of California, which also is the home State of President Hoover, would remain in the Republican column, although he thought the President will have to "make a fight for it."

He minimized the defection of Senator Hiram Johnson of California, who has announced he will not support President Hoover. Wilbur thought this would have little effect, as Johnson never has been friendly to the President.

Recalls 1896 Switch.

Taking notice of the wave of anti-administration sentiment, Secretary Wilbur said:

"I saw a situation like this in the McKinley-Bryan campaign of 1896 when I was a young man. In August and even in September it seemed certain Bryan would be elected, but when the frosts of October came the people began to think soberly and decided against Democratic experiments.

"My hopes for the Republican party now is that the people have started to work from their collars up and are giving the kicking apparatus a rest. President Hoover's Des Moines speech was the dynamite that started the thinking. We have got past the sideshows and have come now to the main issue—the economic questions."

Roosevelt and Bonus.

Secretary Wilbur was asked what he thought of the bonus issue.

"The people," he said, "want to know and are entitled to know the position of Gov. Roosevelt on that issue. If he hasn't been able to make up his mind in all this time, that is something the people ought to know and consider. President Hoover's position is well known. If Gov. Roosevelt comes out with a proposal for paying the bonus to those who will take a pauper's oath, he will fail to meet the issue."

In three weeks of campaigning, he said, he had heard the prohibition issue mentioned only three times.

Secretary Wilbur, who has been engaged in educational work for many years, is on leave of absence from the presidency of Leland Stanford University. He is an old friend of President Hoover.

REX LEE BOURBON WINS AGAIN AT HORSE SHOW

Takes 5-Gaited Stake as in Past; Jumpers of A. A. Busch Jr. First.

Rex Lee Bourbon made the St. Louis Fall Horse Show official last night by capturing first place in the five-gaited stake event on the closing program. The big chestnut stallion owned by W. T. Treadway was the best of the field again as he has been in recent years.

Three horses owned by August A. Busch Jr. took the first three places in the jumpers' stake. Gin Fizz, Dansant and Bed Ray finished in that order.

The stockholders' class again furnished most amusement. Harry J. Burkart and August A. Busch Jr. were both riding the winner, Stuffing, when the horse entered the ring, but Burkart stuck it out and garnered the ribbon. Stuffing, a heavy dray horse, was well plastered with mud and made an incongruous picture with its rider in evening clothes and a top hat.

"Stockholders and members of the show's Executive Committee were required to ride in this event or pay a $5 forfeit. The other prizes went to Graham Porter, A. Van Ronzelen, and H. J. Sternberg. Sternberg was fourth. He made the mistake of exhibiting a show horse and giving it a good ride.

Five-Gaited Pairs — Reincarnation and Nancy Acres, owned by La Vista Farm, ridden by Sam Austene and Georgene Olin, first; Happy, owned by Sam Koplar, ridden by Paul Flynn, and Longview Lady, owned and ridden by Mrs. Fred S. Anheuser, second; Brown Hat and Missouri Chief McDonald, owned by Brookhill Farm, ridden by Robert E. Parker and Mrs. Claude H. Drew, third; Clarkson McDonald and Nettie Chestnut, owned by Clarkson Valley Stables, ridden by F. C. Holland and Margaret Sitton, fourth.

Three-gaited combination—Beggar Boo Rose, owned by W. T. Treadway, ridden by Ed Stalcup, first; Mirthful, owned by Fleetmount Farms, second; Toll Gate, owned by Holekamp Farms, ridden by Otis Brown, third; Lady Fairfax, owned by Dr. John W. Opp, ridden by Garry Spotts, fourth.

Roadster Stake—Will Do, owned and driven by V. H. Youngblood, first; Bachelor Dream, owned by Youngblood, driven by Ira Keele, second; Miss Peter Pearl, owned by Seth Lamb, driven by Lige McFall, third; Nancy Carroll, owned and driven by W. C. Malan, fourth.

Girl Riders, 12 and Under—Dark Master, owned by La Vista Farm, ridden by Louise Olin, first; Merely Mary Ann, owned and ridden by Harriet Burkart, second; Mary Peavin, owned by Dr. William C. Gadsby, ridden by Betty Jane Rosenthal, third; June G., owned by Fleetmount Farms, ridden by Frances Simpkins, fourth.

Parent and Child Riders—Jean Janney, owned by A. N. Engle, ridden by Norma Engle, and Mary Peavine, owned by Dr. Gadsby, ridden by A. N. Engle, first; Merely Mary Ann, owned and ridden by Harriet Burkart, and Lady Harriet, owned and ridden by Harry J. Burkhart, second.

Stockholders' Class — Stuffing, ridden by Harry J. Burkhart, first; Omolene, ridden by Graham Porter, second; Dredge, ridden by H. J. Sternberg, third; Advertiser, ridden by A. Van Ronselen, fourth.

FRANCE RESENTS GERMAN REFUSAL TO GO TO GENEVA

Berlin Balks at Returning Disarmament Conference to Atmosphere of League of Nations.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Characterizing Germany's refusal to take part in a preliminary four-Power arms conference at Geneva as an affront both to France and to the League of Nations, a Government spokesman indicated today that France was unlikely to agree to hold the meeting in any other city.

The selection of Geneva was made when Premier Edouard Herriot saw Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald earlier this week in London. Italy the fourth Power that would participate in the meeting, agreed with the French and British that Geneva be the place for the conference.

The French spokesman expressed satisfaction that the British "apparently realize now the real portent of Germany's demand for equality in armaments—namely, complete rearmament and the creation of a new army."

The newspaper Le Temps urged that the Powers proceed with the Geneva meeting despite Germany's attitude. The military position of the Reich, the paper argued, is fixed by treaty anyway.

Le Temps laid on Germany sole responsibility for checking Prime Minister MacDonald's plan for a four-Power meeting to take up the German arms equality demand. The Von Papen Government in Berlin, the paper declared, "has engaged upon an adventure which only can turn against Germany's own interests."

Both Great Britain and the United States, the editorial in Le Temps continued, already are disturbed by the revival of a military spirit in Germany "which raises the threat of a new armaments race."

League Near Shipwreck on Rock of Japan

they realized the struggle was growing too costly and was doing the very thing they wanted to avoid—consolidating the disunited Chinese into one formidable people. At heart the Japanese are and always have been afraid of their vast Chinese neighbor.

In Manchuria, the Lytton report of the League of Nations' commission invites Japan to step backward. Japan will only step backward at the bidding of the League of Nations if she knows beyond peradventure that refusal will bring upon her the disastrous impact of all the sanctions and penalties which the articles of the covenant set out to be employed against a defiant nation. What chance is there of that? The only hope of action lies, not in the League, but in effective co-operation between Britain and America.

It is a tragedy for which I cannot sufficiently express my bitter regret and sorrow that the institution set up with such high hopes and with objects so vitally important should now appear to be hastening towards collapse, bankruptcy, and dishonor through the sheer pusillanimity on the part of its leaders.

DIVORCED FROM CARTOONIST

Wife of Creator of "Moon Mullins" Charges Cruelty.

By the Associated Press.

SARASOTA, Fla., Oct. 15.—Circuit Judge Paul C. Albritton announced today he would sign a final divorce decree for Mrs. Priscilla Willard, wife of Frank Willard, the cartoonist who created "Moon Mullins."

Mrs. Willard charged extreme cruelty. They were married 11 years ago at Anna, Ill., and have two children whose father is to have their custody three months in each year. Under a property settlement Mrs. Willard is to have a life interest in a $150,000 trust fund. After her death the children will share the fund equally.

SOCIETY RIDER KILLED IN RACE

Thrown When Horse Hits Bar, Then Is Kicked in Head.

By the Associated Press.

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, N. J., Oct. 15.—In the sixth race at the Monmouth County Hunt racing meet today, J. Temple Gwarthney, 23-year-old Jerico, Long Island, society rider, was thrown as his horse hit the top bar of a jump midway in the two and one-half mile race. Gwarthney was apparently uninjured by the fall, but before he could rise he was kicked in the head by a horse which had just cleared the barrier, and knocked unconscious. He died in a hospital.

The City's Unemployment Problem

and at the same time a real increase in, and a wider distribution of, purchasing power. Both of these essential objectives can be reached only by so changing the method and system as to result in the wider distribution of the profits of industry and business."

"Wider distribution of the profits of industry and business." A phrase sometimes used loosely. How would that improve employment and purchasing power?

If a greater percentage of profits were expended for additional employes or for higher wages to present employes, Mr. Steger thought, the volume of money would go far to stimulate consumption which in turn would stimulate and benefit industry. The benefit would in time extend to the city's whole agricultural trade territory, for there would exist a greater market among the city workers, able to afford a higher standard of living, for the products of the farms. And farmers would become better customers of the city's industries.

It sounds much like the almost forgotten slogan of a great political party many years ago: "High wages make prosperity."

Leadership would be needed. Where Mr. Steger was asked, might the city turn for the intelligent leadership necessary to work out and makes effective such a plan on a scale so universal throughout the community as to presage its success.

"The city's chief executive," he said, "wields a power to enlist men for leadership that none will ignore; a power, aided by the press, to call into action public opinion which will exert a strong influence."

Where to Look for Leadership.

The responsibility for active leadership, he thought rested chiefly with the city's recognized leaders of industry and business, for to him it seemed that they must even now recognize the growing need to resort to drastic means to check the decline of business. The continued and growing unemployment means more and more business and industrial casualties, everyone of which carries down men who have put their whole lives and fortunes into their enterprises.

"It is one thing," he said, "to see the present plight of the community as a stern reality and that certain objectives must be reached if we are to find a solution of our common problem. It is quite another thing to place the responsibility for the working out of the many steps involved in reaching the goal. And yet this responsibility quite naturally devolves upon the leadership that in the past has achieved such marvelous results in industry, commerce and finance.

"The engineering skill which has resulted in almost unbelievable achievements in mass production, in tremendous advances in commercial distribution, in a financial system which in the past few years has shown inherent strength in averting many grave disasters simply cannot be denied. No normal person has any real desire to return to the horse and buggy days of our grandparents, and no one really wants to exchange our machine processes for the old-time hand labor.

Meeting New Conditions.

"What is more natural, then, than to look to this same leadership for results in adapting methods to new conditions, with due regard for the widest possible spread of benefits? Are these results no less outstanding than the achievements in mechanical profit?"

Development of an economic council in St. Louis was an obvious first step, having the co-operation of the city government and industry, commerce and labor, to bring about increased payrolls and greater purchasing power. Details could be worked out by such a council, Mr. Steger thought, and put into operation through the power of public campaigns. He was certain there was enough wealth in St. Louis and enough profit-making industries and businesses for the experiment.

In this connection he cited the statistics of State income tax returns for St. Louis and St. Louis County for the year 1931 published in the Post-Dispatch last July 21. It was found that in the city 2057 corporations reported taxable income (profit) of $35,069,505. Altogether 61,451 individuals in city and county reported taxable income of $108,753,287.

Without making a definite suggestion, Mr. Steger discussed the possibility of industries and businesses joining in a general plan to allot a percentage of profits for the specific purpose of increasing employment where justified and of adding to the amount of payrolls. The thought was mentioned that part of such allotment of profits might go into a sort of revolving fund to be administered by a board of trustees, from which industries not now making profits, but having sound possibilities, might borrow at low rate of interest for the purpose of justified increase of payroll.

Into such a fund also, he thought, might well go the considerable amounts organized business and industry are accustomed to spend for general community boosting.

He thought some such realistic approach to the city's grave and growing problem would ultimately benefit the whole community, and possibly open the way to permanent and secure community well-being.

Solo Drama Opens Season

Miss Skinner Brings Her Entire, and Original, New York and London Company to the American Theater Tonight—Claire Trevor, Who Was a Leading Woman Here in Stock Company, Coming Back With Ernest Truex's "Whistling in the Dark."

A NEW season for the legitimate theater will begin at the American tonight when Cornelia Otis Skinner presents her sketches of famous women of history, a sort of solo drama series with the actress taking all of the parts. Tomorrow evening Miss Skinner drops out of the American for a single night while she puts on her performance at the Odeon under the auspices of the Jesuit Mission Guild. Tuesday, and the rest of the week, will find her back at the downtown house where matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday. On Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Wednesday afternoon, Miss Skinner will present "The Wives of Henry the Eighth," a one-woman drama that enjoyed a great vogue in London and in this country from New York to the Pacific Coast. Presenting the six wives of the famous Tudor monarch in succession, Miss Skinner, with the aid of costumes and her own art of voice and gesture, is said to embody "The Wives of Henry the Eighth," a vivid drama of the court and times of the uxorious King Hal.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights and Saturday matinee, Miss Skinner will be seen in "The Empress Eugenie," a solo drama that had its world premiere in London the past summer, and which will be her offering tomorrow night at the Odeon. In this character sketch Miss Skinner will reveal several episodes in the life of Eugenie de Montijo, who became the wife and widow of Napoleon III.

At every performance during the week Miss Skinner will present a selection of her original character sketches in additiona to "The Wives of Henry the Eighth and "The Empress Eugenie."

THE decision to delay the St. Louis presentation of the play "Cynara" until after the holidays has caused a slight change in the plans of the American Theater Society, the organization that represents a merger of the New York Theater Guild and Shubert subscription audiences in the principal cities of the country, and which is to sponsor a series of six plays at the American Theater here this season.

The society's first attraction will be Ernest Truex in the topical comedy, "Whistling in the Dark," which is to be seen at the American next week. The second attraction, now listed for the week of Nov. 14, will be Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "Reunion in Vienna," a Theater Guild production.

WHEN "Whistling in the Dark" was produced at the Ethel Barrymore Theater in New York last season, veteran first-nighters examined their programs to ascertain the identity of the pretty blonde who played the leading ingenue role opposite Ernest Truex. They found her name was Claire Trevor, but that name meant nothing to them, and with good reason. It was the first time Miss Trevor had ever appeared on a metropolitan stage.

St. Louis theatergoers could have told the New Yorkers something about the new ingenue, for the actress was the same Claire Trevor who, season before last, played leading roles in the stock company which the Skouras boys put into the Grand Central Theater. Warner Brothers had the beautiful young woman under contract then and it was reported that she was with the stock organization to gain experience for pictures. She went back to New York, however, when the company closed here and her next engagement was with the Truex company. She is still playing the role and will be with the company when it arrives here next week.

GEORGE FAWCETT, whose growling and sputtering has been confined for 15 years to the screen, went back to Broadway last week to growl and sputter and strut through "Peacock," by Leonard Ide. His role is that of a superannuated French diplomat, now feeling the weight of years spent in a study of vintage wine, dates and lively ladies. A great niece, feeling that the ladies should make some return for the diamond bracelets and Riviera villas given them, brings three of them, now middle-aged and respectable, together in reunion at the sick man's home. The complications end happily, of course, with the diplomat restored to blooming health and reappointed to a post in Syria.

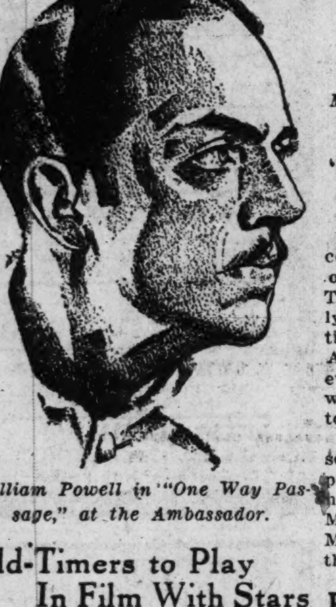
Coloman Katona, composer of the processional march which heralded the arrival of the Veiled Prophet at the Coliseum, is appearing in person at the Fox Theater this week.



William Powell in "One Way Passage," at the Ambassador.

Old-Timers to Play In Film With Stars

From the ranks of those who once stood in the spotlight of the films, many of them now destitue or sick, will be drawn a part of the cast of a picture just launched in Hollywood, "If I Had a Million."

Fans of motion pictures of a decade and more ago will remember some of the names. There will be Margaret Mann, Ruby Lafayette, who must appear in a wheel chair in which she now spends her days; Gertrude Norman; Lydia Knott, the mother in the original production of the "Miracle Man"; Edith Yorke, a victim of illness; Ida Lewis and Emma Tansey, a leading character actress a decade ago.

Maureen O'Sullivan Signed.

Maureen O'Sullivan has been signed to play the leading feminine role in George O'Brien's Fox picture, "Robbers' Roost," which is now being adapted from the Zane Grey novel of that name. This marks the return of Miss O'Sullivan, after an absence of more than a year, to the company that discovered her in Ireland and gave her her first movie chance in "Song O' My Heart."

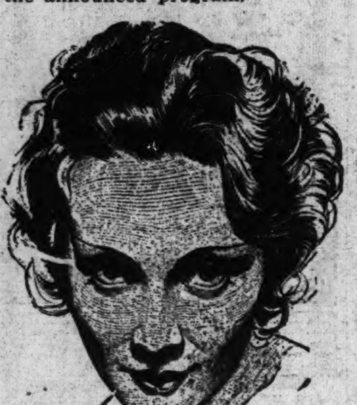
Kreisler To Play At Odeon Oct. 24

Fritz Kreisler will present contrasting works from the masters of the Eighteenth, Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries when he appears in recital at the Odeon Monday evening, Oct. 24, in his annual St. Louis concert here. Mozart's G major concerto No. 3 and the Kreutzer Sonata by Beethoven are the two works of the classic masters which make up the earlier part of his program.

Kreisler himself appears as composer of those two favorites, "Liebesfreud" and "Caprice Viennois," both of which are programmed, and with them presents his own arrangement of a De Falla "Spanish Dance" and his own arrangement of a "Tango" by Albeniz. Ravel's piece in the form of a "Habanera" and Debussy's "Lass With the Flaxen Hair" complete the announced program.



Marlene Dietrich in "Blonde Venus," at the St. Louis.

"Good Fairy" Runs Through This Week

Ferenc Molnar's delightful little comedy, "The Good Fairy," which opened the season at the Little Theater of St. Louis so auspiciously last Thursday night, is to be continued at the playhouse in the Artists' Guild on Union boulevard every evening during the coming week, with the performances open to the general public.

The play, a finely written bit of sophistication, is being excellently played by Sarah Selby, Alfred Gellhorn, Gordon Sommers, Max Muench, Louis Westheimer and Mary Isabelle Wickenhauser, under the direction of Neal Caldwell.

Four Variety Units For Dane's Liberty

Four separate units, including a music hall show, a showboat performance, "The Olympiads," and several acts of vaudeville, are included on the first week's program of Oscar Dane's Liberty Theater at Grand and Delmar boulevards, which opened last night.

The Olympiads includes fencing, boxing, wrestling and archery by girl contestants. Arrangements are being made to install a tank and high-diving platform on the stage of the theater for exhibitions by local champions. Regular performances begin nightly at 8, with a special midnight show at 11.

Holmes On New Tour.

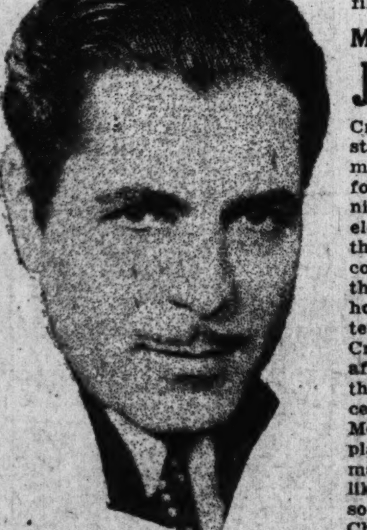
In preparation for this, his fortieth season on the lecture platform, Burton Holmes has just completed his sixth trip around the world. His coming lecture tour will bring him to St. Louis during the winter with new motion pictures of his latest trip.

Talking Jewish Film.

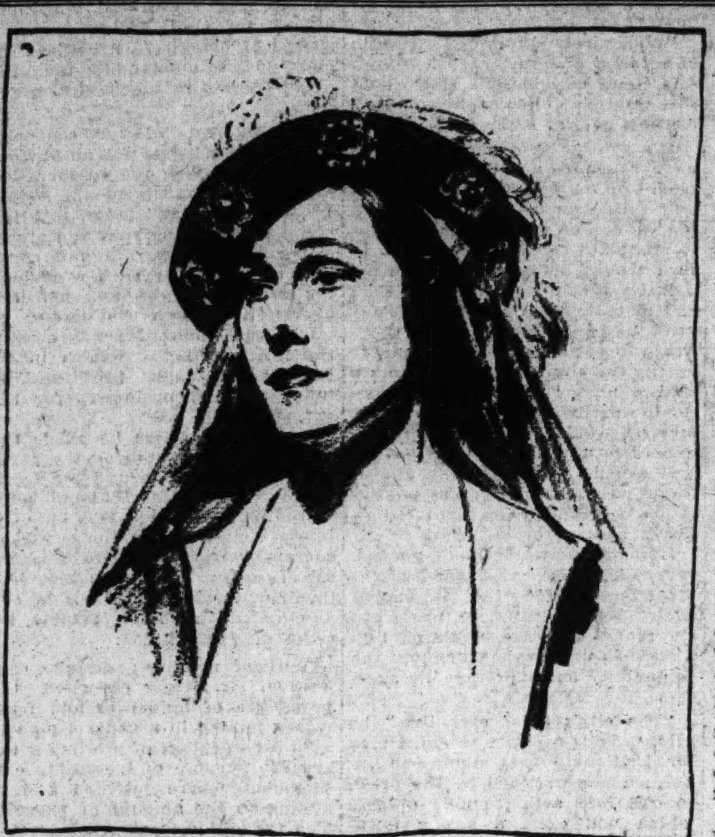
"The Sacrifice of Isaac," a picture with the dialogue entirely in Jewish, will be shown this afternoon and tonight at the Grand Central Theater. It is said that more than 10,000 'extras" were used in making this biblical story for the screen.

Grand Opera for Odeon.

"La Traviata," the presentation of the Molino Grand Opera company, will be given at the Odeon Nov. 21.



Warner Baxter in "Six Hours to Live," at the Fox.



Cornelia Otis Skinner in her One-Woman Show at the American.

The Week's New Films

—:— By NIE —:—

IN a dandy picture of mother love—but not one of the sobbingly sentimental kind—Marlene Dietrich does the best work of her American screen career this week at the St. Louis. It is called "Blonde Venus" and Miss Dietrich plays a cabaret singer who is happily married and the mother of a fine boy. She makes one false step when she meets Cary Grant, a millionaire music hall hound. True, she only borrowed $300 from Cary and she used the money to send her husband off to Europe in search of health, but when friend husband came back, a little ahead of time, he just couldn't understand the arrangement and turned Marlene out of doors. He threatened to take her son away from her, too, and that started Marlene on a wild flight to keep the child for her own. She dashes from town to town and from cabaret job to cabaret job, each time getting a little lower in self respect and funds. Finally, unable to keep the boy—he is Dickie Moore, the best baby actor in Hollywood—she sends him back to his father and lands, somehow, in Paris. There she meets Cary again but, before the picture ends she is able to get Dickie back and everything winds up in a satisfactory manner. Miss Dietrich gives a fine performance and sings, most pleasantly, some little songs in German, French and English so that "Blonde Venus" is a most enjoyable picture—the best one of the week by long odds.

Revenge in the Jungle.

WALTER HUSTON takes a flyer in Lon Chaney's old business in "Kongo" at Loews playing the role of a crippled overlord of the black belt of Africa, who fools the natives with some of Thurston's tricks and kills them when they get too wise. You see Huston had been beaten into paralysis himself by another white man years before and he was out to make the whole world suffer as a sort of mental relief. Specifically though, he wanted to get the man who put him in a wheel chair for the rest of his life. He begins by stealing his enemy's daughter and making something of a monkey of her. She might have died, too, if good old Dr. Conrad Nagel hadn't happened along at the right moment. Finally Huston's ancient foe joined the party and disclosed that the kidnaped girl was not his child, but Huston's. Nothing left for Walter to do after that but show Conrad and his daughter a path out of the jungle and then let the natives burn him to death after an old African custom. As a matter of fact the star isn't really stealing any of Lon Chaney's stuff for "Kongo" was produced as a stage play six or seven years ago with Huston himself in the same part he is playing now in the films.

Murder Will Out.

JENNY WREN, probably Cock Robin's girl friend, gets herself killed in "The Phantom of Crestwood," at the Missouri, and starts a whole lot of people, but mainly Ricardo Cortez, on a hunt for her slayer. Thunder and lightning, secret passage ways, failing electric lights and all that sort of things figure in the events in a country home at midnight, but there is practically none of the hokus of the familiar movie mysteries and "The Phantom of Crestwood" is a pretty probable affair and a much better meller than a lot of the type which preceded this one to the screen. Karen Morley is the Jenny Wren and she plays the part much after the manner of Greta Garbo. She looks like Garbo, too. Also on the Missouri's bill is a revival of one of Charley Chaplin's old comics, "Easy Street," which has been fitted up with music and other sounds. It is still good for a lot of laughs.

Long Enough.

"SIX HOURS TO LIVE," at the Fox, brings out the fact that the Kingdom of Sylvaria is the only stumbling block to world prosperity. You see America and England and France and all the other little nations had agreed on a gigantic Rotary Club arrangement but it couldn't but put into effect as long as any single country refused to come in. Just why that should be true is not pictured very clearly but Sylvaria, represented by Warner Baxter at the get together meeting, voted against the scheme and the deal fell flat. For opposing the wide world Warner is killed but a scientist with a bring-'em-back-alive machine puts him on his feet again. Unfortunately the professor has not been able to gear his invention up to restore life permanently. Six hours is the limit but Mr. Baxter makes the most of his brief return to life and then dies again—for keeps this time. "Six Hours to Live" is a rather complicated and stilted meller which never gets very interesting or believable. Gilda Gray, the shimmy dancer, heads the show on the Fox stage this week and shakes everything except the management's confidence in that sort of a show.

No Round Trip.

WILLIAM POWELL and Kay Francis are no better than they should be in "One Way Passage" at the Ambassador. William is an international crook living the life of a gentleman in Hong Kong and the beautiful Kay is a bar fly in the same city. The law catches up with Mr. Powell and starts him back to America to attend a little hanging bee at San Quentin. On the same boat goes Miss Francis who has been told by her doctor that heart trouble is likely to carry her off any minute. Powell has a chance to escape at Honolulu but when Kay suffers a sudden attack he gives up his plans, gallantly enough, and continues on to his doom. The pair say goodby when the boat reaches San Francisco and agree to meet again on New Year's eve down below the Rio Grande but the customers know that Bill and Kay, if they meet anywhere later, will have to keep their tryst on the other side of the River Jordan.

Associate Players In "Rotting Timbers"

The Associate Craft Players, a group of entertainers over radio station KMOX, will appear in person in a benefit performance of the four-act play, "Rotting Timbers," at the new community hall of St. James Evangelical Church, College and Blair avenues, Friday night.

In the cast are Marie Louise Bulte, Madlyn Veeyon Smercina, Nellie Bell Remington, Thelma Smercina, Norma Thomson, Arline Leiser, Wilma Marcoski, Charles Collville, Charles Zytowski, William Ogden, Edmund Soraghan, Charles Platsie, Frank Eschen and the author.

Lupe Velez at Loew's State Theatre, in "Kongo."

First Symphony Concert Starts Season Friday

All-Orchestra Program to be Offered by Director Golschmann With a Work New To St. Louis Audiences.

FRESH from a musical summer in Europe, Vladimir Golschmann, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, will face that ensemble at rehearsal tomorrow, in preparation for the opening of the orchestra's fifty-third season at the Odeon next Friday afternoon and Saturday evening, in an all-orchestral program.

Golschmann's initial program will open with the fairy suggestions of Weber's "Oberon" overture. Claude Debussy's Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun" follows and the first half ends with Cesar Franck's "The Accursed Huntsman," a work new to St. Louis audiences. The E minor symphony of Brahms brings the program to its close.

Franck's "The Accursed Huntsman" is a symphonic poem in four sections which in terms of tone relate the story of a medieval legend of the Count of Rhine, a sacrilegious huntsman who was warned by Heaven to stop his desecrations of the Sabbath. In a first section one hears preparations for the hunt contrasting with the peals of church bells and the hymns of worshipers. The hunt follows over field and meadow, while the peasants complain of damage done their crops. In the third section the Count finds himself alone and attempts to wind his horn from which he evokes only a gurgle. In the fourth section the hunter becomes the hunted—the blasphemous Count is the quarry and rushes endlessly through time pursued by a troop of demons.

Brahms' E minor symphony, his fourth and last, is thought by many to be his greatest orchestral work. Like the Mozart "Jupiter" and Beethoven's Ninth, its final movement achieves a wonderful musical structure and may be said to be an epitome of Brahms' contribution to symphonic art.

Cagney Gets More Money and Returns To Hollywood Work

HOLLYWOOD'S longest holdout on record, James Cagney, has returned to work, reportedly at an increased salary, a victor in his salary dispute with Warner Brothers-First National studios.

Cagney walked out on the studios last April claiming his acting was worth $4000 weekly instead of $1400. Although the terms of his new contract with the studios were not revealed, those close to the company said Cagney will receive a "substantial" increase over his former salary.

The controversy between the red-headed actor and Warner Brothers was settled in the offices of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Cagney, a portrayer of hard-boiled roles, has been on the screen only a few years, coming from the stage.

Assembling Negro Chorus.

A chorus of 150 of the best voices to be found for singing authentic Negro spirituals is being assembled here for the drama-pageant, "Heavenbound Travelers," which will be given at the Coliseum, Nov. 14, at the opening of the Christmas Trade Carnival.

Carson Heads Thyrsus.

Prof. William G. B. Carson has been chosen as faculty sponsor and director of the Thyrsus-Little Theater of Washington University. The first major production, as yet not chosen, will be presented the last week in December.

German Historical Film.

"Elzabeth von Oesterreich," an historical German talkie, will be shown, starting today, in the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue. Lil Dagover plays the role of the Empress.

Karen Morley in "Phantom of Crestwood," Missouri.

When Ladies Get Breaks

Women Stars and Extras in Hollywood Buy No Gowns or Shoes or Stockings for the Films, While the Poor Male Actors Have to Supply Everything—Orry Kelly's Rise From Dress Designer in Forest Park to a Gold Coast Fashion Expert.

TAKE it from Orry Kelly the place where the ladies get the breaks is in pictures. Orry, you may remember, was the costume designer for the Municipal Opera a couple of seasons ago and he moved from St. Louis right out to Hollywood and began turning out skirts and things for the cinema stars. The stars have to set the styles, after a fashion and Orry—wonder if that name could have been Harry originally—has to set the stars and keep them posted on what the well dressed women will wear season after next. That brings up the question, "How many gowns does the well dressed feminine picture star have to wear in a single production?"

So many, says Kelly, that if she had to buy them herself, together with suitable hats, slippers, stockings, lingerie, purses and other feminine jimcracks that match, she probably would be bankrupt.

For the cost may run into many hundreds of dollars on a single picture, and sometimes into thousands. Fortunately for her, however, the star's wardrobe is furnished by the motion picture company for which she is working. So also is the wardrobe of the featured player and that of any girl who takes a bit part. In fact all female players are furnished with their clothing with the exception of the extra, and even the extras are supplied if the roles call for character or period costuming.

NOT so with the male of the species. He is not so lucky. The star, and everyone down to the extra, is required to have his own clothes, suitable for any occasion that the picture calls for, from sports wear to full evening dress, with the proper hat, gloves, studs and stick. The only time men are outfitted is when they appear in "period" or costume pictures.

Naturally, the number of gowns a star wears in any picture depends on the type of production in which she finds herself. A society play calls for an infinite variety of costumes where a picture of country life may call for very few. It also depends on the number of sequences in the picture. If there are but few sequences there will be fewer gowns as the star wears the same costume throughout the same set.

But if there are frequent changes in sets then the number of gowns runs up, for seldom may a star appear in two different sets in the same habiliments. The well dressed star must have a new costume for every occasion, new from head to foot.

If she did not, it would be instantly noticed by critical spectators. There would be whispers in the audience to the effect that, though the player was supposed to be a wealthy woman, she wore the same gown as that in which she appeared at a party last week.

In one society production, "Pages From Life," Ruth Chatterton appears in 18 different gowns for morning, afternoon, evening and sports wear. This does not include several elaborate negligees for her boudoir, which would bring the total number of changes to 27.

Each gown also requires a special hat, shoes or slippers, hose, purse and lingerie to match. She can not slip on an outer garment over the usual underthings, for they all must be in keeping.

NOT always does it require as many gowns as this, however. Kay Francis, who plays the part of a woman of wealth in "One Way Passage" at the Ambassador this week, wears but eight, while in "Jewel Robbery," in which she has the role of a rich countess, she changes gowns only four times. This is because the individual sequences are longer, and she does not appear at so many different functions.

Constance Bennett in "Two Against the World," seen here a week or so ago, wore 23 different gowns, with accessories to match, as befits a wealthy society girl. Zita Johann, on the other hand as leading woman in "Tiger Shark," wore but four dresses, and those of cheaper make, to correspond with her position as a fisherman's wife. The four probably would not cost as much as one pair of Miss Bennett's hose and accessories. This is because "Tiger Shark" was set in a small fishing village and the clothing had to be in accord with the background.

Not always does a picture of lowly people mean few changes, however, for Barbaba Stanwyck wears 19 different costumes in "The Purchase Price," a picture of the Canadian wheat fields. Still, she wears but three dresses for nine-tenths of the picture, and 16 for one small portion of it.

LORETTA YOUNG wears but three gowns in "Life Begins," but she probably wears more nighties than any other actress has done in a single picture. The majority of scenes take place in a hospital ward. Miss Young was in the ward for more than three weeks, during the taking of the picture, and a fresh night robe was used each day, not infrequently two or three. She claims to be the champion "night-gown actress" of Hollywood.

The women's gowns are all made by the producing companies. At the Warner Bros.-First National studios they are designed by Kelly. No star ever wears a gown for more than one picture, and only for one sequence in a particular picture. There is no waste of the material, however. The star herself is given first choice of purchasing the gowns for her personal use, after finishing the production. For these she pays half of the cost price.

But the majority are held for some time and then sold to Hollywood shops that deal in used material. These may be purchased by those who wish them, and it is not infrequently that a well-dressed woman may be seen sweeping along the streets of the city, or in some popular cafe, garbed in a gown worn by a famous star before her.

German Theater on Co-Operative Basis

The German Theater will reopen its season tonight in the auditorium of the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, with the play "Meine Liebe, Alte Tante" (My Dear Old Aunt) by Arnold Paul.

The German Theater is a cooperative association of the actors and actresses. The German Theater Society, a social organization, which had managed and financed the theater for a number of years, decided last winter that it would withdraw from the management. It has placed all its scenery and equipment at the disposal of the actors who decided to operate it on their own account.

Webster Plays to Be Free to the Public

The three plays by Webster residents, which are to be produced by the Webster Groves Theater Guild next Tuesday night, are to be free to the public. The other two plays are "Old Halls," by Mrs. Walter Koken, and "Perspective," by Betty Brydon Beecher. The performances will be given at the Webster Groves High School.

"The Life and Works of Cesar Franck and His Disciples" will be the subject of the next meeting of the Abendmusik Club, to be held at the home of Miss Ruth Cowgill, 4520 Athlone avenue, Tuesday evening. Participants will be Viola Spiegel, Mary Eimer, Dorothea Eberley and Mrs. Minkin, pianists; Florence Timmerhoff and Ruth Cowgill, singers, and Fannie Romansky, violinist.

Yiddish Company Returning.

The Jack Berlin-Mollie Cohn Yiddish Company will play a return engagement at the Shubert Theater next Sunday night, presenting "The Child of Sin."

WITH no previous announcement of the engagement, Miss Lucile Brooks, daughter of Robert Wray Brooks, 6306 Waterman avenue, was married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Eldred Alexander Woolwine Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Alexander Woolwine of Nashville, Tenn.

A group of their friends were invited informally to the Singleton chapel of St. John's Methodist Episcopal Church, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt. The bride and her sister, Miss Florence Brooks, who was her maid of honor and only attendant, wore afternoon gowns and hats. The bride's ensemble was of Bagheera cloth in the new tone of lees of wine. The gown had a square neck held by triangular rhinestone clips, and was fitted closely to the figure by means of shirring at the waistline. There were short draped sleeves and the bride wore long cream colored kid gloves. Her slippers were wine-toned, and her hat was a small turban of Bagheera to match her gown, adorned with a net bow over the right eye. She carried green orchids and lilies of the valley. The gown had a matching wrap of Bagheera with an ascot scarf of ermine and circular flares to give the new broad shoulder effect.

Miss Florence Brooks wore cafe au lait uncut velvet and brown accessories. The gown was designed with short puff sleeves and straight close-fitting lines. The back was laced with soft apple green taffeta which ended in a large bow at the waist. She wore a shallow crowned velvet hat of brown, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet with yellow predominating.

Everett L. Brooks, brother of the bride, was best man, and Adolph B. Hill Jr., Spencer M. Thomas, Herbert C. Phillips and Matt L. McCaskill were ushers.

A smart pivot does the trick—transforming a magazine rack into a foot stool and back again. We're sure you will want one. They are $4.95.

Here's the "HUNTRESS"

Hunt no further, girls . . . it's at Cunningham's . . . Foxy, isn't it? Zephyr knit in black, brown, Bordeaux red and other "zippy" colors. It's only $2!

"The Brass Fender" At Fontbonne College

The play is a story of a legend running through generations of a family in South Carolina, showing how for years the spirit of loyalty, chivalry and superstition have run side by side, influencing the lives of these people.

The scenery for this presentation has been designed and built by a member of the Fontbonne Alumnae Association. The stage will be set with antique furniture from the homes of several prominent St. Louisans. The fireside properties, including the scuttle, tongs, poker, are being lent by Mr. Ella Weldon of Webster Groves. Mrs. Weldon, who is now 74 years old, is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John S. Thomson, who resided until 1866 at Ninth and Locust streets. Mrs. Weldon also lent a pair of candlesticks which are thought to have been brought from Aberdeen, Scotland, in the early '30s.

The overture will be played by several members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, directed by L. M. Molino.

The revival of the Louis XV and XVI periods marks the beginning of a new decorative mode. Interior decorators hail it as the most perfect expression of the new demand for elaborate detail and formal line which comes as an exquisite contrast to the naive simplicity of the American Colonial vogue. The traditional beauty of French furniture requires very fine workmanship, construction, and materials that ordinarily necessitate pricing too high for the average home. Inexpensive reproductions of this type of furniture are not always satisfactory. Many homemakers sensing this fact have wisely abandoned the idea of French pieces of inferior quality. But unusual circumstances enabled us to buy this collection of superb pieces from Karpen at from 25c to 40c on the dollar, and we are passing the opportunity on to you at corresponding savings!

To make Children EAT

Don't force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But cathartics have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure syrup of figs. Try this for a few days, then see how eagerly your youngster will eat.

How to Conquer Sluggishness

Stimulate the colon and that child with a finicky appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fad foods, or tonics.

Nature has provided the "medicine" you'll need to stir your child's colon muscles into proper action. California syrup of figs. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon—where the trouble is. It has no ill effects on the intestines.

Begin tonight, with this marvelous "California treatment." Any druggist has California syrup of figs, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. Whenever a cold or other upset effects the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING

There are dealers who practice substitution. Be sure to protect your child by looking for the name CALIFORNIA on the bottle.

SCOUTS CANVASS CITY, COUNTY FOR MEMBERS

Call at Every Home Seeking to Enroll Boys Between 8 and 14.

More than 6000 Boy Scouts of St. Louis and St. Louis County made a systematic canvass of the city and county yesterday in the largest single-day Scout activity in the last five years. The canvass was in connection with the new Ten-Year Scout Plan, which has as its ultimate objective the enrolling of one out of every four boys between the ages of 8 and 14 in the Boy Scouts.

The scouts began working at 6:30 on Friday night and continued until 6:30 last night. Every block was assigned to scouts of the immediate neighborhood. Scouts worked in pairs, obtaining the name of every boy eligible for scout training.

Tickets for the Merit Badge Show, to be held at the Arena on Oct. 27, 28 and 29, also were carried by all scouts, and it was expected that 10,000 would be sold. Figures on the number of tickets sold or on the number of names secured were not available last night.

The Merit Badge Show will contain 100 booths, in which every scouting activity will be displayed. More than 90,000 square feet of floor space will be occupied. Tableaux, in which cooking, bedmaking, fire-building and lifesaving will be demonstrated, will supplement the booth displays, while the methods followed for study courses in citizenship, character building and practical arts will be outlined by scoutmasters in charge.

George Gundlach, scoutmaster of Troop 192 in the South District, is far in the lead of ticket sellers, having sold 620 already.

Troop Notes

Boards of review are scheduled to be held this week as follows: Tomorrow night: South District at the Rose Fanning School, 3417 Grace avenue, and Inter-Racial District at the Banneker School, 2840 Lucas avenue. Tuesday night: North District at the Farragut School, 4025 Sullivan avenue; West District at the Ben Blewett Junior High School, 5351 Enright avenue, and Suburban District at the Webster Groves High School. Wednesday night: Central District at the Gallaudet School, 1600 South Grand boulevard.

All reviews begin at 7:30 o'clock and must be completed by 9:30 o'clock.

Two field commissioners were appointed at the monthly meeting of the South District Deputies last Thursday. Alex S. Dawson will serve Troops 14, 27, 198 and 234, while Walter C. Kern will serve Troops 123, 163, 209 and 250. L. J. Lewis was made a member of the District Troop Service Committee.

J. I. Weneke was appointed chairman of the new troop committee of Troop 244, Kennard School, Friday night.

The annual picnic of Troop 247, Froebel School, was held last Sunday at the troop's cabin at Pacific. C. H. Laemili, district field executive, attended.

Troop 138, Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children, held its third annual birthday party last Tuesday evening. Scoutmaster Charles S. Pollock was the host.

Earl Jacobs has been appointed quartermaster of Troop 88, Salem Evangelical Church, and Vernon Nickels has been named his assistant.

Maurice C. Frank has been elected scoutmaster, Gilbert Jaffee, senior patrol leader, and Morris Beitch, scribe of Troop 70, Emerson School. Albert Sobelman and Adolph Hamenetsky are in charge of the Flaming Arrow patrol and Beitch and Lucien Horowit are the new leaders of the Silver Fox patrol.

Belleville Area.

Troop 12, St. Paul's Evangelical Church, won first place in the fire prevention window display contest sponsored by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce. Second place was taken by Troop 6, Humboldt School; third place by Troop 3, St. Mary's Church, and fourth place by Troop 15, Jefferson School.

The displays were made in the show windows of local merchants and were judged by a committee headed by Fire Chief Walter Finklein. Prizes will be awarded to the troops at the monthly court of honor on Nov. 2.

NINE COURSES ARRANGED FOR GIRL SCOUT LEADERS

Nine training courses for Girl Scout leaders or prospective leaders will begin this week at various stations in the city. Four general courses, four outdoor cooking courses and one troop progress course will be given. All run for eight weeks. Miss Eleanor Stevens, chairman of the St. Louis Girl Scout Council, will be in charge.

The general courses will be given as follows: Monday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock at First Congregational Church, Elm and Lockwood avenues, Webster Groves; on Tuesday afternoon at the same time at Delmar Baptist Church, Skinker road and Washington boulevard; on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard, and on Thursday evenings at the same time at Harris Teachers' College, Park and Theresa avenues.

The troop progress course is given on Wednesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock at Second Baptist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard.

Hotel Drouot Art Auction 'Racket' Pays About $12,000,000 a Year Into Pocketbook of French State

Auctioneers, Experts, Barkers and Others Also Profit—Modern Objects Turned Into 'Antiques' Almost Overnight.

This is the second of two articles on the "racket" of the world's principal market for antiques and art objects, the Hotel Drouot in Paris, as exposed by the principal newspaper of Paris, "Petit Parisien."

PARIS, Oct. 15.—In the greatest store of bargains, Hotel Drouot, the public auction hall of Paris, something like 300,000,000 francs (about $12,000,000) flow every year into the pocketbook of the French state.

And into other pocketbooks, too.

The auctioneer, the barker, the porters, the experts, the vast and diverse crowd of art and curio dealers—all live off the stream of gold and banknotes that passes through the dusty auction sales building in the heart of Paris, year after year—since the days of Henry XI, sixteenth century King of France.

The auctioneer, announcing, "adjudged," about every two minutes, would seem the master of the sales at Hotel Drouot to you, to me, to any outsider. He isn't. Too many secret forces work against him.

Some Make $30,000 a Year.

His income varies between $3000 and $30,000 a year. It depends partly on the commissions he legally obtains on every sale, and partly on the "common fund." Part of his commission goes automatically to that common fund which every two months is distributed evenly among the score of public auctioneers of Hotel Drouot. The common fund renders the auctioneer's income fairly stable. It safeguards him in cases of heavy losses. For, the auctioneer is held responsible for each sold item in regard to the purchaser and for the price of the object in regard to the seller.

His success depends entirely on a sort of psychological flair. The auctioneer who knows how to spur on pride, the spirit of competition, overcome hesitation, play upon human vanity, is the one whose commissions may average $30,000 a year. The auctioneer cannot run a private business, however outstanding his knowledge of artistic and other merchandise might be.

Three types of employes make sums at Hotel Drouot that cannot be calculated from the total of a sale. They are the experts, the barkers and the porters.

Experts are men of studious appearance, seated at the side of the auctioneers and generally looking over scribbled notes, or jotting down figures. Their manner, in front of purchasers, may differ, but all strive to inspire confidence in the honesty of their estimate.

Legally, experts cannot run a shop on the side. But they easily may manage to do so via a "straw" man. Experts, it seems, after a good look into the art world around Hotel Drouot, are often better business men than connoisseurs.

Many Anecdotes About Errors.

Anecdotes about the errors of experts are plentiful. The expert who described a painting showing a woman washing dishes, in his catalog as follows: "Portrait of Rubens' wife by Rubens. (It is well known that Rubens married his cook)" has become immortal at the Hotel Drouot.

A few of the swarms of experts around Hotel Drouot are experts. Which doesn't mean that they are infallible, nor that they wouldn't insist a Corot was a Corot, when mean tongues declare it's merely a Trouillebert. . . .

Tht busiest person at an auction sale in Hotel Drouot is the barker. He calls out figures, points or nods at the last highest bidder, detects timid would-be purchasers and encourages them with a wink of the eye. He guesses what a nod means or a cough or a crooked finger.

At the end of each sale, his waistcoat pocket bulges indiscreetly with bank notes. He looks shabby at low-price sales, or smart at "chic" auctions. But he usually makes more money at one sale than many a purchaser can boast of in a month.

The porter hands you your purchase. Tip him! It would be annoying if the next vase you buy happened to get knocked against a chair. Hotel Drouot porters are well muscled men who don't look the income they actually make. It pays for dealers to be on good terms with them. Dull mornings, as they unpack the piles of objects that come to Hotel Drouot from all corners of Paris and the surrounding country, they may slip that ancient silver spoon you care about into that basket of old underwear you'll get so cheaply for 25 cents.

Three types of sales are most frequent at the Hotel Drouot; those held after the death of a relative, bankruptcy sales, and "composed sales." The latter are often due to the initiative of shrewd dealers in need of cash.

New Objects Offered as Old Ones.

Sales of brand-new merchandise being forbidden at the Hotel Drouot, furniture dealers sometimes rent an apartment in town, furnish it with the pieces they wish to sell, and then have the "furniture, having belonged to Madame C." taken from the apartment to the Hotel Drouot, where its sale now becomes legal.

When a multi-millionaire banker died, his wines which were famous, were to be sold. The public was surprised to learn that his cellars had contained 5000 bottles, which all were sold at top prices. It was revealed only later that wine dealers had smuggled their own wines into the cellars to have them sold along with the millionaire's wines.

Antiquarians like to use Hotel Drouot as a reference. By means of a middleman, they "sell," let us say, a Louis XV sofa to themselves. The "price" they paid in public to their middleman at the Hotel Drouot may be 30,000 francs. Nothing is easier than to convince a prospective purchaser that the piece of furniture is worth a minimum of 40,000 francs—the price at which the sofa was "obtained" at Hotel Douot, plus the customary expenses and commission.

Hotel Drouot sales follow the fashions of the day. When Roman and Etruscan objects were all the rage, a generation ago, it was amazing to see how many Roman and Etruscan things were sold at Hotel Drouot. Today, when everyone wants Louis XVI or Empire furniture and nineteenth century impressionists, there are enough Louis XVI or Empire pieces and impressionists to go around.

What the cabinetmakers of the days of Louis XVI can't supply, the cabinetmakers of 1932 will furnish most obligingly.

"And it is stupendous to see how, against all sober reasoning, people will take fakes for authentic and buy them," an expert said to me.

The greatest fad in recent years at Hotel Drouot has been modern paintings. Dealers would use the Hotel Drouot, by intermediaries, to "sell" paintings of their favorite young artist at exactly the price they stipulated. Prices went up and up. Hotel Drouot became the stock exchange of modern paintings. Stock brokers bought the latest cubists because they seemed such a safe investment and sold them a year or two later—with profit.

The painters were first delighted, then shocked. How were they to live up to the prices their pictures fetched? Today, modern paintings are deflated—and some of them worthless.

NSURANCE COMPANIES RENEWING MORTGAGES

ew Foreclosures of Residential Properties Here by Large Concerns.

Reports indicate that there have een fewer foreclosures of residenial properties by the large life inurance companies holding mortages on real estate in St. Louis han by strictly money lending oncerns. This refers especially to maturing loans which have been enewed in the majority of intances, without pay-offs, but not ncluding large apartment buildings eld by operators and surrendered nder the deeds of trust or let go default.

Richard C. Spackler, president f Hemmelman-Spackler Real Esate Co., stated that the New York Life Insurance Co., of which his oncern is local loan correspondnt, had not foreclosed on a single iece of property in St. Louis. He aid that all maturing mortgages eld by the New York Life had een renewed with no-pay-offs for ix months. The policy of the ompany is to avoid foreclosures.

The New York Life has underritten a number of building rojects in St. Louis, including both partment and office buildings. Made on a conservative basis, none f these loans, it was stated, has ver been in default. The New York Life does not re-sell its mortages, which are held as investent for its policy holders, Spackr stated. It is always in the maret for mortgages on a conservaive basis.

The Metropolitan Life, through the Laclede Bond & Mortgage Co., specializes in 15-year loans, with no onerous pay-offs. Metropolitan alo hold its loans as investments, he ted. W. D. Orthwein is presint of the Laclede Bond & Mortgage Co.

It was indicated life insurance companies would not take advantage of the facilities offered by the Federal Home Loan Bank, to refinance mortgages, having ample capital of their own for such purposes. It was stated collateral in the form of mortgages would have to be pledged for money obtained from the Federal Home Loan Bank, which would be equivalent to lending their own money.

Home owners threatened with foreclosure before the Federal Loan Bank System opened yesterday, were urged by members of the bank board to ask for a suspension to permit them to take adntage of the new loan facilities.

The board offered the advice in a statement recently sent to United States Senator James E. Watson and made public by State Republican headquarters.

In event a home owner fails to obtain the suspension, the statement says, "He should write to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board stating all the facts. The board will then use its good offices with the mortgagee to obtain relief, if, in its opinion, benefit can be given under the law."

STATE REAL ESTATE LEGISLATIVE MEETING

Unified Program to Include Bill for Tax Payments in Installments.

The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange is calling a meeting of real estate agents and brokers from every section of the State to be held in Jefferson City Wednesday, Oct. 26, for the purpose of discussing and adopting a unified program of legislation affecting real estate in Missouri to be introduced in the fifty-seventh General Assembly in January.

In addition to the president and members of the Legislative Committee of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, representatives from other cities in Missouri having an organization of real estate men, including St. Louis County, Kansas City, Joplin, Sedalia, Hannibal, St. Joseph and real estate agents from 25 other cities in the State where there are not sufficient agents to support a local organization, will be in attendance at this meeting.

The St. Louis Real Estate Exchange has already announced that it will sponsor the introduction and passage of legislation in the next State Legislature to permit of the payment of general property taxes in quarterly installments instead of an annual lump sum as at present; reducing the penalty on delinquent taxes from 1 per cent per month to ½ of 1 per cent per month; and a State law licensing and regulating real estate agents and brokers carrying a bond running to the State of Missouri.

To Protect Purchasers.

In addition the St. Louis Exchange, through its Legislative Committee, has concluded to sponsor the following additional legislation:

To prevent the Recorder of Deeds from accepting for recording a trustee's deed or mortgagee's deed under power of sale in foreclosure of any deed of trust or mortgage unless the principal note or notes or other principal obligations which were upaid when the foreclosure sale commenced and for the default in payment of which foreclosures is had are presented to him and requiring the Recorder of Deeds to make a notation on the said principal note or notes of other principal obligations showing that such deed in foreclosure has been filed of record. This measure is to safeguard the public against holders of deeds of trust or mortgages under which a foreclosure sale has been had on the property secured by such deed of trust or mortgage from again selling the security to an innocent purchaser without giving notice that the said security is no longer an encumbrance on the real estate.

To make the identification by the Recorder of Deeds of notes or bonds secured by a deed of trust or mortgage compulsory. At present it is optional as to whether the princiual notes or bonds secured by a mortgage or deed of trust at the time of recording the same should be identified by the Recorded of Deeds. This legislation will protect the purchasers of real estate securities in that it will make the forging of deeds of trust or mortgages and the notes secured thereby more difficult than the present. At the same time it will give further protection to the owners of real estate from having forged deeds of trust or mortgages issued against their porerty and sold to innocent purchasers.

Measure to Be Discussed.

Another measure to be sponsored by the Exchange will make it possible for the Recorder of Deeds to make immediate recording and delivery of instruments on which expedited service is necessary.

All of these measures and such other legislation as the real estate interests from other sections of Missouri deem advisable, will be discussed at great length at the meeting in Jefferson City next week so that the program as is finally adopted will have State wide support and give a more definite assurance of passage of the legislation.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president of the St. Louis Exchange, will preside at the meeting, and Charles J. Daly, who served as president of the exchange for two years and who is now chairman of its Legislative Committee, will lead the discussion on the legislation proposed by the St. Louis group.

DECLINE IN MORTGAGE FILINGS CONTINUES

Recordings of $123,900,335 Reported From 38 Metropolitan Districts.

The total dollar volume of real estate mortgages recorded in the principal urban centers of the country for the month of July continued, with a slight fluctuation downward, at the same low level of activity prevailing for the past several months, with total recordings in 38 metropolitan districts of $123,900,335, according to a monthly compilation of official reports by Nelson, Hunt & Co. of Chicago.

Monthly reports from 35 districts, on which comparative data is available, comprising more than one-half of the urban population of the country, show a total of $119,989,270 in real estate mortgages filed in July as compared to a total of $125,482,775 for June, and a total of $221,546,506 for July, 1931.

Fourteen of the reporting cities compiled in the survey reported a larger volume of real estate mortgages in July than in the previous month of June, and three reported increases over July, 1931.

Cities showing a gain in the total of mortgages filed in July over the same month a year ago were Buffalo, Oakland and Youngstown.

Cities showing a gain over the June totals were Birmingham, Buffalo, Cleveland, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Hartford, Kansas City (Mo.), Milwaukee, New York (all boroughs), Oakland, Oklahoma City, St. Paul, Stamford and Youngstown.

Cities showing an increase of more than $500,000 in July over June, and the approximate increases shown were Buffalo $6,211,000, New York (all boroughs), $10,000,000, Oakland $778,000, Oklahoma City $1,000,000, Youngstown $2,178,000 (due in part to special recording in connection with the reopening of a bank).

Cities showing a decrease of more than $500,000 in July from the June totals and the approximate decreases shown were Boston $1,034,000, Chicago (Cook County) $5,694,000, Detroit $4,531,000, Houston $764,000, Los Angeles $7,270,000, Minneapolis $868,000, White Plains (Westchester County, New York) $746,000, Philadelphia $1,552,000, Pittsburgh $535,000, San Francisco $2,325,000.

I. T. S. IN NEW FREIGHT STATION TOMORROW

It Will Be in Midwest Building —Temporary Passenger Quarters.

The new freight station of the Illinois Terminal System in the Mid-West Building on Twelfth boulevard between Washington avenue and Morgan street, will be put into service tomorrow morning.

During the construction program the local freight house was temporarily established at Twelfth and Carr streets. The facilities of that location will be continued for the time being, but freight operations generally will be conducted from new quarters. The offices will be installed at 1111 Lucas avenue.

Outbound freight will be received at the east end of the building between Lucas avenue and Morgan street, and inbound freight will be delivered from the south end at Lucas avenue.

Designed as a freight station, warehouse and industrial mart, the Midwest Building was erected at a cost of $2,000,000. Several large concerns already have leased space in the building for sales and storage purposes.

Plans also contemplate temporary passenger quarters for the Illinois Terminal in the Midwest Building pending completion of the new North American Building in course of construction at the northwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue. The present passenger station is at 1115 Franklin avenue.

The company's development plans call for a commodious passenger station in the North American Building, designed as an office structure and terminal. Ticket offices and waiting rooms are to occupy the first floor, from which the riders will have direct access to the subway for boarding the trains. It was stated it would probably be a year before the North American Building is completed and that meanwhile it was desirable to have the passenger station in the Midwest Building.

Work on the North American Building was suspended early in September because of necessary changes in the plans to conform to the city building code. Revision of the plans has not been completed. Plans in this instance call for a 10-story building to cost $725,000 with provision for 22 stories.

MEN

WE WILL SIGN UP 12 ADDITIONAL MEN IMMEDIATELY AT OUR ST. LOUIS OFFICE WHO WILL UNDERTAKE A FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS AT $51 PER WEEK WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFITS IN SAVING FOR THE FIVE-YEAR PERIOD OF $11,500.

This program of earnings and savings is something entirely new. It is a definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week, and save a substantial additional profit. It is to such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes they must maintain. This is a permanent arrangement, and we are not looking for the man who is not serious-minded about his future and about getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

You cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding and following instructions, and if you are one who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker willing to pay a working price for success, then we recommend that you come in Monday morning for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training is free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense.

We require men to be of good reputation, active and alert. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We have tried to state the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed Monday, 9:15 to 1:15 only, at 561-564 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive.

Sales openings are always calling for persons to sell through the Post-Dispatch Help Wanted Columns—men and women with sales experience and those who can train to sell.

Homes and Homesites

By far the largest selection of Real Estate values and rentals covering City and Suburban property regularly appear in the Post-Dispatch Classified Real Estate Columns.

VERY IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT T-R-A-D-E-S

IT IS A FACT THAT THE AVERAGE FAMILY'S USE OF A HOME OF TODAY IS 7 YEARS, AND THEN A CHANGE IS NECESSITATED.

WHY? AN EXCHANGE CAN BE A BENEFIT. WE WOULD SUGGEST YOU ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS.

Is your property suitable for your needs?

Is your property too much of an overhead?

Does your family need less room or more room?

Should you have property with some investment to cut down your overhead?

Isn't it the time to acquire a better home for the wife and kiddies at today's opportunity?

Are you successful in managing a property with tenants?

Should you have a property all on one floor?

Other people's needs and wants have changed. You can perhaps make better use of their property and they, in turn, can make better use of your property because of their needs.

ISN'T IT A FACT THAT IF YOU SELL AT TODAY'S MARKET YOU MUST TAKE A TREMENDOUS LOSS? THEN WHY NOT MAKE AN EQUITABLE TRADE?

Office open all day Sunday and Monday evening. Two salesmen at office waiting to assist you.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—Francis H. Ring, 82 years old, retired Indianapolis lumberman, was shot to death today by his niece, Mrs. Bernice Rutherford, 30, who surrendered and stated the shooting was accidental.

Police quoted her as saying the shooting followed a dispute at the breakfast table where Mrs. Rutherford was attempting to compel Ring to give her the deed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ring of Hawthorne.

RETAILERS TO FIGHT WHOLESALE FLORISTS

Plan Organization Following Imposition of 3 Per Cent Service Charge.

A co-operative marketing plan to eliminate the wholesalers in the St. Louis floral market is being prepared by retail florists in the greater St. Louis area as the result of a recent 3 per cent service charge invoked against the retailers by 13 St. Louis wholesalers.

The organization of the retailers, who number approximately 350, will be perfected at 8:15 Monday night at a meeting at the Melbourne Hotel, according to E. V. Menges, chairman of the protesting group. Menges is an East St. Louis retail florist.

The 3 per cent service charge, according to Menges, has created the same situation in the floral market as that which caused formation of co-operatives in the livestock market when commission firms dominated the business and pocketed the profits.

The charge was levied against retailers within a 30-mile radius of St. Louis, effective Oct. 1. In announcing the service charge the St. Louis wholesalers promised to eliminate the street peddler and agreed to devote 1 per cent of the charge to group advertising.

"It is a fallacy to think that the wholesaler in our particular line can dictate the policies of the entire industry," Menges said yesterday. "The 3 per cent service charge is unjust and cannot be tolerated under the smoke screen of eliminating the street peddler. The vendor, if the St. Louis wholesaler will not sell to him, can buy from markets at Kansas City or Chicago, put more flowers on the St. Louis market and do great harm to the growers who sell to the St. Louis market.

"The wholesaler can be eliminated by the co-operative marketing plan because under that plan his work can be done by one agency instead of 13 and at the operating cost of only one agency."

Menges first presented his marketing plan at a meeting of 70 retailers last week. He plans to seek co-operation of growers in the St. Louis territory as soon as the retailers organize.

PREPARE TO PUT MAN IN PRISON WHO ESCAPED 34 YEARS AGO

U. S. Agent Gets Commitment Papers for W. K. Robinson, Who Surrendered.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—R. E. Vetterli, agent in charge of the United States Bureau of Investigation here, said today papers had been received for the commitment to the Federal penitentiary of W. Kirby Robinson, 65-year-old Californian, who voluntarily surrendered at Leavenworth after 34 years as a fugitive from justice.

The commitment papers were forwarded here from Fort Smith, Ark., the place of his conviction. They have been sent to Sardius M. Brewster, United States District Attorney at Topeka. Robinson was on his way to serve a four-year term for a postoffice robbery when he escaped by jumping out a window in the train in which he was riding. He went to California and prospered.

Vetterli said Robinson would remain in jail at Leavenworth temporarily, the agent having requested the District Attorney to delay action until further word was received from the Attorney-General of the United States.

WOMAN SWINDLED OF $700 BY OLD POCKETBOOK TRICK

Gertrude Zompier, a Negro, of 810 LaBeaume street, reported she was swindled of $700 yesterday in the pocketbook fraud.

Two Negro men who had volunteered to get a job for her, "found" a pocketbook on the street. It was "full of money and bonds," she said. She was told she could share in the find if she put up $700, which she drew from a postal savings account.

The men took the money and left, so they said, to take it and the pocketbook "to the white boss" for the division.

AVIATORS TO GET TROPHIES

Presentation to St. Louisans to Be Made Probably Nov. 29.

Maj. Jimmie Doolittle, Jimmie Haizlip, Mrs. Mae Haizlip and Winston Kratz, St. Louis prize winners at the recent National Air Races at Cleveland, will receive their trophies at a luncheon to be given by the Air Board of the Chamber of Commerce, probably on Nov. 29.

Doolittle won the Thompson trophy and Haizlip the Bendix trophy, the major prizes of the air races. Mrs. Haizlip won a speed dash, and set a new speed record for women. Kratz distinguished himself in the "spot" landing contests. An effort will be made to have Vincent Bendix and C. E. Thompson, donors of the principal prizes, present, to make personal presentations.

Man Found Dead on Track.

The body of John Lercher, unemployed Belleville coal miner, was found yesterday beside the Southern Railway tracks at Forty-fourth and West Main streets, Belleville. Injuries indicated he had been struck by a train while walking on the right-of-way. He was 65 years old and lived at 120 North Thirty-eighth street. His widow and two sons survive.

ANONYMOUS DONOR TO GIVE CHARITY $2000

Wealthy St. Louisan Announces Series of 20 Gifts of $100 Each.

Twenty selected St. Louis charities will soon receive the first of a series of periodical gifts of $100 each, from a wealthy St. Louisan who desires to remain anonymous.

The donor announced his purpose in letters sent yesterday to 20 persons, each actively interested in one of the charities. The donor, in each letter, asked the person addressed to receive his gifts, in checks of $100 at a time, and to transmit the money to the institution or organization which is to receive it. No interval of time between the contributions is announced, and the donor states that they will be made at his convenience, and that "no amount of urgency will be considered to increase the amounts or to anticipate the payments."

Charities Listed.

The charities which the writer of the letter purposes to assist are: Bureau for Homeless Men, Boy Scouts of America, St. Louis Council; Convent of the Good Shepherd, Central Institute for the Deaf, Frank Wyman Outing Farm for Children, Father Dunne's Newsboys' Home and Protectorate, Father Dempsey's Hotels, Girl Scouts, City and County Councils; Jewish Federation of St. Louis, Jewish Hospital, Little Sisters of the Poor, Provident Association, American Red Cross, St. Louis Chapter; St. Luke's Hospital, Salvation Army, Children's Aid Society, St. Louis Children's Hospital, St. Louis Maternity Hospital, St. Vincent de Paul Society and Visiting Nurses' Association.

"I particularly desire," the donor says in each of his letters, "that my contribution shall be expended under your supervision, for uses or special purposes not covered by endowments or by budget allowances to which the institution may be entitled. I should like to receive from the payee, as each successive contribution is made, a very brief statement of the use of the preceding contribution."

The writer states that the first of the 20 checks for $100 will be sent out as soon as he receives, from the persons invited to act for the different charities, their promises to serve as requested.

Provided for in Will.

All the charities named, the letters state, have been designated in the donor's will as residuary legatees of his estate. They will share equally in the estate, it is stated, after the death of the testator and one other person, and after 82 individual bequests of $1000 each have been paid. "I have reserved the right," the donor says, "to eliminate any or all of the beneficiaries and residuary legatees, substituting others at my discretion."

Some of the charities in the list are among those now receiving aid from the Community Fund which will not be included in the next fund-raising campaign, and therefore will be in particular need of special gifts. The present plan is to limit the fund-raising campaign to agencies directly dispensing relief.

One of those asked by the anonymous donor to handle his gifts was Sidney Maestre, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., who was requested to act for the Bureau for Homeless Men. Maestre said yesterday that he had been informed of the details of the plan for assistance to the group of 20 charities, and had given it his hearty approval.

FOUND DEAD IN KITCHEN WITH GAS BURNERS TURNED ON

William Amenda, Restaurant Owner, Had Been Grieving Over Wife's Death, Daughter Says.

William Amenda, 58 years old, was found dead by police yesterday in the kitchen of his home at 3632A Marceline terrace. Burners of the gas stove were open but not lighted, and the flat was filled with gas.

Amenda, who owned a restaurant at 612 North Eleventh street, had been dead since Friday night apparently. The body, dressed in night clothing, was lying across a table. Neighbors, who smelled the escaping gas, called the police.

Amenda's daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Finn, resided with him, but had stayed at a friend's home Friday night. She said she knew no reason why her father should wish to die, but that he had been grieving over the death of his wife six months ago.

Harry B. Klenker, who campaigned on a platform advocating municipal ownership of St. Charles' light and power facilities, was elected a member of the City Council in a special election held yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of William B. Aichelpohl.

He received 348 votes against 347 for his opponent, Alten Bowles, who favored private operation of light and power facilities. The Union Electric Light and Power Co., which now serves St. Charles, is seeking a renewal of its franchise.

East Side Muny Soccer Campaign Opens Next Week

The East St. Louis Municipal Athletic Association will start its annual soccer championship race at Jones Park next Sunday. Four teams are entered in the circuit this year.

Plans have been completed to play six games in the first half season and nine games in the second half schedule. The winners of each half will meet in a three-game series for the championship.

Harry Mason's Edgemont "Blue Jays" will meet Ray Carrill's Unions in the first game next Sunday, while L. S. Smith's Waverlys oppose Joe Young's French Village eleven. Louis Garcia has been named referee.

Young will have most of the players who won the title last season as the Dauers, back on his squad. The Waverly eleven will be virtually the same as the one which won the Carondelet Park Junior championship last year. Ray Carril plans to sign several players from the Spanish Sports Club team.

Wayne McCabe was again elected president of the league.

TOM HEENEY IS SOUGHT FOR GO WITH SCHWAKE

Promoter Jack C. Tippett is dickering with Tom Heeney, the huge New Zealander, in effort to land a good opponent for John Schwake, St. Louis County, roly-poly heavyweight, for the feature 10-round fight on the indoor season's opening professional program at the Coliseum, a week from Tuesday night.

Heeney has sent word that he is willing to fight in St. Louis and meet any opponent Tippett selects; but the "Hard Rock from Down Under" has not as yet come to terms.

Heeney was the last fighter Gene Tunney faced before retiring from the ring. Tunney won on a technical knockout in the twelfth round. Shortly after Jack Sharkey knocked out Lee Gates here, the Boston fighter went East and was held to a draw by Heeney.

Another Boston heavyweight, Jim Maloney, was stopped in one round by Heeney. In another of his important matches, Heeney held Paolino Uscudun to a draw. The New Zealander, however, has not been the same man since Gene Tunney macerated him.

In Schwake, Heeney would be meeting a fighter who has beaten Johnny Risko, Chuck Wiggins and other good ones. John has not fought since he suffered a broken thumb in a fight with Johnny Freeman last summer. In that bout, Schwake, after injuring his hand early in the match, proved he was game as he finished the match using only one hand.

Joe Herbst, Schwake's manager, has had his protege working out every day for the past few weeks. Schwake says his injured hand no longer bothers him and he is willing to face any heavyweight Tippett signs.

It is Tippett's plan to support the heavyweight match with other bouts, featuring Al Stillman, Lou Terry, Allen Matthews, Dave Barry, Johnny Miles and other well known local battlers.

Title Contest Today.

The final game in the East St. Louis "Fountain of Youth" baseball league will be played today at Jones Park, in East St. Louis with the Greyhounds playing Friez's Squad. Each team has won a game in the post-season series. Karger and Jerry Crawford will do the pitching.

Jack Sherry to Wrestle Here on Coliseum Card

Jack Sherry, Lithuanian mat star, who has been recognized as a headliner for years, will appear on Promoter Bill Berberich's wrestling card next Thursday night at the Coliseum.

Sherry, who is reputed to be one of the most versatile grapplers in the catch-as-catch-can fraternity, has beaten such opponents as John Pesek, Joe Stecher, Henri DeGlane, Dan Koloff and others.

The New York State Athletic Commission selected Sherry from a long list of leading wrestlers to be the opponent of Ed "Strangler" Lewis in a title bout recently. Lewis, as a result of winning over Sherry, is now recognized by the New York commission as the rightful wearer of the crown.

The Lithuanian is willing to meet any grappler Berberich selects. The Sherry match will be limited to 30 minutes. Two more time limit matches will be added to the program.

In the two finish matches, Sammy Stein, New York Hebrew, takes on Rollend Kirchmeyer, and Sanor Szabo faces Pat McGill.

Stein has appeared here once, when he pinned Earl McCready, conqueror of Jim McMillen, Rudy Dusek and others.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15.—Headed by an intrepid leader, Harry Newman, a great maize and blue football team from Michigan, today beat a gallant Ohio State eleven before a crowd of some 42,000 persons.

Turning back everything the home team offered, the blue squad struck two times with deadly precision at the Ohio goal in the first half to record a 14 to 0 victory.

Michigan then was content to go on the defensive. Guarding carefully its 14-point lead, it withstood five Ohio scoring threats, each time bracing with the ball within its 25-yard line.

It was Newman's accurate aerial heaves that spelled defeat for the Buckeyes. From scrimmage Ohio State gained 144 yards to Michigan's 46. But two accurately thrown forward passes, one when the game was only five minutes old, and the other in the second period, gave Michigan its winning margin. Newman after each touchdown booted perfect kicks from placement.

Play during the entire second half was in Michigan territory. Twice the ball was within the 10-yard line.

Michigan's first touchdown came quickly following Cramer's punt that traveled a mere 12 yards out of bounds, Michigan taking up its offensive from Ohio's 30-yard line. WASHINGTON LACKS PUNCH AND McKENDREE WINS, 13 TO 6

Here's the Start of Todd's 89-Yard Run for McKendree's First Touchdown

The above play occurred in the first quarter of the game between McKendree and Washington. With the ball on McKendree's own 11-yard line, Left-halfback Todd was given the ball. He is shown speeding under full steam down field with two Washington tacklers coming up fast. They were Niehaus, No. 24 and Harvey Smith, No. 25. Needless to say both missed the runner.

TODD GALLOPS 89 YARDS FOR A TOUCHDOWN; BROWN SCORES FOR THE BEARS

By J. Roy Stockton.

Washington University's pony backfield made Jimmy Conzelman's plays click at Francis Field for a time yesterday afternoon, but while the heart was willing, the flesh could not carry on, in the face of McKendree College's extra weight and stamina and the Bearcats from Lebanon, Ill., defeated the Bears, 13 to 6, before a crowd of 3500 persons.

Conzelman started his "shock troops," his heavier but slower ball carriers and his second string line, but when Capt. Todd, one of the key-men of the McKendree victory, dashed 89 yards through the slow-footed Washington combination, Conzelman quickly withdrew the heavy-footed combination and sent in his fleetest ball carriers and his most stalwart linemen.

Washington lost the ball game, and it is difficult to find much to cheer over, in a defeat at the hands of a McKendree College. But the showing of his regulars as long as their strength survived must have given the new Washington coach some comfort.

Brown Does His Stuff.

Harry Brown, a courageous young man with a heart that would do credit to a sturdier frame, zipped out of a Conzelman formation and dashed around his left end for a 25-yard gain, using all of his 156 pounds to ward off hostile tacklers, until he had made the Bears' longest individual advance of the afternoon.

Kenny Koerner, the platinum blond, was injured on the play, but he recovered and dashed around right end for eight more yards before the bulky McKendree linemen bowled over his interference and mashed Koerner's 157 pounds into the turf.

Harvey Miller, another fighter who has gained front rank among Washington warriors, though he carries only 160 pounds into battle, made it first down on the Bearcats' 14-yard line. Brown chewed off two more yards for dear old Washington and then, after a couple of plays were stopped by the hard-charging McKendree line, Brown again challenged the left side of the line and, with interference that belied the Bears' lack of poundage, sped on till he had crossed the line for Washington's only touchdown of the afternoon.

Spark Quickly Put Out.

That was all of the productive Washington attack. Koerner and Brown and Miller and Tyrell threw themselves gamely into the fray and the well-coached line played valiantly, but there wasn't much power left in the Bear machine after that one dash down the field. The wear and tear were too great. The McKendree advantage in weight, which amounted to as much as 11 pounds to the man at times, was too much of a handicap.

But in those few short minutes when the Conzelman plays were clicking, Washington's team was a smooth-working machine, falling into picturesque formations with pleasing rhythm. Backs darted from the various phases of Conzelman's "system" and executed their plays with precision. But all too soon the attack lost its snap and when the heavier McKendree defense had sapped the strength of the attack, the Washington plays were being stopped before they were well under way and only once, after that touchdown-producing drive, were the Bears near a score.

Then they might have achieved a tie, if it had not been for a blunder. It was in the fourth quarter and the eBars had just recovered a McKendree fumble on the 50-yard line. Leonard Bush had been sent in to do some passing and he did his job well, tossing a long one to Schoenthaler, far over on the left wing. Schoenthaler raced for the goal line, but a fleet-footed Bearcat overtook him just short of the goal and down he went, still three yards from home sweet home.

Some One Was Excited.

According to advice of smart football men, the thing to do then was to hit the line a couple of times and then call for another of Bush's passes. But Washington suffered a five-yard penalty—it was reported in the press box as assessed for sending in a substitute without time out, but Conzelman said it was for off side—and then after Koerner, the game cock, had picked up the ground thus lost, Frederickson was stopped twice and McKendree took the ball on downs and the Bears' last good chance had vanished.

Todd, who made the 89-yard run for the Bearcats to give them their

Princeton Holds Favored Cornell Eleven to a Tie

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15.

PRINCETON'S football team, which had not won a major game in two years, today came fighting back from its defeat by Columbia a week ago to outfight Cornell and hold the favored Big Red team to a scoreless draw.

It was the first tie game between the two schools in the 41 years of their football rivalry.

As a matter of fact, that was not the case and another job has been created for the venerable coach, who has done so much to maintain a high level of decency in the college game.

Page Has First Call.

THE announcement of Stagg's removal will bring forth scores of applications for the head-coaching job at Chicago. Thomas N. Metcalfe, however, already has been given the post of director of athletics, and undoubtedly Pat Page, who has acted as Stagg's lieutenant, will have the inside track for the active coachship of the squad. Page, a star for the Maroons 15 years ago and subsequently coach at Indiana University, seems thoroughly qualified to fill Stagg's shoes. Long experience with Stagg's methods and ideals should make him unusually well fitted for the post.

We say this, believing that Stagg's system was satisfactory to the faculty and board of trustees. It may be, however, that not his years but his ideas were responsible for the passing of Stagg. It is possible that not enough "championship" quality was being developed at Chicago to suit some of the powers in the background.

In that case Page may not be the choice of Metcalfe, who will have the naming of the next coach. The odds are about 3 to 1, however, that Page will get the job.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Pittsburgh gained a dramatic victory over the Army, 18 to 13, before a crowd of 20,000 here this afternoon, the Panthers rallying to score the winning touchdown in the third period, largely through a sensational 50-yard pass from Heller to Skladany.

Then Pitt gallantly staved off the Army's final bid for victory in the fourth period, smearing two passes by Fields to take the ball on downs, when the Army was down inside the 15-yard line, knocking at the door.

It was a game, replete with thrills. First, Pitt got away to a 12-point lead on long gain plays in the opening half, and it began to take on the aspect of a rout, Heller racing 54 yards for the first score and passing 40 yards to Skladany for the second.

But, with the second period waning, the Army was only beginning to fight, and it quickly scored on a pass play. Then it took the lead in the second half only to have Pitt score again in the third period and remain in front.

Jack High, following Osculator closely from the start, responded stoutly when saving ground after passing the pace maker entering the home stretch, and finishing with excellent courage, outstayed Gallant Sir. Latter kept within striking distance of the leaders, bumped Equipoise when leading into the home stretch, gained a slight lead and fought it out with good energy. Equipoise, taken to the outside, was taken around his field when reaching the back stretch, was badly bumped and knocked off stride by Gallant Sir at the stretch turn and weakened. St. Brideaux showed a good effort. Osculator stopped after seven furlongs. The others were held safe.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—George D. Widener's six-year-old Jack High established a new track record of a mile in 1:37 1-5 to snatch a nose victory in the nineteenth Laurel Stakes here this afternoon.

The fleet son of John P. Grier and Priscilla whirled past the judges a scant nose in advance of the Northway Stable's three-year-old Gallant Sir, while a length and a half away labored C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, the odds on favorite in the field of seven.

Jack High, which held the world's mile mark at 1:35 for a year before Equipoise lowered it last July at Arlington Park, added $5450 to his earnings. He was lightly considered in the wagering and paid $19.10.

The Widener horse was always a forward contender. For six furlongs he pressed the pace of Osculator and then moved into the van with Gallant Sir, which had been racing in third position.

Meanwhile Equipoise had trailed his field into the back stretch and in the run through that straightway had charged up into striking distance of the leaders on the outside. Straightening away from the run through the front stretch Jack High, Gallant Sir and Equipoise were racing head and head. At the three-sixteenths pole, Gallant Sir bumped the Whitney colt. The latter shortened his stride, while Jack High and the Western three-year-old went on in a thrilling nose and nose duel to the last line. Only the judges could separate the pair.

Twenty thousand fans, the largest crowd of the meeting, witnessed the triumph of Jack High and the defeat of the idolized Equipoise.

NORTHWESTERN BEATS ILLINOIS BY 26-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 15.—Northwestern's Wildcats regained a big chunk of territory in their comeback campaign today by ripping out a 26 to 0 triumph over Illinois.

There had been rumors that Coach Bob Zuppke was prepared to hand Northwestern an unpleasant surprise, and during the first period and part of the second, it looked as though the Wildcats were willing to help him. They were sluggish on offense and only brisk defensive work kept the Illini from becoming dangerous.

After Northwestern had muffed a chance to score in the first period Pete Yanuskus, Illinois halfback, snatched one of Pug Rentner's passes and raced 52 yards before he was hauled down by the last man in his path. The Illini could not gain, however, and threatened no more until the fourth session.

Northwestern, inspired by Rentner's dashing play, came to life in the second period and after Pug had returned a put 43 yards to Illinois' 31-yard line, drove right through to the first touchdown. Smashes at the Illinois line took the ball to the 10-yard line where the Illini staged a gallant stand, holding Northwestern to a yard in three downs. Ollie Olson fired a pass to Ed Manske, who caught the ball while lying on his stomach. Olson's drop kick added the seventh point.

Rentner thrilled the crowd of 25,000 when he got away for 16 yards to start the second drive which came in the third period. Olson finally piled through guard to score, but missed the extra point. Only a few moments later Rentner sailed around right end for the score and Bill Riley place-kicked the point.

Coach Dick Hanley sent in a backfield of substitutes in the final period and the youngsters staged another scoring march with Jakie Sullivan finishing up with a six-yard twist through tackle.

"Fairmount Meeting Financially A Huge Disappointment"—Eddy; Outlook for Next Year Gloomy

That the racing meet of the Fairmount Jockey Club which closed yesterday at the Collinsville track involved heavy financial loss and that, as a consequence, the outlook for resumption of racing at Fairmount next year was extremely doubtful, was the statement made last night by General Manager Robert S. Eddy Jr.

At the conclusion of the last race Mr. Eddy gave out the following statement:

"Artistically the meeting was entirely satisfactory, but financially it was a huge disappointment.

"Our losses reached such a figure that we cannot hope to continue, under the same conditions. This is a beautiful race plant, the people of the St. Louis area seem to want racing, but it is impossible to operate successfully here when we have to pay $2500 a day to the State for taxes. Unless that fee is reduced, the future of racing at Fairmount Park is extremely dark.

"We might have a chance to make ends meet when business conditions generally are good; but in slack times such as these it is like butting one's head up against a brick wall. There were days during the meeting when the play in the mutuels was so small that our percentage didn't meet our purse expenditures. It doesn't require much figuring to convince one that to continue under such conditions would be foolish. It can't be done.

"I think that the racing was as formful as you will find anywhere in the country. The stewards took every reasonable step to assure honest performance, and I believe that aside from the financial angle the meeting was one of the best ever offered at Fairmount Park."

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 15.—A powerful Kansas State College team opened its campaign for the Big Six Conference football championship here today with an easy triumph over Frank Carideo's tottering Missouri Tigers.

The score was 25 to 0 and it appeared that the green-clad Wildcats of 1932 could have doubled the count if Coach Bo McMillin had not elected to withdraw his chief backfield stars, Ralph Graham and his sophomore running mate, Dougal Russell, after they had accounted for a lead of three touchdowns.

70-Yard Drive for Score.

Kansas State held the ball on its own 30-yard line when the pair walked out on the field to the rousing cheers of a crowd estimated at 6000. Russell and Graham, with help from Emmett Breen, a blocking halfback, made eight plays for a gain of 70 yards that wound up with Graham over the goal line.

The powerhouse came to life in the third quarter, however, and struck out for a touchdown after Faurot fumbled behind the line of scrimmage. Neil Weybrew, the Wildcat punting right tackle, recovered at the 32-yard line.

Russell charged into the line, changed direction suddenly and raced around the Tigers' right end for 15 yards. The Tigers massed up and buried Graham, but a moment later Russell followed his blockers on a baffling end sweep. The sophomore quarterback advanced 52 yards on the play and was stopped a yard short of the goal only because his blockers got in the way. Graham picked a hole through Missouri's right tackle for his second touchdown. Phil Yeckel blocked Graham's second try for extra point from placement.

Bushby Makes Touchdown.

The final touchdown, produced by the Russell-Graham combination, resulted from another long sustained charge from midfield. Breen and Graham smashed the Tiger line at will and Graham broke loose for 35 yards, ending behind the goal line.

Having missed two place-kick attempts, Graham passed to Russell for the extra point. With a 19-0 lead, Coach Bo McMillan pulled his ace line-crackers out of the game.

Tom Bushby and Oren Stoner found the Tigers almost as easy as did their predecessors. Starting on the 26-yard line, where Woodrow Hatfield's poor punt rolled out of bounds, they took turns at hitting the wobbly Missouri line and Bushby went over for the fourth and final touchdown. Stoner failed to kick goal.

Graham's three touchdowns increased his season point total to 72. He was high point man in the conference last season, although he was held out of two games because of injuries.

FORWARD PASSES GIVE MICHIGAN VICTORY OVER OHIO STATE and running game had bogged down when Newman unexpectedly let loose a pass to Captain Williamson, who was standing unguarded near the goal line.

Ohio State made its first offensive in the closnig minutes of the first half, getting to the three-yard line before the gun sounded for the intermission.

Early in the second half Fay robbed Ohio of a touchdown by knocking a pass out of Hinchman's hands as he was standing over the goal line. Ohio promptly returned the ball to the seven-yard line only to fail to make a first down by inches. Another time an intercepted pass by Regeczi halted Ohio at the Michigan 30-yard line.

Purdue's Goal Kick Beats Wisconsin.

By the Associated Press.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 15.—The Purdue Boilermakers found the Wisconsin Badgers as pestiferous as ever this afternoon and were delighted with a 7 to 6 victory.

The slender margin of victory was the drop kick made by Paul Pardonner after Roy Horstman's touchdown in the second period.

Horstman had carried the ball for the scant distance of one yard to the goal line after Jimmy Carter had brought the Purdue partisans to their feet cheering as he dashed from near midfield almost across the Badger line.

Wisconsin's touchdown was made a few moments later on a beautiful forward pass tossed by Harold Smith, to George Thurner, who in turn pitched the ball laterally to Milton Kummer. Kummer sprinted the few remaining yards to the Purdue goal posts. Joey Linfor tried to place kick but his effort was wide of the mark.

Duck Hunters Open Season at Noon Today; "Federal Bag Limit Too Big," Habig Says

"Present Maximum Makes It Easy for Market Hunters and Bootleggers," Frank A. Habig Contends.

Advocates Lower Duck Limit

FRANK A. HABIG

HUNTERS, who last year were singing the Migratory Bird Law Blues, will pipe a different tune at noon today, the official time when powder-burners may start in quest of water fowl.

That's because the amended law in force today, has extended the sophomore quarterback and ramseason from one month to two months, and has delayed the opening date from Oct. 1 to the more seasonable one of Oct. 16—for Missouri and Illinois and other states in this belt.

The effect of the change was noticeable. Whereas last year on Oct. 1, there was feverish activity on the part of the nimrods of this district, this year the hunters did not prepare to open the season like a Yukon gold rush.

What with the warm weather and the fact that the 60 days open period affords ample hunting opportunity, the opening day drive on the duck-hunting grounds today is expected to be comparatively light.

Reports indicate that the cold snap of early last week brought down the advance guard of smaller ducks including teal, pintail, sprig and a few mallard. Only a few flocks of geese have been seen in flight and these kept winging southward. Teal and the smaller types of ducks have been reported at the Lake of the Ozarks, at Bagnell dam.

Hundreds of blinds have been constructed along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries, preparatory to opening of the season. Both State and Federal game authorities are in readiness to see that legal regulations pertaining to waterfowl shooting are observed.

Several weeks ago the Missouri and Illinois game departments reached a reciprocal agreement, whereby hunters from either State shooting on the river, will not be molested by State Game Wardens if they do not touch the shore opposite their State.

Big Flight Coming.

ALTHOUGH the bland weather is not auspicious for today's opening, the indications are for a fine season. Frank A. Habig, president of the Missouri Duck Hunters' Association, has received encouraging reports from observers as to the prospects for the hunting season, which will open at noon today.

"All observers agree that there has been an increase in the duck supply," Habig told the Post-Dispatch. "Our paid observer in Saskatchewan sends word that there are many more duck at the breeding grounds in Canada and we have had similar reports from the Federal wardens and other sources. Of course, it's a long way to Saskatchewan and there are many possible detours for the birds, but we are looking forward to a good hunting season."

Habig expressed dissatisfaction with the Government's failure to reduce the bag limit.

Bag Limit Too Large.

"FIVE ducks are enough for a meal for any family," Habig explained, "and if you want a big party, 10 ducks will feed 20 people. When you permit a man to shoot 15 ducks a day and to have 30 in his possession (Missouri's law cuts this figure to 25), you are making it easy for the bootleggers and the commercial hunters."

State and Federal Laws Conflict

THERE are several points on which the public in general seems not to be correctly informed as to the provisions of the amended migratory bird law.

To begin with, the Federal law supersedes the state law wherever they conflict, unless the state law be even more restrictive than the Federal.

No state law can extend the season or increase bag limits against the Federal stipulation; on the other hand, the state can still further curtail seasons or bag limits as established by the Federal act.

Thus, in Missouri, the total number of ducks a hunter may have in his possession is only 25, whereas the Federal law permits 30. The state limit, in such cases, prevails over the Federal.

Hunter, Know Your Ducks!

ANOTHER point relates to the species of ducks that may be shot and in what numbers. The Federal law bars absolutely the shooting of wood duck, ruddy duck and bufflehead or "butterball." Of other ducks that may legally be hunted during the open season, the bag limit is qualified by restricting the number of any certain species The law reads:

"Daily Bag Limit—Ducks, 15, but not more than five eider ducks nor more than 10 of any one or of all in the aggregate of canvasbacks, redheads, scaup, ringnecks, teal, shovelers and gadwalls. . . . Not more than two days' bag limit of ducks may be in possession at one time. Bag and possession limits are subject to reduction by state laws."

Several varieties of ducks specified above are seldom or never seen in this vicinity. Others, such as teal, are of course common.

The restriction means that if the hunter had 30 ducks in his possession, he could not have more than 20 teal, or 20 canvasback, or 20 redheads, etc., or, were it possible, he could have some of all the varieties mentioned but their total must not exceed 20.

It is unlikely that in this vicinity, the hunter need worry much about this restriction which, on its face, seems to require that the hunter to some extent must be able to distinguish in flight the species of duck at which he shoots, in order to avoid exceeding the limit on these numerically restricted species.

Limit on Live Decoys.

IT is not generally known that there is a limit of 25 on the number of live decoys a hunter may use under the Federal game law. State laws in some localities reduce this number while in California no live decoys are permitted.

The hunting seasons for migratory birds are not identical but vary with the latitude. The hunting in Illinois and Kansas is identical with that of Missouri under the Federal act, but in Iowa the season has been open since Oct. 1 and will close on Nov. 1.

Arkansas, on the other hand, will not open its hunting season under the migratory bird law until Nov. 16 and shooting there will be legal until Jan. 15, 1933.

About That Sunday Law.

SEVERAL inquiries have been received asking the Post-Dispatch to name the counties in which persons hunting on Sunday are prosecuted under the Sunday law of 1848. The State Game and Fish Department was appealed to for an answer to this question but could not supply this information.

The fact is, the enforcement of the 1848 law is up to county officials and in some instances it is used specifically to discourage hunters of urban or distant districts from shooting up the game which the county deems belongs primarily to its own residents.

Our informant writes that he "knows of one county near one of the larger cities of the state, in which the local duck hunters had their county officials enforce the Sunday law in order to discourage the city hunters from coming out and taking possession of their shooting grounds.

"As the majority of city hunters can go out only on Sunday, while the county hunters can go largely when they please, the county hunters are merely enforcing the law so that they can have all the sport to themselves."

However, there is not much evidence that this is a general practice. In fact, game wardens report that they do not know of any county in which the Sunday law is rigidly enforced.

Other game that legally may be hunted in this State ae present include squirrel and doves. The deer season will not open uutil late this month. Reports indicate that the deer are much more numerous than last season.

The quail shooting is not due to begin for nearly a month—Nov. 10 is the date. While quail are reported numerous there is some bad news to broadcast in the report that several counties are getting ready to vote a closed season on quail, in addition to the counties that already have prohibited hunting this shooting under the county local option law.

Some "Don'ts" for Hunters By State Game Commissioner

HERE are some "Don'ts" for hunters which are recommended at this season, by John H. Rose, State Game and Fish Commissioner:

DON'T carry your gun put together in automobiles, wagons, etc.; it's the "unloaded" gun here that shoots, too!

DON'T load or shoot your gun, after putting it together, until you have looked through the barrel or barrels and find it clear of grease, oil rags, or any foreign obstruction.

DON'T pull guns through fences; carry them over the fence with you, keeping the muzzle pointed away from yourself and others. If a breech-loader, open it before crossing.

DON'T set your loaded gun against a tree or leave it lying on the ground if you have dogs about when you stop to rest; they may knock it down or step on it.

DON'T lay your loaded gun down in the bottom of a boat; picking it up sometimes causes it accidentally to discharge and shoot the bottom out.

DON'T shoot your gun after falling, climbing a bank or walking over newly plowed ground until you have examined the barrel and find it clear.

DON'T let your gun muzzle point toward water, for, if the gun is fired with muzzle under water, it will explode in most cases.

DON'T shoot at movement—it may be a man, cow or other livestock. Besides, every sportsman not only wants to see his game, but hit it in a vital spot.

DON'T shoot at game until after you have assured yourself that no other living creature, house, barn or other such property, is in the line of fire.

JOHN BURROUGHS WINS OVER McKINLEY, 6 TO 0

The John Burroughs team played good football yesterday to defeat a heavier McKinley team, 6—0, at Burroughs field. Glancy, playing a stellar game for Burroughs, carried the ball from the 15-yard line on a crisscross for a touchdown in the first quarter. In the third quarter, Burroughs advanced to the three-yard line, but the opportunity to score was lost by a fumble. After McKinley kicked, Burroughs again advanced to the 10-yard line, only to again lose the ball on a fumble.

Glancy and Weisehan starred for Burroughs and Blanke and Verlinick for McKinley.

In ABC League football games yesterday at Alton, Burroughs "B" held Western "B" to a scoreless tie, and Burroughs "C" defeated Western "C," 19-0. At Country Day, the home "B" eleven suffered a 39-0 drubbing at the hands of Principia "B," and Country Day returned the compliment in "C" division, winning by 46 to 7. In the "B" game, Stitt of Principia received the kickoff and ran for a touchdown on the opening play.

LATERAL PASS GIVES GOPHERS 7 TO 6 VICTORY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 15.—A stubborn gang of corn-fed lads from Nebraska threw a fright into the hearts of Minnesota's Gophers here this afternoon and managed to hold the touted Big Ten Conference team to a narrow 7-to-6 victory.

Aided by the mighty kicking of Fullback Sauer, and his throwing accuracy, Nebraska drew first blood in the opening quarter. Snapping a splendid 38-yard pass to Penney, the Huskers' big fullback deposited the ball on the five-yard line, where again he heaved a short one to Masterson across the goal line for the touchdown. Sauer narrowly missed his try for point, which would have given his team a tie.

Minnesota's score arrived in the second quarter when an uncannily successful combination forward and lateral pass, going from Lund to Robinson to Manders, carried the ball over. Manders, the Gophers' star fullback, assured his team of victory by place-kicking for the extra point.

For the balance of the game both teams fought on even terms, the Cornhuskers stopping most of Minnesota's dangerous drives in time to prevent further scores.

Indiana Scores Three Ways to Beat Iowa.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 15.—Indiana won its first Western Conference victory of the season at the expense of Iowa here today, 12 to 0, before a homecoming crowd of 10,000.

The first score was on a safety in the second period when Schmidt, Iowa backfield substitute, punting from behind his goal line, stepped outside the end zone. Lyons, giant Hoosier, Negro end, booted a 25-yard field goal a few minutes later for three more points.

On the third play of the second half, after recovering an Iowa fumble, the Hoosiers scored their only touchdown, sending Veller over after smashing cutback through tackle for a 24-yard run.

CLEVELAND DEFEATED AT CAPE GIRARDEAU IN LAST 4 MINUTES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Oct. 14.—A 33-yard pass from Walter Metje to his brother, Milburn, followed by a series of line plays, with Milburn Metje scoring on a 5-yard plunge, brought victory to Cape Girardeau's Central High School football eleven in the last four minutes of play over Cleveland High School of St. Louis, at Houck Stadium here today. The score was 7 to 0.

Cleveland counted eight first downs to seven for Cape Girardeau, but seemed to lose its punch when it neared the uprights.

WRAY'S COLUMN

referred to is the "spitball"—at once the most abhorrent and the most effective of all its kind.

Of an original list of "registered" spitball pitchers designated in 1920 as being the only players permitted to use this form of delivery, only three players now remain on reserve in major league clubs—Burleigh Grimes of the Cubs, Jack Quinn of the Brooklyn team and Urban Faber of the White Sox. Clarence Mitchell, with the Giants last year, has retired and will be employed as a coach.

Of the three remaining hurlers none was regularly used last season. Relief duty now appears to be the future role of the survivors, if indeed they are able to perform in this capacity.

Grimes insists that he suffered from an inflamed appendix all season and that, after an operation which he expects to undergo this winter, he will be as good as ever. Take that, or leave it.

Emancipation of Batters.

THE anti-freak pitching rule of 1920 really marks an epoch in baseball. As a result of this rule, one of the first pieces of important legislation passed by the newly-established joint league meeting of that date, the supremacy of the pitcher began to wane and the emancipation of the batter began. It marked the end of that period of baseball history when the mound man, in the words of the late Addie Joss, was "80 per cent of a ball game."

Pitching prior to that time, had had everything its own way. In addition to the legitimate curve ball, fast ball and change-of-pace pitchers, there were purveyors of several varieties of freaks such as the "emery ball," the "shine ball," the "mud ball," all of the "sailer" variety.

Instead of dropping as it came up to the batter, the "sailer" took an upward hop, in addition to a curve, often of unknown direction. It was safe to estimate that each pitching staff had at least two regulars who could throw either a sailer or a spitball. All young pitchers were being brought up to use the freak deliveries and the regular curve ball pitchers were fading out.

Few Curve Throwers.

THE abolition of the freaks therefore caught baseball teams improperly equipped with curve pitchers. Added to that was a requirement that no discoloration of the ball was legal and this gave the batsman a nice new white ball to swing at, instead of a soiled and battered ball.

From that date the batter began to dominate the pitcher and the trend mounted with each season until the peak was reached about 1926-28.

The pitcher eventually became so minimized under the rules that the official baseball was "deadened," two years ago; also, balls were kept in play longer.

17 "Exempted" Under Rule.

HERE is the rule-change that caused the revolution both in pitching and batting:

Rule 30, Sec. 2—"At no time during the progress of the game shall the pitcher be allowed to (1) apply a foreign substance to the ball; (2) expectorate either on the ball or his glove; (3) to rub the ball either on his glove, person or clothing; to deface the ball in any manner or to deliver what is known as the "shine" ball, "spit" ball, "emery" ball or "mud" ball. For violation of this rule the umpire shall at once order the pitcher from the game and in addition he shall be automatically suspended for a period of 10 days."

A note appended to this rule exempted the 17 spitball pitchers then active in the major leagues, giving them permission to employ their special delivery until the close of their baseball careers. The other brands of freak pitching were completely out, however. The men exempted at the time were:

Bill Doak, Phil Douglass, Dana Fillingim, Ray Fisher, Marvin Goodwin, Burleigh Grimes, Clarence Mitchell and Dick Rudolph of the National League, and A. W. Ayers, Ray Caldwell, Stanley Coveleskie, Urban Faber, Dutch Leonard, Jack Quinn, Urban Shocker, Allan Russell and Allan Sothoron of the American League.

Todd Scores on 89-Yard Run; Brown Stars for the Bears

first score, stood out headgear and shoulders-pads above all the Washington ball carriers. He was in there most of the time, crashing against the Bear line, skirting the ends, taking kick-offs and punts and spreading bruises and aching muscles among the Washington athletes as he galloped down the gridiron.

Meet Speeding Spudich.

Todd had plenty of help, too. Spudich, it seemed, was everywhere at once, making tackle after tackle, knocking down passes and adding chunks of yardage as the Bearcats kept the Bears on the defensive through most of the afternoon.

Spudich it was who plunged through the Washington team to add the extra point after Todd's touchdown, and Spudich it was who cut over toward left end and then slashed back between guard and tackle to run 30 yards for the Bearcats' touchdown in the third quarter.

Bradham was another hard-charging Bearcat ball carrier and Fulkerson played his part well, too.

For the Bears, Brown stood out in the backfield and Clark probably did the best work in the line.

But Coach Conzelman found most of his comfort of the afternoon in the freshmen's game with the McKendree reserves, and if he can just nurse those husky yearlings over the difficult scholastic hurdles and wed them to his sound football system, there will be brighter days out on the hilltop when the harvest moon shines on a year from now.

BEAR FRESHMEN SHOW POWER IN 39-0 VICTORY OVER M'KENDREE "B"

The Washington University freshman football team easily defeated the McKendree "B" team, 39 to 0, in the second game of yesterday's double-header at Francis Field. The heavy frosh piled up a lead of 13 points in the first quarter and repeatedly drove back their lighter adversaries throughout the game.

Early in the first period Wagner and Tutinsky, in three long runs, carried the ball to the Illinois three-yard line, and Wagner plunged through left tackle for the touchdown. The kick for extra point was blocked.

A few minutes later the frosh obtained the ball in McKendree territory and Tutinsky raced 30 yards to the McKendree five-yard mark. Wagner crashed through left guard for the second touchdown and kicked goal.

After an exchange of punts, in the second quarter, Tutinsky and Crane worked the ball to the McKendree three-yard line. Wagner plunged through right tackle for his third touchdown, and made good his try for the extra point.

A drive from Washington territory in the third period carried the ball to the opponents' two-yard line. Crane carried the ball over for the fourth touchdown. Wagner again converted the extra point.

McKendree strengthened and ran the ball to mid-field, but an intercepted pass gave the yearlings possession of the ball on McKendree's 20-yard line. In two plays, Zyboyouski carried the pigskin over for the final Bear touchdown. Wagner again kicked the extra point.

TEXAS' LONG RUNS TURN BACK OKLAHOMA

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 15.—The University of Texas Longhorns, victors last week 65 to 0 over Missouri, were forced to the extreme of their power today to eke out a 17 to 10 victory over the lighter but faster Oklahoma University eleven.

The game, a feature of the Texas State Fair, marked the Texans' sixth consecutive defeat of the Sooners.

Bohn Hilliard, Longhorn halfback, made both of Texas' touchdowns, once returning a punt on a 95-yard run from his own five-yard line to score. Blanton, Texas tackle, kicked to add the extra points and made a field goal from the 10-yard stripe late in the final quarter.

Bob Dunlap, Oklahoma quarterback, scored all of the Sooners' points, kicking a field goal early in the game to give his team a 3-0 lead and later converting a touchdown from a series of passes. He kicked for the extra point.

Texas scored 19 first downs to seven for the Sooners.

ONLY PLAYERS CAN GIVE SHARE TO HORNSBY, IS LANDIS' RULING

Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis has told the world that Rogers Hornsby cannot share in the world series, but late yesterday he had not told Hornsby himself.

Answering a query from the Post-Dispatch, Hornsby said that he had received a letter some days ago from Leslie O'Connor, Landis' assistant, replying to his protest against being omitted from the list of eligibles to a share of the Chicago world series money, but that as yet he had had no communication from the commissioner.

"When I wrote to Mr. Landis asking if I were not entitled under the rules to a share in the world series, the commissioner was ill," Hornsby explained. "O'Connor replied to my letter, quoting the rules on the point, which the Post-Dispatch already had published several days before. O'Connor probably felt that he had no authority to speak for Mr. Landis.

"Not having heard from the commissioner, I, of course, can make no comment. Anyway, there is nothing to be said if the commissioner decides against me."

Dispatches from Chicago yesterday announced that Hornsby's claim to be entitled to a share of the world series money has been officially denied by the commissioner. In his ruling, Landis stated that as Hornsby had been unconditionally released on Aug. 2, he was not eligible to participate in the division of the money, either as manager or player. The rules specify that the player must have been with the club regularly on Aug. 31 and thereafter through the close of the world series.

"Under those circumstances, the determination of whether Hornsby be given a share was up to the players' exclusively," the commissioner explained.

The Cubs, balloting to determine the division of their portion of the series money, did not include their former manager.

SHURTLEFF RETAINS LEAD IN LITTLE 19 RACE, BEATING ELMHURST, 14-0

By the Associated Press.

Shurtleff College retained its lead in the Little Nineteen Conference football race yesterday by scoring its fourth consecutive victory, defeating Elmhurst 14 to 0, at Alton.

Harshany and Baxter carried the ball over for the Pioneers in the last two periods and Nicolet kicked the extra points.

NOTRE DAME'S POINT-A-MINUTE PACE CONTINUES

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 15.—Grinding out touchdowns with monotonous regularity, the Notre Dame football machine today annihilated a courageous but weak band of Drake Bulldogs by a score of 62 to 0.

Four complete backfields and three lines were thrown into the fray by Coach "Hunk" Anderson but the point-a-minute results continued, no matter what combination he used. Drake was never in the ball game after the first quarter.

Big Steve Banas, who led the touchdown parade against Haskell last week, again played the leading role in this week's scoring orgy, twice crossing the Drake goal line on runs of 32 and 10 yards.

The Notre Dame powerhouse plowed through and walked over the Drake defense for 331 yards from scrimmage while the net total of the Bulldogs' offensive efforts for the day was 41 yards.

Whereas Anderson's backs played the part of glory grabbers last week it was the line that copped the honors today. Four times a green-clad lineman broke through and blocked a Drake punt and twice the feat resulted in points.

JOCKEY A

MALOLO SCORES IN CLOSING DAY HANDICAP; DAILY DOUBLE PAYS $61

By Damon Kerby.

Jockey Albert Beck, the "ridin' kid from Powder River," brought a fitting close to the 25-day race meeting at Fairmount yesterday afternoon by riding Nisia to victory in the eighth race for his fourth triumph of the afternoon.

The Texas youngster, who came to the Collinsville track two weeks after the meeting started, and became the leading jockey in scoring four victories on the closing card brought his string of winning mounts at the meeting to 26.

Rides First Three Winners.

Beck, who had electrified the Fairmount patrons by riding seven winners in two days earlier in the week, started out as though he was off to a new record when he piloted Tantalizing to victory in the first race, Fort Worth in the second and Explode in the third.

The crowd of 15,000, the largest of the meeting, was "pulling" for Beck to equal his feat of Wednesday when he was up on four winners, when he went to the post astride Nisia in the eighth and final race. The crowd cheered as Beck got his mount off first and the cheer swelled into a roar as Beck made every post a winning one with Nisia to win by a length and a half.

Beck barely missed riding his fourth winner in the fourth when Irish Spree beat his mount, The Break, by a half length.

Malolo Wins Feature.

Malolo, a son of Dis Done, the sire of Top Flight, the world's leading two-year-old winner, disclosed his good breeding by carrying the racing silks of A. J. Pershall's Blue Star stable to victory in the Midwest Handicap, the feature race.

Malolo ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5, four-fifths of a second slower than the track record held by that gallant old campaigner, My Dandy, the one-eyed sprinter from the Reichert Bros. stable of Belleville.

The six-year-old gelding, ridden by Tracy Reno, St. Louis boy, showed the public had made no mistake in making him the favorite. He sprinted to the front immediately and led throughout the six furlongs.

Beck Rides Three Winners.

Malolo's brilliant victory shared the spotlight with the performance of J. P. White's Irish Spree, which won Friday and came right back to repeat yesterday afternoon, and the work of Jockey Beck.

Irish Spree's second victory in two days was scored in the sixth race, at a distance of one mile and seventy yards, and The Break, which finished second to Irish Spree by a nose on Friday, was second by a half length.

Few in the big crowd thought that Irish Spree was capable of two stiff races on successive afternoons, and the winner was overlooked in the betting. As a result, he paid $16.58 to win. Beck was aboard the winning Tantalizing in the first, Fort Worth in the second and Explode in the third. His string of victories was broken when his mount in the fourth, High Hatter, finished out of the money. Portmess, the winner in that race, was ridden by Reggie Cooper, son of the horse's owner, Mrs. Rex Cooper.

Double Pays $61.22.

The daily double returned $61.22 for $2 tickets on Fort Worth and Explode in the second and third races. The management announced that 238 winning tickets were sold. The "quinella" on Nisia and Business on the eighth race paid $33.84.

G. W. Meninghaus' Blind Hills, well backed in the betting, raced to a victory in the one mile and a sixteenth seventh race, leading home a field of 11 three-year-olds and up. Wild Dreams was second, and Donup third. Blind Hills, under H. Bracken, was timed in 1:47 1-5 and paid $7.74.

LARRY BETTENCOURT

Brownie outfielder, all-America center for two seasons in his football days at St. Mary's, California, will appear in a football uniform for the first time in St. Louis this afternoon when he plays with the Veterans in the pro game at Public Schools Stadium.

Three Former Notre Dame Stars To Play With Shamrocks Against The Veterans at Stadium Today

The third Sunday afternoon professional football game of the season, scheduled for 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Public Schools Stadium, finds the Veterans of St. Louis, coached by Garland Grange, booked against the Shamrocks of Chicago, coached by Bucky Dahman and Joe Nash, former Notre Dame stars, and built around these and some other former players at the South Bend school.

In two earlier games, the Veterans have been returned winners, but their opposition previously has not been of the caliber expected from the Shamrocks.

Besides Dahman and Nash, the list of players forwarded by the Shamrocks contains such Notre Dame names as Bernie Leahl, halfback; Ed White and Enright, ends; Al Culver, tackle. They boast of one of Brown University's "iron men," the eleven players who went through a season without a single substitution, in the person of Bud Edwards, half. There are several players from Marquette and Loyola of Chicago.

Garland Grange at End.

On the St. Louis side comes first Grange, who followed his brother "Red" at Illinois and with the Chicago Bears of the National Pro, playing first at halfback and later at end, now his accustomed position. Garland played through the reflected light of his brother's fame and is proud of his selection for one of the end berths on Coach Bob Zuppke's picks for all-time, all-star Illinois performers.

While he hasn't been a ball-carrier in the two games of the Veterans to date, he has been on the receiving end of forward passes and has scored two of the four touchdowns made by his eleven so far. And he has made four points after touchdowns with accurate drop kicks, showing that making good the extra point is not a lost art.

Bettencourt at Center.

Grange is not without good football company on the Veterans. He has the former all-American Larry Bettencourt alternating at center with Gus Butz, who starred at Washington U. He has a pair of stellar tackles in Paul Paris of Washington and Firpo Joseph of St. Louis U. In the Veterans' backfield have been Lee Derry, Missouri; Ollie Kjar, Rolla; Joe Green, Westminster; Whitey Decker of St. Louis U., and for today's game the lineup includes Elmo Shelton, quarterback from the Memphis Tigers who came to St. Louis to play with the Battery A Gunners and now has joined the Veterans; and Harold Falter, former Illinois fullback. Steve Kalmer and John Lally are guards from last year's Gunners and others are Fisher, Rioth, Crowley from Missouri college teams.

Two last-minute additions will give the Veterans quite a Chicago Bear tinge this afternoon. They are Jim Pederson, halfback, who starred at Iowa, and Chuck Braidwood, end.

The St. Louis team gets its name Veterans from St. Louis Post, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, who are operating the club, with Bud Yates as manager.

ST. LOUIS U. HIGH WINS OPENING "PREP" GAME

St. Louis University High School won from Western Military Academy, 39 to 20, in the opening Preparatory League football game at Alton yesterday afternoon.

The game was a few minutes old when the Cadets scored. Western recovered its own kickoff on the St. Louis 15-yard line and a pass, Henderson to Titus, brought the touchdown. Wagner picked the goal. A short time later the Junior Billikens recovered a Western fumble and Bernsen shot a pass to Kistner for a touchdown. The Billikens missed the extra point.

Titus scored the second Western touchdown on a pass from Henderson, to give Western the lead, 13—6, as the first period ended. Primm's long run in the second period and his point after touchdown tied the score, 13—13, at the half.

St. Louis took the lead in the third period on Bernson's score, but Western came back and tied the count again at 20—20 when Henderson threw a pass to Ellenwood who ran 40 yards. The Billikens went in front when Saffa caught a pass and crossed the Western goal line, making the score 26-20 when the third period ended.

The St. Louis attack got under way in the fourth period and off-tackle smashes carried the ball down the field twice, Egan making both touchdowns.

NAVY FUMBLES BRING DEFEAT BY OHIO U.

By the Associated Press.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 15.—Aided by the fumbles of the Navy Tars, a deadly tackling eleven from Ohio University snagged Tar passes and completed their own in brilliant fashion to defeat the Middies by a 14 to 0 score here today.

Not once did the Sailor eleven prove any serious threat, while the Bobcats kept their hosts on edge even when the play was in midfield, as their superior overhead attack had the Tars baffled.

ST. CHARLES AND UNIVERSITY CITY WIN IN COUNTY

St. Charles won a wild game from Kirkwood, 15 to 14, at Kirkwood, and University City scored twice in the third quarter to defeat Webster Groves 14 to 0 at Webster in the St. Louis County High School League football games played yesterday afternoon.

Kirkwood overcame a 13-to-0 lead held by St. Charles after three quarters by counting two touchdowns in the final period, only to lose in the last three minutes of the game when a bad pass from center rolled over Kirkwood's goal line into the end zone—an automatic safety, giving St. Charles two points and the contest.

Joe Moore intercepted a pass from Malcolm Patrick and ran 55 yards to score St. Charles' first touchdown, in the second period. Schnedler failed to make the extra point. After the second half had begun Patrick's kick was blocked and recovered by St. Charles on Kirkwood's one-foot line, from where Moore went over. This time the extra point was added.

In the final period, Kirkwood recovered a fumble on St. Charles' 20-yard line. On two plays Patrick moved the ball up to the one-yard line, from where he counted on the next plunge. Vernon Reisenleiter place-kicked the extra point. Another St. Charles fumble, which Leo Dusard recovered for Kirkwood, paved the way for another score.

The first try produced no results, but on the second Patrick broke through on an off-tackle smash and ran 50 yards for the touchdown. Reisenleiter put Kirkwood into a 14-to-13 lead with his second successful try for the extra point.

When there were only a few minutes left in the game, St. Charles started an advance which Kirkwood finally halted deeply in its own territory. Joe Moore kicked out at the one-yard line. Then came the bad pass from center, resulting in the safety, defeat for Kirkwood and victory for St. Charles.

Ochs, who reported for practice only last Wednesday because of an injured finger, scored the Indians' first touchdown. A 25-yard pass from Ochs to Boain started the drive, and then Yore plunged eight yards off left tackle to the 10-yard line. On the next play the Indians opened a big hole at tackle and Ochs went over the line. Martin kicked the point.

A muffed punt by Charley Burgess of Webster led to University City's second touchdown. Murphy recovered the fumble on Webster's 10-yard line. A penalty advanced the Indians to the one-yard mark, from where Yore swept around left end for the score. Martin again kicked goal.

Principia Downs Moberly 7-0, Shows a Fine Defense

By Davison Obear.

The Principia College football team defeated the Moberly Junior College eleven, 7 to 0, in a Missouri State Junior College Conference game at Taylor Field yesterday. It was the first conference contest of the season for Principia.

Moberly, having beaten Kemper Military Academy, 21 to 12, last week, came here as the favorite but found unexpected opposition from Coach Mert Clark's squad. The teams were about even in weight.

Principia received the opening kickoff and soon pushed the ball to Moberly's 15-yard line. Tullis, Principia fullback, threw a forward pass to Clayton, right end, who crossed the goal for the only touchdown of the game. Tullis then kicked goal for the extra point.

In the second quarter Moberly, on forward passes and line plays, took the bal lto the Principia one-yard line. The visitors failed to penetrate the Principia defense in three downs and a forward pass on the fourth down went out of bounds.

A blocked kick early in the third period gave Moberly the ball on the Principia 15-yard line. The visitors advanced to the one-yard line but again the Gold and Blue defense prevented a score.

Moberly opened up a passing attack in the fourth period and carried the ball to the local's four-yard line but a fumble prevented a possible score. Later Principia threatened the Moberly goal but failed inside the 12-yard line.

Principia will oppose Hannibal-LaGrange Junior College in its next game Saturday.

QUEL JEU WINS JUVENILE STAKE; KERRY PATCH 3D

By the Associated Press.

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, Oct. 15.—The Long Island racing season came to a conclusion with the running of the Remsen Handicap, juvenile fixture at six furlongs, here today. Quel Jeu, temperamental son of High Time, carried the silks of the Arden Farms to a handy score in the feature, beating H. C. Phipps' Balios by a half length to collect the $1425 purse.

Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, winner of the futurity, ran poorly, although held at odds of 11 to 10. He finished third, beaten six lengths by Balios. Dominus was fourth and last. Quel Jeu made the fast time of 1:11 4-5 and paid 11 to 5.

Jockey Long took the winner into a long lead after breaking on top. Balios always provided chief contention, but he did not appear to have much chance until Long began taking things easy through the stretch. Balios moved up ominously and Long again went to work and Quel Jeu gamely stuck to his task to the end. Kerry Patch broke slowly and was under the whip for most of the journey, but he could not make an appreciable gain on the leaders.

Owner J. J. Robinson horses scored a double when Glidelia romped away with the October claiming handicap a gallop of a mile and a sixteenth. Jockey Pascuma rode two winners by piloting Truett Junior and Glidelia. The latter was very fortunate in the handicap. Going into the first turn Clotho carried Pardee wide which allowed Glidelia to take a long lead. The mare just romped along leading by several lengths. She finally won by 1½ lengths over Clotho with Hibala third three lengths back.

Jayhawkers Win Their First Game Under New Coach

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Oct. 15.—Kansas University's switch to Ad Lindsey as head coach paid huge dividends today when the Jayhawkers defeated Iowa State, hitherto considered one of the ranking teams of the Big Six, 26 to 0.

Kansas gained almost at will throughout the game, passed advantageously, outkicked the Cyclones, and had little trouble in stopping the Iowa State backfield.

Schaake, Jayhawk left half, was the reincarnation of "Jarring Jim" Bausch as he gained consistently in power plays and punted deep into Cyclone territory. He scored two touchdowns and kicked one goal to make 13 points of the Jayhawk total. Dumm and Smith also scored touchdowns.

TECHNIQUE WINS FROM THE DARB IN LATONIA'S JUVENILE STAKE

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., Oct. 15.—West triumphed over East in the twenty-second renewal of the Breeders' Futurity when Hal Price Headley's speedy but inconsistent Technique led home a smart band of two-year-olds which included four invaders from the seaboard. It marked the second time in as many years that the futurity, regular fall feature of the Kentucky Association at Lexington, was run off at Latonia, due to economic conditions.

Technique, decisively outrun by both The Darb and Caterwaul, favored C. V. Whitney star, in the Eastern shore at Havre de Grace, was conceded but scant chance to turn the trick by the gala throng which came out for the running of the historic stake. The daughter of Supremus, the first of her sex to account for the $5000 added prize in many years, was in a running mood, however, and after assuming command at the quarter, held sway throughout the remainder of the futurity course trip. The Whitney silks, victorious in the same stake last year with The Bull, were forced to accept second and third monies as their portions, with The Darb second and Caterwaul third.

Liqueur, another Headley representative, was first show in front but gave way to his stablemate early. Technique raced into a commanding lead at the far turn and was never menaced thereafter, winning by two and a half lengths. The Darb, away slowly, moved up determinedly in the stretch but was unequal to overhauling the flying leader. Caterwaul also closed fast.

Oddly enough, H. Elston, an Eastern pilot, guided the Western filly to victory, while G. Elston, saddle star of the West, was astride the Eastern runner-up.

The Whitney entry was a 3 to 5 choice with the punters. Technique, covering the distance in the excellent time of 1:10 2-5, rewarded the Headley backers at $9.22 for each $2 ticket.

SPORT SALAD

by L. C. Davis

Twelve Straight.

THOSE Yankees love their N. L. cousin,
Their winning streak is now one dozen.
And Ruppert's champions from Hoboken,
Declare it will remain unbroken.

Why Not?

Some of these days they'll sell single tickets to the world series games and save a lot of money on printing, postage and clearical help in refunding money on unused tickets.

Usually people who have something to sell make as easy as they can for the prospective customer to buy what he has to offer instead of hedging him around with hardships that sometimes make it impossible for him to buy.

That is why the Yankees have a big stock of goods left on their hands when the big sale is over.

You never hear of a merchant who insists on selling three overcoats to a man who wants only one.

The Yankees, as usual celebrated their victory in the series by tearing off each other's shirts. They had previously warmed up for this ancient and honorable rite by tearing the hide off the Cubs.

Prisoner's Song.

"Must Face Three Wives When He Leaves Prison."

I ASK for no pardon, I ask for no bail,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like jail.
A guy with three wives is far safer in prison,
For when he gets out he is bound to get his'n.

The Yankees said the Cubs are a much better team than they showed.

That's what they said about the Cards and Pirates when they took 'em for four straight. It's an old Yankee custom.

Making good clubs look bad seems to be a specialty of Ruppert's Rough Riders. It brings home the bacon in paying quantities.

"'Psychic' Baseball to Test Boys' Skill."

It is played with a "bean" ball, we take it.

And there is the guy whose idea of a "daily double" is a big juicy double sirloin with French frieds and a pot o' java.

"30,000 Vacant Seats at First Series Tilt."

Chalk another record for the Yankees.

"Slate Mined and Refined in Maine."

That must be where those political slates come from. As the slate goes so goes Maine. But not always.

There is no doubt that the National League was a well balanced organization. But the American held the balance of power and the old p. b. lost its balance.

In fact, the younger organization was so top-heavy it fell over on the Cubs and mashed 'em to a jelly.

The guy who plucked a quill from the wing of Pegasus and wrote "Horsefeathers" contributed a chapter to football history. The four Marx Brothers did things with a football that the Four Horsemen would never attempt.

"Jackie Fields Agrees to Defend His Crown."

Well, if Jackie Fields that way about it there is no law against it.

SENIOR GOLF STARS TO PLAY OFF TIES TODAY

E. E. Grubb of North Hills, T. L. Draper, Forest Park and Charles Hatfield, Triple A, will play an 18-hole medal play round today to decide second place in the Senior Golfers' Association tournament. In the event last week, the trio tied with 82. Draper and Hatfield also will play off the first place tie for low net prize. Play starts at 1:30 o'clock at the Woodlawn Country Club.

LEAGUE LEADERS OPPOSE MILLERS IN SOCCER GAME

By Herman Wecke.

The third round matches in the St. Louis (professional) Soccer League will be played at Sportsman's Park this afternoon, with the Stix Club playing the Andersons in the opener and Phil Kavanaugh's league-leading Coca-Colas opposing the Ben Millers in the second. Play starts at 2 o'clock, with halves of 35 minutes duration.

The Stix eleven, which gave a fine exhibition of combination play in its victory over the Millers last Sunday, will again be without the services of Eddie Flavin, regular center forward. Flavin injured his knee in the opening game of the season and is reported to be in bad shape. His place will again be taken by Eddie Hart. Manager Jimmy Burke has decided to do no more experimenting with his halfback line, Ollie Bohlman, the former Sherman Park star, having won the right to play with Watson and McPherson in this department.

Johnny Marre will make several changes. Johnny Macken, former Municipal leaguer, has not come up to expectations at center forward and will be replaced by Jack O'Reilly, last season with the Stix. Gene McAuliffe, who did not play a week ago because of injuries, will again be in the lineup, thus enabling the veteran Joe Hand to drop back to his regular position at fullback.

Foley to Make Changes.

With Mike McGirl, fullback, back in condition, the Kavanaughs will present their regular battle array. However, it will be a changed Miller team, which will take the field Billy Foley is doing some experimenting.

Tom Duffy, who made a fine showing as a fullback last season, is down to make his debut, thus permitting Foley to use Joe Diaz at center halfback, his regular position. Larry Kickham will be used at outside right forward, with Bart Connors at the inside position. Mac Smith, who made his first professional appearance a week ago, is expected to see service at an inside forward position or at halfback during the match.

BEN HARRISON TO RETIRE AS BOXING BOARD'S SECRETARY

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 15.—Ben Harrison, secretary of the State Athletic Commission ever since the present Missouri boxing law was passed, announced today he will not be a candidate for reappointment when the fiscal year ends.

Owing to pressure of business and his plans to expand his grocery operations, Harrison said he felt that he would be unable to do full justice to the position. Harrison declares that his retirement has been determined on regardless of possible changes in the administration. He said he would make no recommendation as to his successor.

Harrison went into office in 1927 and during his tenure of office has seen the commission's surplus increase to $70,000.

'BABE' DYE WILL PILOT ST. LOUIS HOCKEY TEAM IN PENNANT RACE

Cecil "Babe" Dye, who piloted the Chicago Shamrocks to the American Hockey League championship last winter, has signed a one-year contract as team manager of the St. Louis Hockey Club.

In making the announcement, Harry B. Taber, general manager of the local club, pointed out that Dye was selected because of his ability to develop youngsters and produce the sensational type of high scoring sextets. In his first year as professional manager, 1931-32, Dye led a youthful Chicago squad to the championship by steam-rolling over all opposition and setting scoring records.

"BABE" DYE.

The name of "Babe" Dye has been synonymous with scoring records in hockey for the past decade. Regarded as the hardest shot of all time, he set marks as a player which still dangle as the goals at which such present day favorites as Howie Morenz, Charley Conacher and Eddie Shore flip the rubber disc.

Leading Scorer in Hockey.

Dye has been the "Babe" Ruth of the puck world. Long shots were his specialty.

Dye's greatest season was 1924-25 when, playing with Toronto in the National League, he shot 38 goals in 30 games, the highest average of all-time. He shot nine of Toronto's 16 goals in the Stanley cup finals of 1922 to win the world's championship for his team single handed.

But for a broken leg suffered during the 1927 season while starring for the Chicago Blackhawks, Dye still would be shooting those long shots into the nets. After that injury, he slid back to the minor league, playing with New Haven and then retired after the 1929 campaign to try his hand at managing.

Babe took over the Port Colborne amateur team, an outsider, and piloted it to the play-offs for the senior title of Ontario in 1930, proving to his own satisfaction that he could make the grade as team leader. Last winter he took over the Shamrocks and whipped a squad of youngsters into an effective scoring combination.

Dye is hailed as the greatest all-around athlete Canada ever developed. Dye was a tennis champion at 15. In amateur hockey, he scored 82 goals in one year and skated off the senior rinks onto the professional ice to become a sensation.

Dye also starred in baseball. He became an outfielder for Buffalo, and led the International League in batting with an average of more than .380. In fact, the Buffalo club was considering a major league offer for Dye when he broke his leg in hockey, ending the diamond career.

At Dye's request, Taber announces he will change the club's nickname from Flyers to one which meets with the popular approval of fans. He suggests letting the fans vote on a new team name.

Signs Young Canadian Stars.

Already Dye has rounded up some of the best Canadian amateur players for tryouts with the St. Louis club.

Dye plans to have his squad report the latter part of this month to work out on the Arena ice. The American League season is scheduled to open Nov. 20.

[illegible] Pictures, Traced in Pebbles, Discovered From an Airplane

Lieut. Minton W. Kaye, Dr. Charles Van Bergen and George Palmer measuring the dance circle.

An aviator, casually surveying the ground below as he flew over a stretch of California desert recently, noticed strange designs on the barren terrain. They seemed to be gigantic representations of a man and a quadruped. The aviator returned and photographed the figures from the air, then took his pictures to the Los Angeles Museum. The museum quickly organized an expedition, and, with the co-operation of the United States Army Air Corps, made a scientific investigation of the designs, finding them to be ancient intaglio pictographs—depressed silhouettes, evidently made by human hands, on the surface of the desert. Arthur Woodward, curator of history at the Los Angeles Museum and a member of its expedition, has written for the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine the following account of these mysterious pictographs.

By ARTHUR WOODWARD

A Special Writer for the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

SPRAWLED on the tops of the mesa lands beside the turgid waters of the Colorado River in California, and eighteen miles north of Blythe, are a series of gigantic pictographs, the latest discoveries in the field of archeology, made possible through the most modern invention of the age, the airplane.

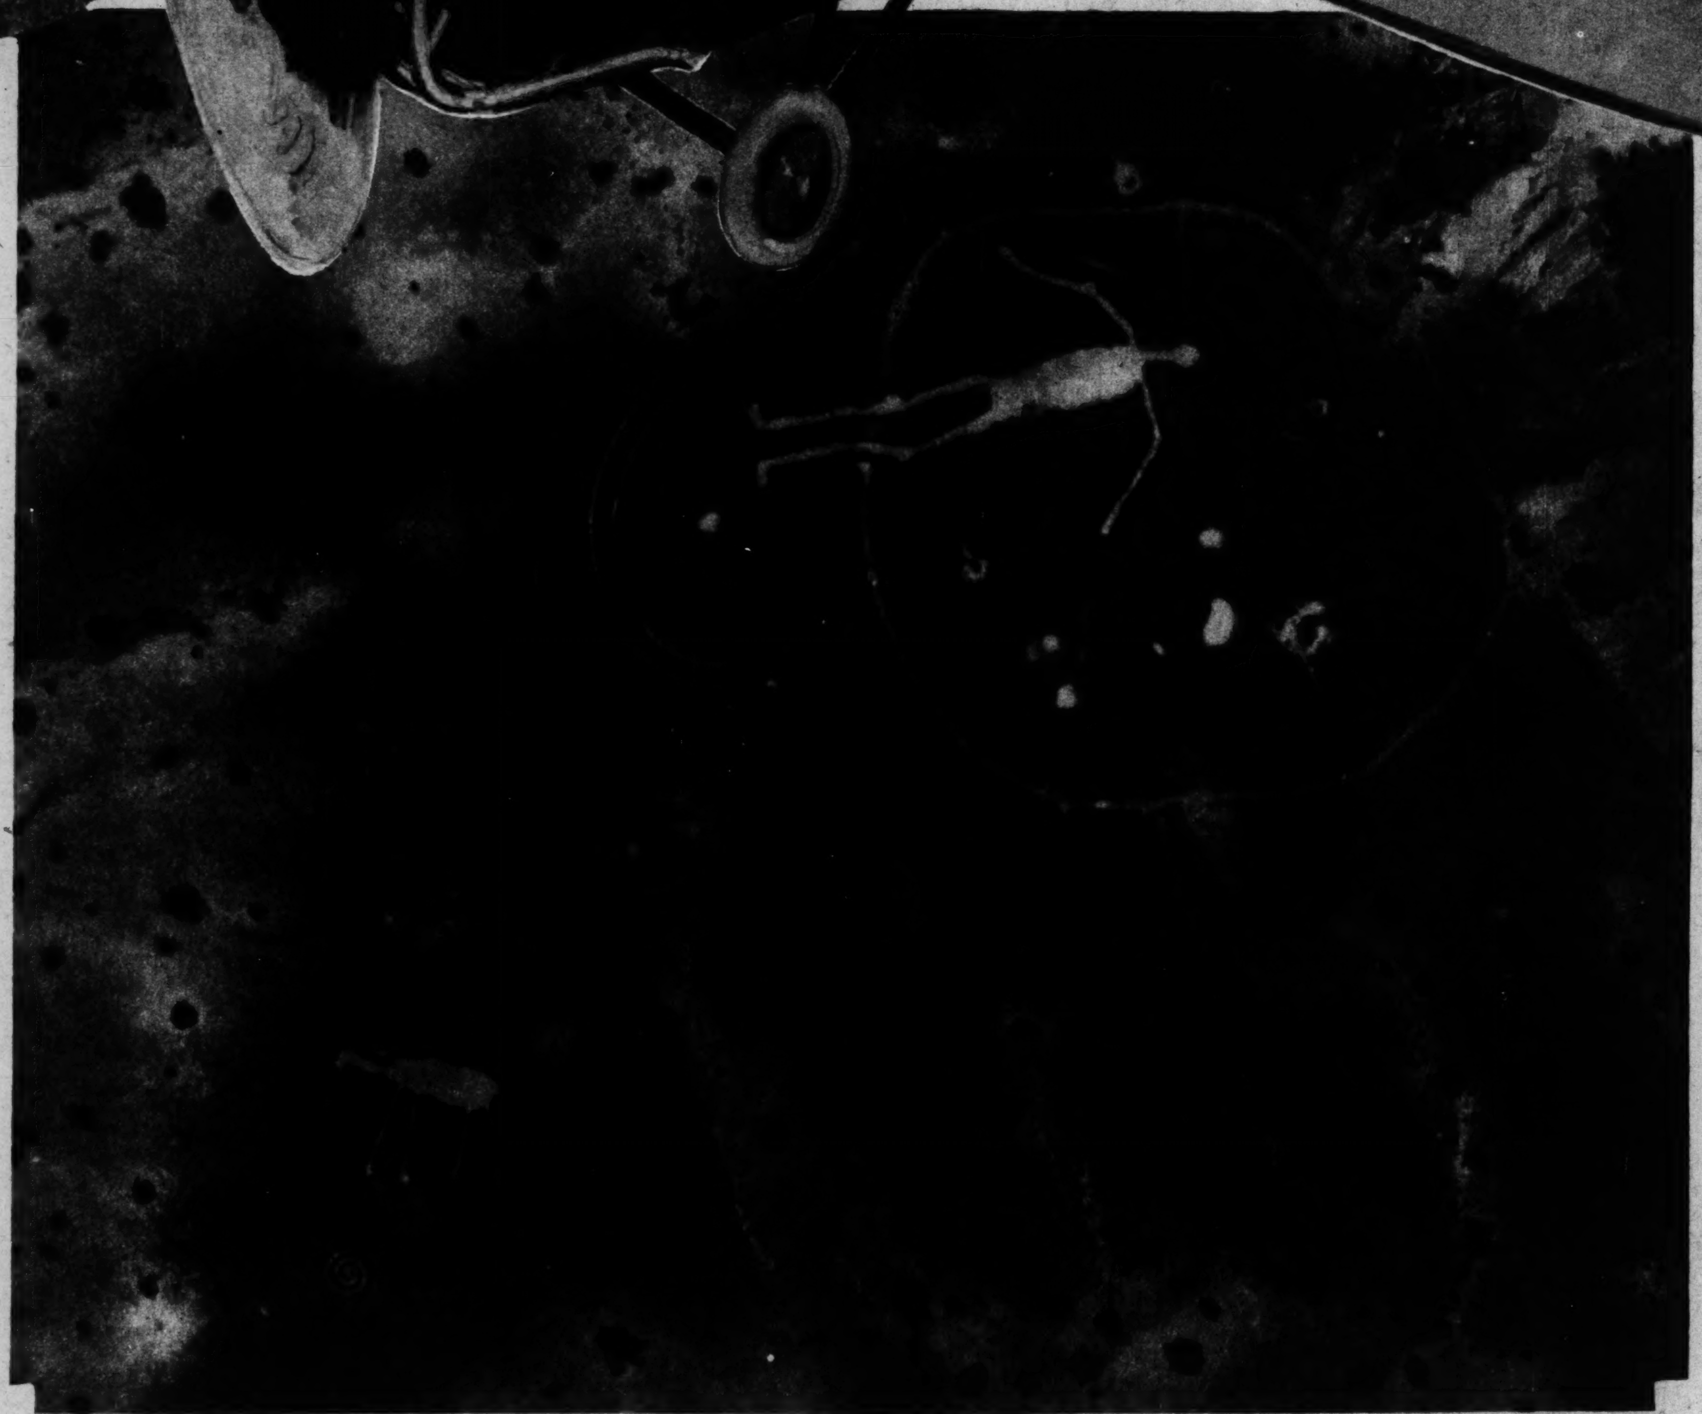
Centuries ago, unknown Indian tribesmen, toiling with fingers and rude tools, cut huge figures of men, animals and reptiles in the surface of the low, pebbled river benches, now a part of the state of California, leaving these odd monuments of their religious zeal for the bewilderment of archeoligists.

My friend, George Palmer, was flying down from Las Vegas, Nevada, to Blythe, California, following the brown thread of the Colorado as a convenient guiding line, and as he flew he idly noted the aspects of the terrain beneath.

He had made the trip many times and had not noticed anything unusual, but this day he was more alert. It was very warm, the air was thin and as more than an idle pastime he was mentally checking various possible fields or spots in which he might set his plane down in case of a forced landing.

Suddenly he saw what appeared to be the outlined figure of a man, spreadeagled on the dark earth almost immediately beneath his ship. He was cruising at 5000 feet and for a moment thought he was seeing things. Curious about the strange phenomenon he banked, dropped lower and flew back over the spot, this time within a few hundred feet of the surface.

This time he saw he had not been mistaken. There, plainly etched on a level, wind-swept mesa top was an unmistakable human figure. A gaunt, gigantic figure, unlike anything he had ever seen.



The chief figure, as it looked from the air. The figure of the man is 95 feet long, the circle is 142 feet in diameter, and the animal 36 feet long. The dark areas are wind polished pebbles known as "desert pavement."

What was it? What was it doing out here in the heart of the virgin desert, miles from civilization? Who had made it? Why?

These questions raced through his brain.

He circled slowly over the area and found another and yet another. Three groups in all, some half to three quarters of a mile apart.

One group consisted of a human figure partially inside a circle, near this man was a strange four-legged animal and a serpentine coil. Another mesa held the isolated outline of a man and on a third level space was the largest man-like outline, again accompanied by the same long-tailed, long-legged animal and the reptilian coil.

Marveling over these groups, Palmer flew into Blythe and immediately began making inquiries regarding the odd discovery. None of the townspeople had ever heard of these figures. In fact they had a slight suspicion that the heat had affected the flyer's vision.

At a later date Palmer flew to the spot again with a small hand camera. By much dint of skillful flying he managed to clamp the stick between his knees, bank and get several very hazy snapshots.

These he brought to the Los Angeles Museum in hopes of obtaining some information.

The writer, being in charge of the History Department at that institution, began checking on the information, and the result was zero. However, it seemed certain that here was an absolutely new archeological discovery of a magnitude, almost ludicrous. Here were the figures of supermen, sprawled on their backs, within eighteen miles of a well traveled trans-continental highway, in an area over which many prospectors and surveyors had tramped time and again, yet apparently never reported.

In 1930 the United States Army Air Corps co-operated with the National Museum at Washington, whereby the latter institution was able to obtain a survey of the ancient canal system built by the long vanished Hohokam in the Gila and Salt river valleys, untold centuries ago.

OBVIOUSLY to obtain sharp, clean cut photographs of these new figures, it would necessitate the use of an able pilot, and a professional photographer. The writer got in contact with the authorities at March Field, one of the largest flying fields in the United States, near Riverside, California.

Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Arnold, an international authority on aviation, became interested in the matter and found that he could assign one of the aviators at the field on such a mission.

The man selected was Lieut. Minton W. Kaye, in charge of the 23d Photographic Section, Air Corps, U. S. Army, an extremely able pilot and well accustomed to desert flying.

At first, Palmer had offered to obtain a plane and pilot it, acting as guide and convoy to the Army plane, and also affording a means of aerial transportation for the author.

However, Dr. Charles Van Bergen, honorary curator of archeology, expressed his desire to see the figures, and offered to furnish a car for transportation of the party to the spot, in consequence of which the plans were changed.

The result was that Dr. Van Bergen, Palmer and myself went to Blythe in the car kindly furnished by Dr. Van Bergen, while Lieutenant Kaye and Sergeant Stephen McAlko, cameraman, took off from March Field.

The Romantic Victory of the Horse Named for Kerry Patch

At the finish of the Futurity when Kerry Patch, in front on the right, flashed across the line at Belmont Park and won the race leading Ladysman, the favorite.

How a Section of St. Louis' Northside Came Into Nation-wide Prominence When Lee Rosenberg's "Rank Outsider" Won the Futurity.

NEW YORK.

THE great crowd filling the grand stand and lining the rail roared as the 11 thoroughbreds thundered down the straight-away at Belmont Park. The race was the forty-third running of the Futurity, richest and most prized of America's races for two-year-olds. There was reason to be excited, for there was $107,000 in prize money at stake, $88,000 of which would go to the winning horse. Which of the favorites would win? Ladysman? Dynastic? Caterwaul?

The seven furlongs flew like lightning under the tattoo of rattling hoofs. Eager jockeys yelped and strained and swung their leathern crops, accompanied by the hoarse crescendo of the multitude urging them on. By the judges' stand they flew—and the roar of the crowd suddenly crumbled to exclamations of surprise.

Kerry Patch had won!

A rank outsider, quoted at odds of 30 to 1 in the betting, had confounded the experts and scored the most spectacular upset in the long history of this turf classic.

"Who in the world is Kerry Patch?" everyone asked. "And who is this Lee Rosenberg who owns him?"

The answer to those questions forms an unusual story—the story of a man who always remained attached to the scenes of his youth. For Lee Rosenberg was raised in the rough-and-ready section of North Side St. Louis known as Kerry Patch. It was at a livery stable in that neighborhood that he first acquired his abiding affection for horses, and he bought his first race horse because its name was similar to that of a childhood playmate.

Kerry Patch—as everyone in St. Louis knows—is neither an elegant nor wealthy district. But Lee Rosenberg, even after he moved to New York and became a prosperous cotton broker, was never ashamed of this humble place of his beginnings. And when one of his most promising colts was foaled two years ago, with a great glow of pleasure he named the youngster Kerry Patch. And even though this horse had won only two of its 15 races this year, Rosenberg bravely entered him for the Futurity, in spite of the expensive fees attached to such an entry, and in spite of the high quality of the competition. But sentiment triumphed. Kerry Patch won. And the racing world is still talking about a horse race in which sentiment scored a smashing victory over form.

Forty-three years ago, at the time of the running of the first Futurity, Lee Rosenberg was a 10-year-old youngster living in North St. Louis at the edge of the Kerry Patch district, which roughly included the territory between Hogan and Twelfth streets, Carr street and Cass avenue.

The district received its name because of its predominantly Irish population. In those days, at least, it was St. Louis' equivalent for San Francisco's "South of the Slot" and New York's "Gas House District." To survive in that neighborhood a youngster had to be skillful with his fists and accurate with his rocks, or exceptionally swift of foot.

Kerry Patch and his owner, Lee Rosenberg.

Young Rosenberg, whose name didn't have a particularly Irish ring to it, had ample occasion to employ all three of these talents. He belonged to one of the several juvenile gangs that constantly waged war against each other, and more than one black eye he gave and received in these battles.

ON CASS avenue there was a livery stable, whose canny proprietor would allow youngsters the privilege of feeding the horses if they would first perform other tasks for him about the stable.

The glorious privilege of feeding the horses was vastly esteemed by the youngsters, and many left hooks were swapped by them competing for the job. For this honor young Lee Rosenberg was a persistent competitor, and was often rewarded with success. Defeat on more than one occasion was his portion, too, and perhaps his most consistently successful rival was a hickory-tough young fellow whose name was Desmond, and whose general devil-may-care attitude soon won him the full title of "Desperate" Desmond from his associates.

In time these scraps and contests became things of the past. The Rosenberg family moved from Kerry Patch to the more affluent West End, and Lee eventually attended the old Manual Training School. While still a young man he became interested in the cotton business, went to New Orleans where he became a cotton broker and later moved to New York, prospering in the same line of business.

He always liked horses and became a more or less regular visitor at the tracks around New York. About 10 years ago a friend of Rosenberg's who owned a stable of horses decided to give up racing and asked Rosenberg if there was any in the string of racers he would like to buy. Until that time Rosenberg had never given much thought to the possibility of being an owner. Horse racing is a very costly indulgence, and though Rosenberg was successful and comfortably wealthy, he was hardly in a position to emulate such multi-millionaire owners as the Wideners, Whitneys, Coes, Bradleys and such.

Such a luxury, he decided, was not for him. Still, there would be no harm attending the public sale. One of the first horses offered for sale was a three-year-old. The horse was sired by Trojan, a Futurity winner, but hadn't shown any distinction as a two-year-old. The important point, however, is that the horse's name was Desperate Desmond. That was too much for Rosenberg. Memories of the "Desperate" Desmond with whom he had battled as a youngster in Kerry Patch assailed him. After all, he reflected, you don't have to be a Whitney or a Coe to own a race horse. All the men who raced weren't multi-millionaires. In other words Rosenberg bought Desperate Desmond.

As a three-year-old, Desperate Desmond wasn't nearly such a consistent winner as the Kerry Patch youngster with the same name, but he nevertheless gave a respectable account of himself. He ran only three races, won once, finished third twice, and then something went wrong with him. He bowed a tendon and was retired.

In the meantime, having tasted of battle, Rosenberg found it to his liking and acquired other horses. One of them was Polly McWiggles. She was decidedly unimpressive as a juvenile, failing to win in 10 starts, but she improved steadily, and as a four-year-old she raced 12 times, winning three times and finishing in the money on three other occasions. She was then retired to become a brood mare.

Lee Rosenberg, with the jockey club's gold trophy.

She produced two colts by Sun Pal, another of Rosenberg's horses, but neither of these horses came to anything. Then she was mated to Desperate Desmond and in 1930 foaled another colt. A colt sired by Desperate Desmond had to have a name worthy of his sire. Again Rosenberg's thoughts traveled back to his youth in St. Louis. He named the colt Kerry Patch, confident that a horse with that name and that sire was bound to become, if not a winner, at least a good fighter.

Kerry Patch was foaled at Elmwood, the Lexington, Kentucky, farm of W. R. Estelle. The millionaire horse-owners have their own farms, but that's a luxury owners of smaller means like Rosenberg can't afford, so their breeding is done in rented quarters. As a yearling Kerry Patch seemed indifferent to everything but feeding and was too docile and apathetic to excite much interest.

BUT later when he was taken to the Lexington Track, conditioned and given his speed tests, he turned out to be something of a surprise. He covered an eighth of a mile in the very good time of 10 2-5 seconds, and a week later did the two furlongs in 22 3-5, running the second half of the distance two seconds faster than the first half. Rosenberg now knew that he had a real race horse in Kerry Patch.

This year the only horse Rosenberg raced was his two-year-old, Kerry Patch. And the horse's record, while not bad, was certainly not outstanding. In 15 starts prior to the Futurity he actually won three races, but was disqualified in one for interference. He finished second in three and was third once. Experts sized up this handsome dark chestnut as a pretty good stake horse, but nothing to set the world afire. But Lee Rosenberg was sure Kerry Patch was exceptional. Every time the horse lost, he was surprised, and to friends who kidded him about it, he was always ready to explain just why Kerry Patch hadn't been able to run at his best and had therefore been defeated.

PERHAPS only one other man shared Rosenberg's faith in the colt. That was Joe Notter, the horse's trainer. As a jockey Notter had won the Futurity twice and the Kentucky Derby once and was reckoned as knowing a thing or two about horse flesh. But trainers are notoriously partial to their charges, and Notter's enthusiasm for Kerry Patch was generally discounted as an excusable weakness. His judgment, perhaps, had been infected by Rosenberg's fervent belief in the horse. But even Rosenberg and Notter, whatever their hopes may have been, didn't go so far as to suggest that Kerry Patch actually might win the Futurity. With such consistently stellar performers as Ladysman, Dynastic and Caterwaul entered, such an assertion would have been regarded as manifestly absurd.

Now entries for the Futurity are nominated before they are born. By the end of December, 1929, there were some 2000 nominations, at a cost of $10 each, for the Futurity that was run last month. As time passes there are added fees if the owner still wishes his horse to stay on the eligible list. Something like $160 will carry a colt from the weaning stage to the starting barrier. Then comes the final starting fee, which is $1000. Of the 2000 original nominations for the recent Futurity, 194 were still eligible until it came time to put up that thousand dollars just before the race. But only 11 starters faced the barrier. In these days $1000 is a lot of money to put on a horse

Lives With Both Her Mother and Her Step-Mother

HOLLYWOOD, California.

WHEN Stanley Adams, popular Hollywood voice teacher, announced he was going to live under the same roof with his young wife and his elderly former wife, members of the film colony laughed. "It can't be done," chorused stars and extras, directors and electricians.

They advised Adams that he might as well forget about it right away, because it just wouldn't work—not even in Hollywood, where unconventionality has come to be commonplace.

But Adams and his beautiful daughter, Claire Adams, former stage and screen actress, who conceived the idea, believed differently. They flung back a defi at doubting Hollywood.

"Just wait and see," they said.

Now, half a year later, Hollywood's cynicism has begun to wear off. Instead of jeering, members of the cinema capital are offering congratulations and toasting this bizarre, but seemingly practical, plan.

And in a beautiful Beverly Hills mansion, Claire Adams, her mother, her father and her stepmother are living in harmony and contentment.

It was a daring step which these four persons took. Social standards were discarded. It required the ability to stand by one's convictions despite a whispering world.

Each of the principals had to be extremely tactful and display an unusual amount of broad-mindedness. But no one is sorry.

Adams, his wife, his former wife and his daughter think nothing of going to the beach or to the theater together. Their happiest hours, they admit, are spent together, playing bridge, motoring or just talking.

And their Sunday morning singfests, they all say, are nothing short of riots. Miss Adams sings, as does her father and his second wife. Both the first Mrs. Adams and the second Mrs. Adams play the piano, accompanying either Adams or Miss Adams, or the first Mrs. Adams may play the piano while the others form a trio.

Looking back on the months during which this most unusual domestic situation has been played without a miscue, the principals agree that it is a most congenial arrangement.

"It's not out of the ordinary at all," declares Stanley Adams.

"Fate just brought us together again after many years," he says, referring to his first wife. "We're just good friends now, that's all."

"MINDING our own business and not treading on each other's toes," makes the arrangement a success, in the opinion of Stanley Adams' second wife, Aimee Rozella Adams.

"When one of us has something to do, he or she goes right ahead and does it, and the others don't mind. We are, to tell the truth, separate individuals, just living together."

Although many friends laughed at her when she became a party to the arrangement, the second Mrs. Adams doesn't mind. She has taken happiness where she found it.

"My husband loves me and I love him, and that's all that really matters," she says. "His first marriage was an unhappy one, but many years have healed the wound. I don't regard his first wife simply as the first Mrs. Adams. She is kind and wonderful to me and I have grown to enjoy her friendship. Unusual, yes, but we are all very happy."

Lillian Kennedy Adams, the first wife, in giving her version of the unique plan, spoke for the entire group.

"The domestic arrangement to which I am a party proves what can be done in this day and age," she said. "With happiness all around us, it is like finding a fortune.

"We attempt to carry out the Golden Rule to the letter, and in doing so are very happy. We are not prudes. We believe little arguments are the spice of life, and think much better of each other after them."

Friends of the Adamses are divided on the question, "Will this novel arrangement last?" Some laugh and say, "It won't last long." Others, who are more personally acquainted with the members of the household, believe the plan will work successfully forever.

But while the arguments rage, the Adamses stand by and whisper to each other, "Just wait and see; we'll show 'em." And all admit they are trying hard to prove that it can be done.

"After all, we are living in a civilized age," is the way beautiful Claire Adams, the daughter, characterizes the novel plan.

A common bond—a love for music—has welded together the lives of the principals in this strange real-life drama, they point out.

The first Mrs. Adams formerly was a concert pianist, and now is a teacher; Adams and his second wife are noted for their voice and piano work in Hollywood, and Claire Adams sings as well as she can act.

It was this same common bond which resulted in Adams' first marriage 38 years ago, when he was a strugling singer dreaming of success, and in his second marriage two years ago.

Adams was born in London, England, but at an early age was taken by his family to Winnipeg, Canada, where his father, the late Captain W. A. Adams, was head of the Hudson Bay Company for 26 years.

Gifted with a fine voice, Adams, before he was 20 years old, was in great demand to sing at concerts in Winnipeg and nearby cities. About the same time, Lillian Kennedy, whose father, the late Captain W. N. Kennedy, had been Mayor of Winnipeg for two terms, was receiving equally high praise as a pianist.

They met one day and soon became fast friends. Lillian Kennedy served as his accompanist for several weeks, and in a short time they were married. They seemed very devoted.

SEVERAL years later, not long after the birth of their daughter, Claire, Adams was given a chance to go to Italy to study under a famous master.

Adams made his opera debut in Italy and toured Europe and Canada in opera and concert. Finally, Adams and his wife were divorced by mutual consent.

Both continued to travel, the former Mrs. Adams finally arriving in Hollywood, where she saw a great opportunity for her daughter in the early silent pictures.

Much to the mother's gratification, Claire Adams did find success in pictures, playing featured roles opposite many famous stars.

At the height of her successful picture career, Claife Adams met and married Benjamin B. Hampton, noted motion picture producer and author of "A History of the Movies." That was eight years ago.

Adams arrived in Hollywood three years ago and established a vocal studio. There he met Aimee Rozella, and two years ago they were married, after a brief courtship.

Following the death of her husband, Benjamin Hampton, Claire Adams returned to Hollywood. It was then that she suggested that her father, his second wife and his first wife should all live together in her home.

They realized it was a bold step. People would talk, they knew. But all approved the agreeemnt. And so it was arranged.

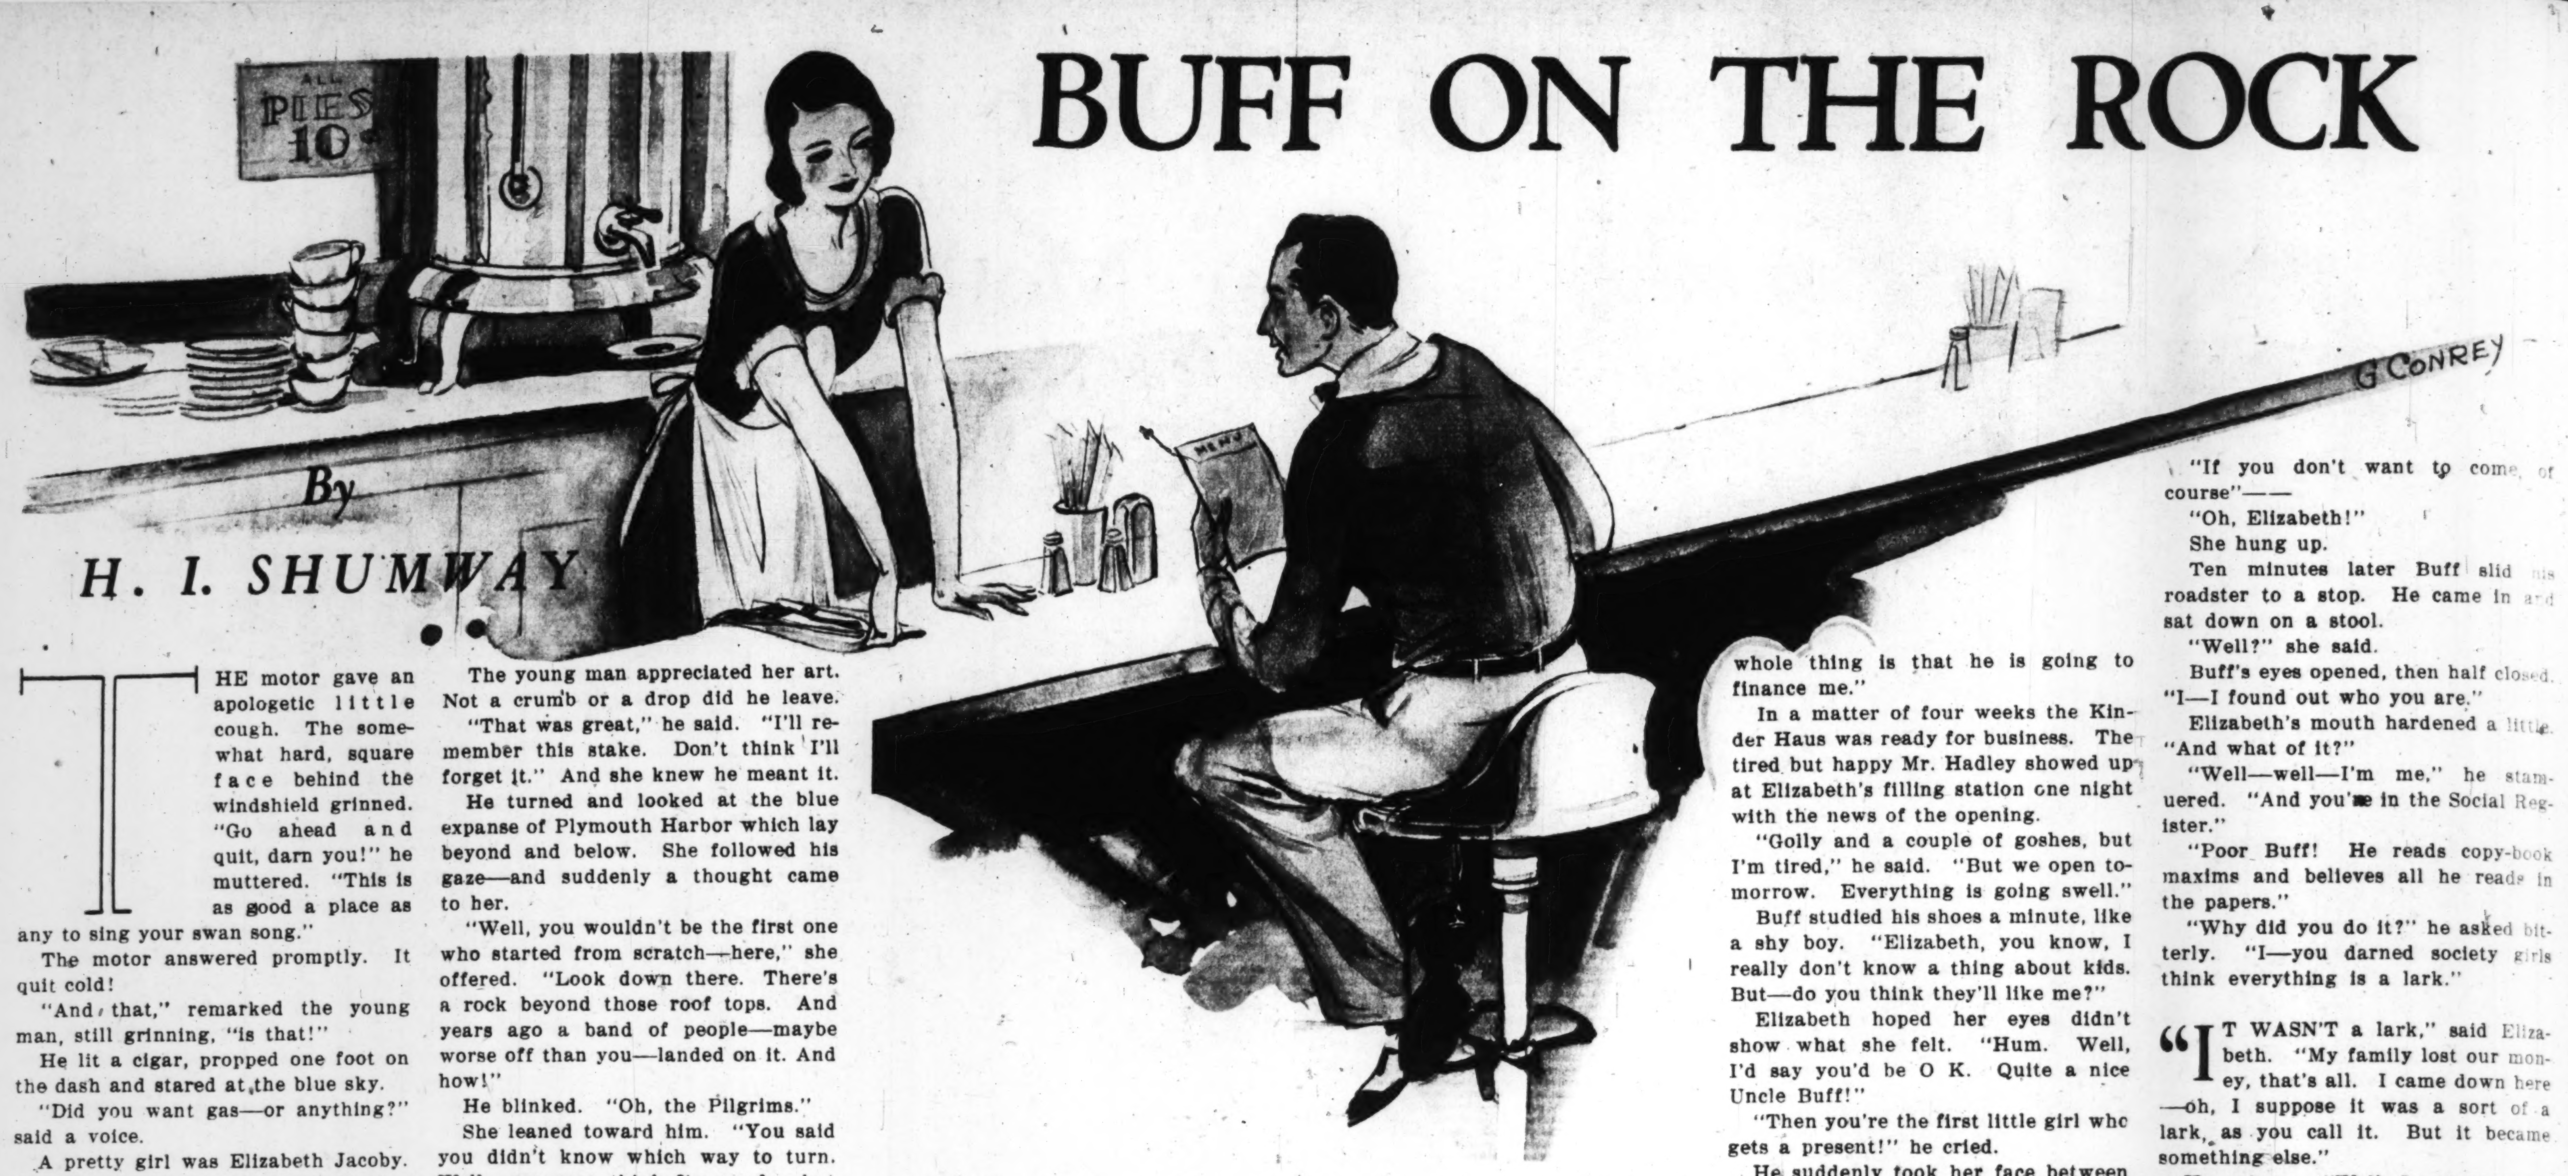
BUFF ON THE ROCK



By

H. I. SHUMWAY

THE motor gave an apologetic little cough. The somewhat hard, square face behind the windshield grinned. "Go ahead and quit, darn you!" he muttered. "This is as good a place as any to sing your swan song."

The motor answered promptly. It quit cold!

He lit a cigar, propped one foot on the dash and stared at the blue sky.

"Did you want gas—or anything?" said a voice.

A pretty girl was Elizabeth Jacoby. But with a gray linen duster and a disreputable cap on her auburn curls, there was a flavor of the grotesque about her.

"I'm no high-pressure salesman," she smiled. "But, you see, you've stopped your car right in one end of my drive."

"Oh," said the young man. "And I'm blocking off the cash customers. I'll push it out of the way."

"Push it? Won't it run?"

"Not without gas," he grinned. "You see, this is the end of the journey. I—I am broke—as broke as can be. Last simoleon gone—last gas burned—this is the last cigar."

He got out. His chunky shoulders heaved and the roadster moved. When it was clear of the driveway, he set the brakes. He stared at the little building and the gasoline pump. "Hum! You sell gas and drinks, too. That reminds me I'm thirsty."

She went behind the counter of her booth. There was something about this young man that interested her. He was well dressed and ordinarily she would have doubted his story, but in these times anything was possible.

He threw down a nickel. "Ginger ale, please."

She set out the drink. He drank it, enjoyed it to the last drop. Then he resumed his cigar.

"You don't look like one of the—the army of unemployed," she ventured.

"I am, though. Today it seemed like the end of things. So I headed the car down the cape and—you know the rest."

She studied his face. "Excuse me for being personal," she said suddenly, "but have you eaten—lately?"

"Uh-huh."

"Look me in the eye and say it!"

"Darn you," he began, white around the lips.

"You're a liar and I knew it," she snapped. "You come in here. You make me sick. Why don't you sell that car and—Oh, come in here!"

Miss Jacoby did a hot dog and sandwich business aside from her one-tank filling station. She tossed half a dozen eggs into frying pan in which some bacon was sizzling, and set a coffee pot on her gas stove.

The young man appreciated her art. Not a crumb or a drop did he leave.

"That was great," he said. "I'll remember this stake. Don't think I'll forget it." And she knew he meant it.

He turned and looked at the blue expanse of Plymouth Harbor which lay beyond and below. She followed his gaze—and suddenly a thought came to her.

"Well, you wouldn't be the first one who started from scratch—here," she offered. "Look down there. There's a rock beyond those roof tops. And years ago a band of people—maybe worse off than you—landed on it. And how!"

He blinked. "Oh, the Pilgrims."

She leaned toward him. "You said you didn't know which way to turn. Well—you may think I'm goofy—but why don't you go down to the old rock and shove off again—just as they did?"

"Huh! A 1932 Pilgrim!" he nodded, after his first surprise. "Go down—and start over again. It's a hunch. If Miles Standish did it—why not Buff Hadley? Gal, you don't know what you've saved me from."

"HORSE feathers! With that chin and grin? Why, lad, they bury your kind with their boots on!"

"Gee, you're wonderful!" he glowed. "Well, I'm off. See you again—soon, I hope. Call me up any time. Er—Rock 1000!"

She waved as he looked back from the road. And again as he went over the hill.

It was two days before she saw him again. He came at twilight and sat down at the counter. "I'll have three hot-dog sandwiches and two cups of coffee. And those doughnuts look good. Three of 'em, please."

She smiled and went to work. And so did he. Later, when he still ate in silence, she prompted him.

"Well?" she queried. "You are like Miles Standish. Tongue-tied?"

"You don't expect me to propose before I'm through supper, do you?"

Elizabeth could turn red—and did so. "I didn't mean that, I meant your adventure."

He threw down a bill. "You see, I'm paying you in regular money. A nice cigar, too."

He lit it and relaxed. "Well, here's the synopsis: Young man left here wobbly but with new hope. Walked two miles to the old rock. Good old Plymouth Rock! It has a railing around it now, so I couldn't step on it. So I says, 'Rock, consider yourself stepped on!'"

He smoked in silence for a minute. "But, gal, nothing happened. I walked the streets trying to think up an idea. There were no wild turkeys to shoot, no Indians to take a sock at. I remember walking up to a car. It was—like my old one—only it was dirty. I hate a dirty car. I wrote what I thought of it with my finger on the dusty fender—and then I got the idea."

"Yes?"

"It wasn't much of an idea, but it was something. I'd clean and polish cars for people at cut rates. Do it right in their backyards. So I went to a store where they sold the stuff. You know, you need cleaner and wax and cloths and so on. Didn't have any money, so I offered to wash their store windows for the outfit and they fell.

"I got the outfit and started out in the residential part of the town. Got turned down nine times. Then an old lady was nice to me and gave me a job. Washed her car and polished it for four bucks. An $8 job any place. Wax finish comes high.

"Well, that four bucks looked like noble money. I found a boarding house where I got a room for 50 cents. Started out next day with a little money left—and bright prospects. I got two cars today."

"Great!" said Elizabeth.

He laid down a dollar bill. "Take out of that the lunch you staked me to the other day."

She looked long and hard at him. "Nothing in the world would make me take money for that lunch!"

He put the dollar back. "Well, that's that, then. When do you close up the big emporium?"

"Any time. It's 8:30."

"O K. Put 10 gallons of gas in that roadster," he grinned. "I see it out back. We're going places."

It was good to be at the wheel of that car again. Down the cape they rolled in the moonlight; now lolling along, now stepping on it.

Buff turned in at a dance hall called the Big Top, and they danced for an hour. And after a while longer Elizabeth suggested going home. "Have to be up early, you know. And—so do you, I suppose."

"You're right," he smiled. "I was forgetting for a minute. Seeing a dance hall again"——

He didn't finish and she said nothing. She wondered what he had meant by that unfinished remark.

They were nearing Elizabeth's place when suddenly Buff slowed down. He was looking at something that stood back from the road.

"What the——. Gee, I thought I was seeing things," he laughed. "The size of it."

"Oh, that? That's a toy house. I think some rich man built it for his children. And later the big house burned down. It was never rebuilt, but this little house was left."

"Let's take a peek at it." They got out and walked over to it. It was a work of art in the house-building line, just like a big one, only about half-size.

Later Buff laughed aloud as they were skimming along. "There's an idea for somebody. A wee dance hall and restaurant for kids only. No adults admitted. Fourteen years old the limit. Music from a combination radio and phonograph. And eats. All kids' stuff."

"It might go," admitted Elizabeth. "Sounds new."

It was three days after this ride that Buff showed up again. And it was in the afternoon. He was full of a new idea.

"Remember that toy house and what I said could be done with it?" he said.

"Uh-uh."

"Well, I've been thinking about it a lot—and to my mind it's a good bet. A roadhouse for kids. And I've got the name. Kinder Haus!"

"SPLENDID!" said Elizabeth. "It is an idea—and I'd say a decent success has been made with lesser material than that."

He looked thoughtfully at her. "How come, Elizabeth, you're doing this act of selling hot dogs and gas? You don't talk like"——

"Perhaps—I'm—oh, another 1932 Pilgrim like you."

"Yeah? Well, keep your secret."

"I shall," smiled Elizabeth.

"Let's take a run up to the little houselet," suggested Buff.

And a little later they were peering into the tiny windows of the miniature house.

"You could build an ell, leading out of this living room, for a dining room and dance hall," Buff explained. "It wouldn't take such a pile of money."

"We still need capital, don't we?"

"Cleaned one car today and one yesterday," grinned Buff. "I'll say we need capital. And I've found a guy who has it. Chap named Mungiff."

"Oh, Buff, don't fool with him. He has a terrible reputation. Ill-tempered"——

"Yeah. I had to find that out, too. His was the car I shined up yesterday, and he got sassy. Said I'd scratched his fenders and he wouldn't pay me. So—I pushed him in the face."

"What!"

"Remember, the Pilgrims were rough. I didn't punch him. He came to in a pile of—what they put on gardens!"

Elizabeth burst into gales of laughter. "Oh, I wish I could have seen it! But, Buff, he'll have you arrested."

"He will not," grinned Buff. "We're great friends. After he got over his mad, he actually smiled and shook hands. I guess he may have needed a good push in the face. A lot of people do. Anyway, the result of the whole thing is that he is going to finance me."

In a matter of four weeks the Kinder Haus was ready for business. The tired but happy Mr. Hadley showed up at Elizabeth's filling station one night with the news of the opening.

"Golly and a couple of goshes, but I'm tired," he said. "But we open tomorrow. Everything is going swell."

Buff studied his shoes a minute, like a shy boy. "Elizabeth, you know, I really don't know a thing about kids. But—do you think they'll like me?"

Elizabeth hoped her eyes didn't show what she felt. "Hum. Well, I'd say you'd be O K. Quite a nice Uncle Buff!"

"Then you're the first little girl who gets a present!" he cried.

He suddenly took her face between his hands and kissed her square on the mouth!

Then he went out, whistling.

The opening of Kinder Haus consisted of merely unlocking the doors and letting in the glorious air of Cape Cod. Gay-colored balloons floated from fence posts. There were newly painted swings and see-saws. And a big sign out front to catch the eye of every motorist traveling the King's Highway. It read, "Kinder Haus. Only Children Admitted."

Two children, a boy and a girl dropped in about 10:30 in the morning. Buff grinned his best head-waiter smile.

"Hello, people! Come right in. Don't be bashful. Here's a souvenir for the lady."

They grinned back at him, and ordered ice cream. Buff turned on the phonograph and invited them to try the new floor.

He did his best to give them a good time. And they had it. They adored the quaint little house and all its new and interesting furnishings.

"Do come again," he said to them at the door, "and tell all your friends about us."

"You bet!" they shouted.

In two months there was no doubt of the success of Kinder Haus. It did a rushing business every day.

Buff rarely had time to call at the filling station. Although sometimes he took Elizabeth out for a ride down the cape.

But his visits suddenly stopped.

Elizabeth believed in a show-down when doubt was in the air. So she got Kinder Haus on the phone.

"Hello," greeted the voice of Buff—and she certainly detected the quick note of joy in his voice when she spoke. "Oh, hello, Elizabeth!"

"Buff," she said, "the sign on my door has been taken down."

"What sign?"

"The one stating that there was measles!"

"Oh, say, Elizabeth, I—I"——

"If you don't want to come, of course"——

"Oh, Elizabeth!"

She hung up.

Ten minutes later Buff slid his roadster to a stop. He came in and sat down on a stool.

"Well?" she said.

Buff's eyes opened, then half closed. "I—I found out who you are."

Elizabeth's mouth hardened a little. "And what of it?"

"Well—well—I'm me," he stammered. "And you're in the Social Register."

"Poor Buff! He reads copy-book maxims and believes all he reads in the papers."

"Why did you do it?" he asked bitterly. "I—you darned society girls think everything is a lark."

"IT WASN'T a lark," said Elizabeth. "My family lost our money, that's all. I came down here—oh, I suppose it was a sort of a lark, as you call it. But it became something else."

He got up. "Well, I got to be going."

Elizabeth came around from behind the counter. Then she walked straight up to Mr. Buff Hadley, placed the flat of her hand in his face—and pushed!

He landed in a heap, against the side of a partition, the most surprised young man in the world.

"Now get up!" she snapped.

"Apologize for all the mid-Victorian hasheesh you've been giving me!"

"I—I apologize."

"And"—she held out her arms—"kiss Elizabeth!"

He grabbed her. "Darn it! Say—could you—could you marry a common old Pilgrim like me?"

"Could I?" murmured Elizabeth.

NEW YORK.

IT'S a nice, comforting thing to realize, as the evenings grow shorter, that such things as policemen marrying society girls are still happening. It takes the sadness out of the dim autumn air and imparts a feeling of confidence that when the impending winter has had its icy fling the flowers and trees will have another and just as glorious inning. Not that it makes this annual event any more inevitable, but when the first premonitory nip of autumn, with its threadbare suggestion of the brevity of life, sends a shiver up and down the ribs and makes one wonder whether his wife gave away that topcoat, a little assurance that a glacial age is not around the corner is welcome indeed. For a glacial age, right on the heels of the football season, say, would make a mockery of the romance of Acting Captain James Patrick Meehan of the New York Police Department and the Bronx Meehans, and Julia (Judy) Farnham of the Long Island and Social Register Farnhams. Their secret marriage, recently announced, was one of the bright spots of recent newspaper-reading. Naturally, it wasn't on the society page, since society does not recognize the unapproved deviations of its members, even into such respected circles as the Police Department.

No, it was in the vulgar news columns. And when the next edition of the Social Register comes out the name of Judy Farnham will not be listed. She will pay the same price in the office of this imperious publication as Polly Lauder, who married Gene Tunney, the ex-pugilist. As if Judy cared, when she is linked for life to a man who knows horses and doesn't mind talking their fine points over the breakfast table!

It is the general belief that Judy Farnham never did care a lot for the gentlemen of her set, anyway. From her mother, Sally James Farnham, she inherited blue eyes, a firm jaw—an almost jutting one—pretty blonde hair and a tendency to take up things in a serious way. People expected her to do something surprising in the way of art, as her mother did. This lady, a famous hostess, took up modeling to pass the time during a convalescence, and her first bit was so lifelike that Frederic Remington, the artist, exclaimed: "If it wasn't so ugly, I'd say it was alive." She sold it for $5000.

Judy's development was less spectacular. After the usual routine of private schools and trips to Europe and the elaborate coming out, Judy Farnham found herself wasting her life pouring tea for people she would not have otherwise chosen to meet and dancing with immaculately clad gentlemen long on position and background, but short, devilishly short, on her style of ideas. What was worse, if you got them astride a horse you regretted it very much, for they either bounced along ungracefully and disgraced you, or lagged behind so that you had to wait for them to catch up every few hundred yards or so. They even wanted to talk while riding, an insult to the presence of thoroughbred blood, which demands constant devotion and appreciation. People who did this, Judy felt, would want to trade hats and take pictures with a kodak beside a wayside shrine. Of course, all men of her group weren't that bad, but the exceptions rarely came Judy's way. It was her luck to have a clever dancing partner turn out to be an oaf in the saddle, without the slightest conception of the difference between a rowel and a stirrup strap. Some even guided their mounts cautiously around fences.

JUDY bore up under it as best she could, but was always glad to run up the stairs to her room to change her evening dress for riding clothes and steal out for a moonlight ride in Central Park. And any time she could cancel a luncheon date with a man who talked stocks and tennis and get inside a stable with its leathery smells, she counted it a gain. It wasn't long before she was winning ribbons and trophies at the society shows and building up a reputation for daring and neat riding. She became, as the saying goes, one of the city's most accomplished horsewomen. Soft clothes and lighted places still had their lure, but there was nothing in her life to compare with the sublime experience of feeling that she could, on occasion, so identify herself with her black mount that it seemed to observers that the horse himself felt he performed better and jumped more smoothly than if he were riderless. That, according to those who go down to the park in jodhpurs, is the perfection of riding.

For a moment we leave the tall, capable blonde girl cantering alongside the Central Park reservoir and making the dirt jump backwards in little parabolas, and turn back to the policeman in the story, who, likely as not, is waiting around the curve of the bridle path and looking at his wrist watch, while his chestnut mare paws the dust. Captain Meehan joined the Police Department in 1905. So that takes him out of the spring chicken class, even if you give him a break on his entrance age. They don't enroll boys to protect the citizenry. But he was to live the outdoor life, and that keeps a man in trim.

After a few years of patroling a beat, he won his Sergeant's chevrons and took a transfer to the mounted division, which he found just to his liking. Thus, he, too, had the instinctive love for horses. Meehan's life on the force was not of the spectacular type. He won no medals and did not appear on the rolls as a daredevil, but became widely known as a highly reliable officer.

Mrs. Sally Farnham, celebrated sculptress.

One of his mates married a society girl in 1911, but Meehan was not particularly impressed at the time. It was Patrolman Arthur M. Werner, who, in the best Horatio Alger manner, rescued from a runaway steed Giulia Morosini, daughter of one of the wealthiest men in New York. This marriage broke up two years later. Meehan had already married a Bronx girl and settled down.

The death of the first Mrs. Meehan drove the policeman more and more to his work, and his interest in horses became a careful study.

He became so expert that he was selected to go West each year and buy replacement mounts for the department, and in 1928 he was placed at the head of a detail of 30 mounts which the police decided to enter in the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden.

Now a Lieutenant and chief of the police riders, it is probable that Meehan's appreciative eye followed the jumping of a certain serious-eyed blonde society girl at the show and that the girl looked on with interest as the Lieutenant rode at the head of the Police Department's best horse flesh. Or perhaps the writer is an old fool. At any rate, both rode in the show, and it is unthinkable that neither should have noticed the work of the other, he being such a capable, attractive Irish chap, and all and all, and she one of the cleverest riders in the tea and silk hat division, no less.

Just how many horse shows the policeman and the tall girl took part in without formal introduction, history does not record, and but for the fact that Meehan, promoted to acting Captain, took up command of the mounted police in the Central Park neighborhood, the whole affair might not have come off. And instead of becoming the bride of a police Captain, Judy Farnham might have gone on writing short stories (for she had taken that up seriously), or followed her mother in sculpture.

But one morning, after a walk through the brisk air to the stables from her home on Sixty-seventh street, just off Fifth avenue, Judy was cantering through the park when she met up with Captain Meehan, the new head copper. He was a polite fellow and more solid and reserved than the younger mounted men, who are not noted for their reticence.

It began with nothing more familiar than "Good morning, young lady," and a nod and a smile from the girl. But this particular morning, Judy's horse pulled up with a strained tendon, and Captain Meehan, who, oddly enough, happened along at that time, knew just what had to be done.

LIKE a true horseman, he gave attention first to the horse and then to the lady, and the lady was not at all insulted. The gentleman had, in fact, scored. He treated the black with the mumbling tenderness of a country physician and the horse acted as if he knew he was in capable hands. Horses, like dogs, are infallible judges of character, as horsy folk will tell you, and Judy Farnham's favorite fell for Captain Meehan like a ton of coal. It was about this time, too, that the girl became a little uncertain about her independence.

After the injured horse had been seen safely to the stables and the benefactor had received thanks, the Captain said he had a task on his hands, and maybe Miss Farnham would like to give him a lift, too. Miss Farnham assured him she would be delighted. Well, ah, it was this latest shipment of horses the Police Department had received. Several were to be entered in the next horse show and they were as yet without names. Obviously, a horse, especially a show horse, must have a name. Captain Meehan had done his best, but had run out of labels. There were Lindbergh, Jimmy Walker, Babe (for Babe Ruth) and Old Timer, but here the good officer had struck a snag. Could Miss Farnham help out?

It was as good a gag for keeping up a conversation as either had run across in a long time, and the girl fell right in with it. She complimented the Captain on his unusual choice and then, after a moment's musing, deliberately and artfully prolonged, suggested a few names. Perhaps tomorrow she would think of some more. If so she

The Preacher Who Wrote Musical Comedies to Pay Off the Church Debt

Now the Rev. Henry Rubel Has Gone to New York to Write Songs in Order to Repair His Own Fortunes.

The Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, with his wife and daughter, in their New York apartment.

Mrs. Dorothy Deuel Rubel.

A scene from "Cave Girl," a musical comedy written by the Rev. Rubel.

NEW YORK.

"I DON'T see any reason why a man can't be serious without being solemn, or devoutly religious without being dreary. According to my way of thinking, you can be pious and still enjoy music, dancing, an occasional glass of wine and card playing in moderation."

Those are the words of the Rev. Henry Scott Rubel, Episcopal priest of the Diocese of Chicago. He practices what he preaches, for he has just taken a year's leave of absence from his religious duties to come to New York to write songs and sketches for radio broadcast and to complete a novel.

For a priest to be interested in such unorthodox occupations as the composition of secular songs and the writing of novels is decidedly unusual, but it is only the latest expression of the Rev. Mr. Rubel's unusual temperament. Although a man of sincere religious convictions and earnest belief, he has done many things which one doesn't usually associate with the career of a minister of the gospel.

While rector of St. Michael and All Angels Episcopal Church in Berwyn, near Chicago, from which he recently resigned to come to New York, he wrote and produced two musical comedies as a means of raising money to help pay off the church mortgage. Before that, he married a well-known actress, after a romantic courtship. And while in Berwyn his wife surprised the more conservative members of the community by giving lessons in tap dancing and musical comedy technique, using the funds so gathered for church purposes.

His coming to New York for a year doesn't at all mean that he intends to give up his career as a priest for the writing of popular songs and novels. On the contrary, he plans to go back to the Chicago diocese and serve as rector in another church when his voluntary leave of absence expires.

The truth is that the Rev. Mr. Rubel really gave up a potential career as a writer of musical comedy to become a priest. When he entered the University of Wisconsin in 1916 it was to study engineering. The next year the war broke out and he promptly enlisted in the navy as a radio electrician. He served in the North Sea and rose to a petty officership.

When he finished his active service in the navy he returned to college. His interests had shifted from engineering to liberal arts. He worked his way through college by writing a humorous column called "Ink Alley" for the Wisconsin State Journal and by drawing comic cartoons. It was at Wisconsin that his talent for writing musical comedy first asserted itself, for he wrote the music and books for three undergraduate productions.

Everyone predicted a bright future for him as a humorist and composer of popular songs. It was agreed that if he came to New York he would have no trouble getting launched in Tin Pan Alley or in writing for the stage or radio.

HE CAME to New York, and then a curious thing happened. Instead of following the path everyone had predicted, he enrolled in the General Theological Seminary to become an Episcopal priest! He was a brilliant student of theology, and in 1923 was ordained a deacon and later that year was ordained a priest and was attached to St. Paul's, in Milwaukee, as curate.

Strangely enough, his interest in the theater had never been abandoned. The usual procedure, when a man takes on an active life in religion, is for him to divorce himself completely from his more worldly activities.

"But I never felt that the stage was in itself sinful," says the Rev. Mr. Rubel. "Few things, in themselves, are. It's the abuses that make most things evil. After all, the first theaters were churches. The stage, the moving picture and the radio today can be great forces for good and happiness. Many people have the idea that if something gives pleasure, no matter how innocent, it is nevertheless antireligious. I have always felt, on the contrary, that anything that gives decent and harmless enjoyment to people is in itself religious. It makes the world a happier place to live in. It makes us enjoy God's world just that much more."

Thus, while he was studying theology at the seminary in New York he was an enthusiastic patron of the theater and became an active member of the Episcopal Actors' Guild, at The Little Church Around the Corner. He even took part in a play produced by members of the guild.

Then one day he was introduced to a young actress, Miss Dorothy Deuel. They were introduced at a tea at the guild by none other than George Arliss, and Father Ray, rector of the Little Church Around the Corner. Miss Deuel and her sister, Eleanor, were dancers, and they were just beginning to become known as the Deuel Sisters. It wasn't long after this meeting that the sisters emerged from obscurity to become headliners in such shows as the Shuberts' production of "The Great Temptations," the "Greenwich Village Follies" and Irving Berlin's "Music Box Review."

Indeed, the courtship of the theological student and the dancer was probably one of the most unusual Broadway has ever seen. In the evening, after poring over his thick volumes of church history and homiletics, Henry Rubel would close his books and repair to the stage door of the theater where Dorothy Deuel was performing. She would meet him after the show, and they would go somewhere for a bite to eat and a long talk. On Sundays and holy days they would attend church services together. On opening nights of shows in which she was appearing, he was always one of the most enthusiastic applauders in the audience.

ON THE other hand, when he was ordained a deacon, Dorothy and her sister came to attend the services. The sacred services began about 10:30 in the morning and didn't end until after 1 o'clock. The dancing sisters had a matinee performance that afternoon, and they barely had time to dash from the church to the theater in time for their act.

After graduating from the seminary, the Rev. Mr Rubel was called to St. Paul's, in Milwaukee, where he became curate. One day Dr. Ivins, Bishop Coadjutor of Milwaukee, spoke at a mass meeting of Episcopal young people. He told them that the church had acquired a piece of property in the rapidly growing suburbs, and that it would be a good thing to erect a portable temporary church there to serve the district. Such a structure would cost $3500, said the Bishop, intimating that the raising of that sum was up to them.

It was the young curate, Henry Rubel, who found the way to do it. He sat down and wrote the music and book of a musical comedy called "Kinky." He recruited and drilled a cast. The show was performed to a capacity audience in Milwaukee, received enthusiastic press notices—and the money was raised for the portable church.

Shortly after this the Rev. Mr. Rubel accepted the offer to become rector of St. Michael and All Angel's at Berwyn, the Chicago suburb. He had always cared very deeply for Miss Deuel, but had refrained from proposing more than a friendship. She was making a marked success on the stage, and he didn't feel that he had the right to ask her to give that up to become a poor preacher's wife. Also, he didn't think it fair to break up the sister team by marrying one of the pair.

But two things happened that helped him change his mind. One of the sisters, Eleanor Deuel, married, leaving Dorothy to carry on the revised act alone. And then one day the Rev. Mr. Rubel learned that Dorothy had torn a ligament in her knee and would have to take a long vacation from dancing. She was at the home of her parents in Pittsburgh when the rector of St. Michael and All Angel's telephoned from Berwyn. And a few weeks later they were married, the Bishop of Pittsburgh officiating.

The former Broadway star returned to Berwyn with her husband and became mistress of the rectory.

The congregation at Berwyn was neither large nor prosperous. To be rector in some churches means a comparatively comfortable living. But such wasn't the case with the Rubels. There was a fat mortgage on the church, which was constantly howling for interest payments; there were a number of accumulated debts for such essentials as fuel, and with all this there was a very small salary for the rector and his wife.

They didn't mind the small salary as much as they did the other obligations. Mrs. Rubel decided to do something about it. "I'll give lessons in stage and tap dancing and musical comedy technique," she said to her husband one day, "and the money can go to the church fund. It's the only way I can help."

SOME of the more conservative members of the parish voiced disapproval at this way of raising church funds, but the parish as a whole was enthusiastic, and it wasn't long before the rector's wife had a lot of clever tap dancers on her hands, with a consequent decrease in church debts. But that old mortgage was still hanging around, and then it was that the rector himself was inspired.

"You've trained a lot of good dancers," he said. "I'll give them a chance to show their talents. I'll write a musical comedy for them, and maybe we can eliminate a piece of that mortgage in the process."

So he wrote "Cave Girl," book, lyrics and music. His wife drilled and planned the choruses, dance routines and specialties. A cast of 59 local amateurs, in addition to a large orchestra, performed it three times to packed houses in the huge J. Sterlin Morton Auditorium in Cicero. The profit was something like $3500, and the mortgage and interest was reduced in proportion.

THE next year the same old need for money for the church again asserted itself, and again the rector took a little time off from the composing of his sermons and wrote another musical comedy, called "The Take Off." This one called for a cast of 97, in addition to orchestra. Mrs. Rubel again drilled the dancers. The performances played to full houses and a few more thousand dollars were garnered for the church.

In the meantime, the depression had hit Berwyn, with its resultant unemployment and decrease in church revenue, including the rector's already small salary. The shows had helped reduce the church mortgage, but hadn't helped the rector. So the Rev. Mr. Rubel, in addition to his regular religious duties and his show writing, took to writing short sketches for broadcast from a Chicago station. His church salary had practically dwindled to nothing by now, and much of his radio earnings went to the relief of desperate parishioners, when his radio contract expired.

The church was going into debt, owing him his salary, and he found himself in the predicament of having a wife and child and no income. So

Lieutenant Kaye and the Sergeant were waiting for us. Kaye was jubilant.

"It was a snap," he said, "we flew right to them. I took notes of the roads and the location of the figures. We can go right to them in a car. If we leave early the morning we can get on the ground, measure 'em and come back tomorrow night. Then next morning I'll fly over and get pictures when the light is right."

Even the Sergeant, who had been dubious, seemed enthusiastic.

"I thought it was all apple sauce," he remarked as he loaded the large aerial camera in the car, "but seeing is believing. They are there all right as big as life d twice as natural."

That evening we were the Doctor's guests in Blythe and early next morning (well, not too early) we started. Even on the ground Lieutenant Kaye proved his ability to pilot a car as well as a ship. The Doctor drove and Kaye furnished directions from a rough sketch map he had made on the back of an envelope.

"Now, let's see," he mused, "we pass two apiaries and go through a gate, past an old ranch house, keep on the road a few hundred yards and then swing off on an old, dim road which will bring us ght out on the bench lands where the figures are."

He was right. We emerged from the lowland thickets upon the mesas and came almost at once to the first group.

Once on the ground we saw how the figures had been made.

The smooth, level areas which had at one time comprised the ancient river bed were paved with a mosaic of wind and water polhed pebbles, cemented tightly in

would let him know. Captain Meehan smiled and said that would be fine. That is how Police Department horses, ridden by tanned, virile he-men, first came to carry such names as Ladybug, Foxglove and Godiva.

The story ends about there. hey were married for some weeks before anyone heard about it. Father O'Brien, over at St. Thomas', in Brooklyn, had officiated and wished the couple luck, and some friends named O'Callaghan had acted as witnesses.

Reporters rang doorbells and pulled knockers to find out more details of the romance. They met with the frigid shoulder at the arnham home. The butler said Mrs. Farnham was away on a trip, with an expression which plainly indicated: "You and I know better." Nor would Judy's two brothers, Yale men, say anything.

Found at his post in the park, Captain Meehan smiled and said: "Any statement will have to come from the other side." He implied that he didn't care whether one came or not. And very likely he didn't.

One of the most ironic twists to the story is the fact that during their many rendezvous in the park, the Captain and Judy more than once passed before the stern gaze of the statue of Simon Bolliar. This is one of the best nown works of Sally James Farnham.

e congregation at Berwyn was er large nor prosperous. To be r in some churches means a com- ively comfortable living. But such 't the case with the Rubels. There a fat mortgage on the church, h was constantly howling for in- t payments; there were a num- f accumulated debts for such es- als as fuel, and with all this there a very small salary for the rector his wife.

ey didn't mind the small salary as as they did the other obligations. Rubel decided to do something it. "I'll give lessons in stage tap dancing and musical comedy ique," she said to her husband day, "and the money can go to church fund. It's the only way I elp."

OME of the more conservative members of the parish voiced disapproval at this way of raising ch funds, but the parish as a e was enthusiastic, and it wasn't before the rector's wife had a lot ever tap dancers on her hands, a consequent decrease in church . But that old mortgage was still ing around, and then it was that rector himself was inspired.

ou've trained a lot of good danc- he said. "I'll give them a chance how their talents. I'll write a cal comedy for them, and maybe an eliminate a piece of that mort- e in the process."

he wrote "Cave Girl," book, lyrics music. His wife drilled and ned the choruses, dance routines specialties. A cast of 59 local ama- s, in addition to a large orchestra, ormed it three times to packed es in the huge J. Sterlin Morton torium in Cicero. The profit was ething like $3500, and the mort- and interest was reduced in pro- on.

HE next year the same old need for money for the church again asserted itself, and again the rec- ook a little time off from the com- g of his sermons and wrote an- r musical comedy, called "The Off." This one called for a cast 7, in addition to orchestra. Mrs. el again drilled the dancers. The ormances played to full houses and w more thousand dollars were gar- d for the church.

the meantime, the depression had Berwyn, with its resultant unem- ment and decrease in church reve- including the rector's already l salary. The shows had helped ce the church mortgage, but 't helped the rector. So the Rev. Rubel, in addition to his regular ious duties and his show writing, to writing short sketches for dcast from a Chicago station. His ch salary had practically dwindled othing by now, and much of his o earnings went to the relief of perate parishioners, when his radio ract expired.

PRIMITIVE FIGURES DISCOVERED FROM AN AIRPLANE

A figure of unknown meaning, not far from the other groups, which has never been inspected from the ground.

Lieutenant Kaye and the Sergeant were waiting for us. Kaye was jubilant.

"It was a snap," he said, "we flew right to them. I took notes of the roads and the location of the figures. We can go right to them in a car. If we leave early in the morning we can get on the ground, measure 'em and come back tomorrow night. Then next morning I'll fly over and get pictures when the light is right."

Even the Sergeant, who had been dubious, seemed enthusiastic.

"I thought it was all apple sauce," he remarked as he loaded the large aerial camera in the car, "but seeing is believing. They are there all right as big as life and twice as natural."

That evening we were the Doctor's guests in Blythe and early next morning (well, not too early) we started. Even on the ground Lieutenant Kaye proved his ability to pilot a car as well as a ship. The Doctor drove and Kaye furnished directions from a rough sketch map he had made on the back of an envelope.

"Now, let's see," he mused, "we pass two apiaries and go through a gate, past an old ranch house, keep on the road a few hundred yards and then swing off on an old, dim road which will bring us right out on the bench lands where the figures are."

He was right. We emerged from the lowland thickets upon the mesas and came almost at once to the first group.

Once on the ground we saw how the figures had been made.

The smooth, level areas which had at one time comprised the ancient river bed were paved with a mosaic of wind and water polished pebbles, cemented tightly in the hard earth, baked to a concrete-like consistency by the centuries of exposure to the desert sun.

These pebbles were a dark, brownish-black about the color of crank case oil, and as smooth and greasy looking as if they had been dipped in that same oil. This peculiar patina is known as desert varnish. Geologists differ as to the length of time required to form this "varnish."

THE ancient artists in creating their masterpieces in this desolate, arid region had scraped these pebbles away, leaving the yellowish earth exposed beneath. In this manner they fashioned the men, animals and serpents, heaping the pebbles in small windrows on the peripheries of their odd works of art. The striking thing was, that although these pebbles must have been disturbed and heaped together indiscriminately, the upper surface of the pebbles in the ridges were just as dark as the undisturbed pebbles surrounding the figures. This would seem to indicate a respectable age for these Methuselahs of the Colorado Desert.

With a tape line obtained in Blythe we began taking the measurements of the unique pictographs.

We found that the first man we encountered measured 95 feet from crown to toes. He had an arm spread of 70 feet. The circle which cut across the figure just below the knee joints was 142 feet in diameter, the path being two and one-half feet wide. Apparently, this was some sort of a dance ring. It had that appearance.

South of the man in the ring was one of the animal figures. It looked suspiciously like a horse but the tail was longer than any horse's tail should be and the feet were peculiar, knob-like affairs. Not far from this creature was a small snake-like coil.

This animal was 36 feet long from the tip of its nose to the base of its tail. The legs varied from 15 to 19 1-2 feet in length. A huge white stone, carried from a distant wash, formed the eye of the brute. The mouth was open.

After recording our measurements we walked over the gently rolling, barren mesas to another figure, that of the man alone. This gentleman was 98 feet long.

The last group visited proved the best of all. In this triad, the human figure was 167 feet in length. It had an arm span of 164 feet. The nose was a white rock one foot long. The left foot measured 16 feet from heel to toe.

One of the odd features about all of the human figures were the peculiar, wavy lines radiating from either side of the head.

On the largest figure, these measured 47 feet in length. They seemed to have been formed by pressing down the most highly polished pebbles in long, irregular lines giving the effect of a super gloss on the rocks, which was all the more remarkable considering the fact that all of the pebbles bore that rich buttery patina.

The animal in this case was 50 feet long, the tail was 36 feet in length and the legs ranged from 29 to 31 feet in length. The serpentine coil accompanying this group was 13 feet in diameter.

While examining the surrounding area near the figures we found a little pigmy, a mere infant of a human figure only 12 feet in length. This mannequin seemed older than the other items and was not clearly defined.

We spent several hours wandering around on the mesas. One fact was quite noticeable. The artisans, whoever they were, realized that flat, level spaces were essential for the longevity of their creations. In every instance, only the smoothest areas had been selected, and no erosion was visible.

However, rainfall is scanty in that region and most of the water is speedily absorbed by the parched soil. The ground is so closely set with the polished pebbles that there is no loose sand, in consequence of which, the figures cannot be filled with aeolian drift debris.

They fascinated us. Mutely they hurled a challenge.

They mocked us with their silence. The silly stone eyes of animals and men leered at us from the ground, defying us to solve the riddle of their creation.

Later we ransacked the literature on the region. We found two clues. One was at the Needles, on the Colorado River many miles to the north.

There is a vast area of land covered with parallel rows of stones, heaped together with the same technique used in the manufacture of the Blythe giants. We learned that there had been two human figures at one time incorporated in this "Mojave Maze" as it was called. However, railroad construction gangs wrecked these figures in 1888 and 1894. It is said that photographs were made of these grotesque human outlines in the maze in 1892, but we have not been able to locate them.

Down in the Gila Valley the Pima Indians have a similar gigantic figure which is made in much the same manner. This creature represents a cannibalistic monster of a Pima legend, known as Haak Vaak. This pictograph marks the spot where Haak passed one night. The spot is a Pima shrine at which offerings have been made in recent years by the Indians. It is said this figure is made in the same fashion as those beside the Colorado.

Whether or not some of the ancestors of the Pima may have fashioned the giants sleeping beside the tawny flood of the Colorado, is a question yet to be answered. Whether or not those same ancients built the maze is yet another question. In fact, the desert is full of mysteries, some of which may never be solved.

IN FLYING back to March Field, Lieutenant Kaye found another odd marking on the surface of the earth which he photographed. This seems to be a long, wide path, formed by scraping the pebbles to one side. No one has visited this spot as yet. It remains to be measured and examined. One more desert mystery to be added to the list.

However, it may be well to add that in all parts of the globe, long hidden secrets of vanished towns and lost roads, ruined aqueducts and huge amphitheaters, which have defied detection from the ground, have been plainly revealed to the eyes of high flying aviators, and as long as we have such men as Lieutenant-Colonel Arnold and Lieutenant Kaye, who are keenly alive to the necessity of advancing science, we may expect that the vast reaches of our own United States will yield many more secrets hitherto unknown. It is only through the all-seeing eye of the huge aerial cameras of the type used by the United States Air Corps that such excellent photos as those obtained by Lieutenant Kaye can be had, and in truth it may be said that these flying archaeologists of the future may reveal to us more hidden wonders than we now imagine in our wildest flights of fancy.

The Preacher Who Wrote Shows

again he turned to his talent for writing sketches and musical compositions. A young curate who didn't have any family to support was found to take charge of the parish. The Rev. Mr. Rubel obtained a year's leave of absence from the Chicago Diocese, and, with his wife and baby daughter, came to New York. He has already had one song published, "Baby Eyes," a tender little song inspired by his infant daughter. He is writing sketches and music that are being broadcast over the National Broadcasting Company's network. And he is finishing his novel, which he is now re-writing for the sixth time.

"If I have any luck," he says, "I may make enough out of all this to be able, at the end of the year, to return to my diocese and take up the work where I left it. I consider that my real work anyway. Some old-fashioned people think that writing songs and sketches are the devil's work. I don't think so, of course. Anyway, if that's the case, I think it's a good idea to make the devil work for the benefit of the Lord."

The Horse Named for Kerry Patch

that all experts consider has no chance to win.

Kerry Patch was one of the 2000 that had been nominated for the Futurity, through his dam, before birth. Hard times hit Rosenberg as they did everyone else, but he never weakened in his faith in Kerry Patch, and he continued to pay the fees to keep him eligible. Then came the day of the race. His horse was regarded as a rank outsider. Odds of 30 to 1 were freely offered against him, and one could easily obtain even greater odds by bargaining. Rosenberg still had time to withdraw his horse and save that thousand. But Trainer Joe Notter told him the horse was in fine condition.

"We'll give him a chance to prove how good he is," said Rosenberg.

As late as 11 o'clock the morning of the race Rosenberg hadn't yet decided on his jockey. One jockey was tentatively engaged, but got in an automobile accident the last minute on the way to the track. Pete Walls was found in the jockey house with no engagement and he was hired to ride Kerry Patch.

When the wise ones about the track learned that Rosenberg had been brash enough to enter Kerry Patch against such winners as Ladysman, Dynastic and Caterwaul, they smiled at his temerity. "He's a bear for punishment," was their cryptic comment. And as far as the public at large was concerned, Kerry Patch was an unknown with a funny name who had no business at all in such a classy field.

Maybe if they had known about the fighting qualities that that name stood for, they would have risked a bet on that horse. At least they might not have been quite so astonished when Kerry Patch dashed to victory, and brought a prize of $91,650 to the man who had named him and put him in the race on the strength of a sentimental recollection of his own boyhood spent in St. Louis.

A Policeman Crashes the Social Register

would let him know. Captain Meehan smiled and said that would be fine. That is how Police Department horses, ridden by tanned, virile he-men, first came to carry such names as Ladybug, Foxglove and Godiva.

The story ends about there. They were married for some weeks before anyone heard about it. Father O'Brien, over at St. Thomas', in Brooklyn, had officiated and wished the couple luck, and some friends named O'Callaghan had acted as witnesses.

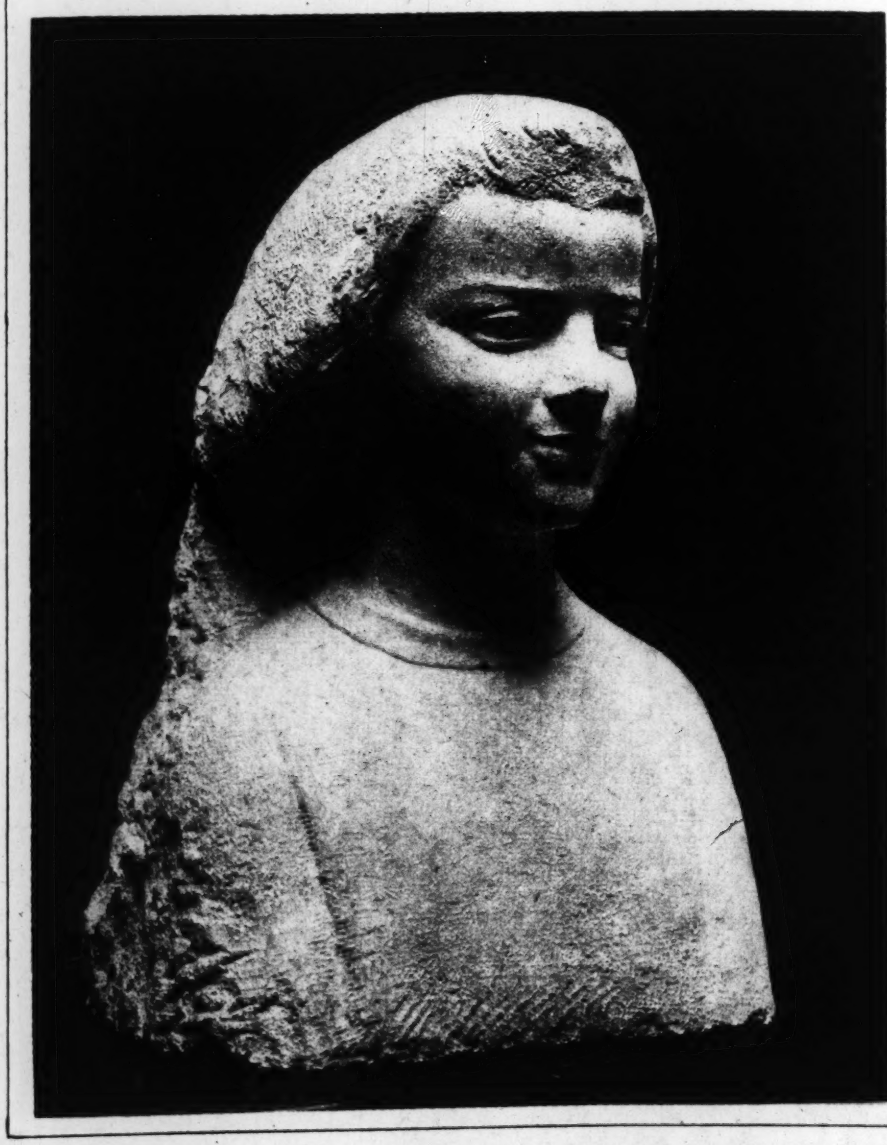
Reporters rang doorbells and pulled knockers to find out more details of the romance. They met with the frigid shoulder at the Farnham home. The butler said Mrs. Farnham was away on a trip, with an expression which plainly indicated: "You and I know better." Nor would Judy's two brothers, Yale men, say anything.

Found at his post in the park, Captain Meehan smiled and said: "Any statement will have to come from the other side." He implied that he didn't care whether one came or not. And very likely he didn't.

One of the most ironic twists to the story is the fact that during their many rendezvous in the park, the Captain and Judy more than once passed before the stern gaze of the statue of Simon Bolivar. This is one of the best known works of Sally James Farnham.

HEAD of a CHILD

The Fifty-Fourth of a Series of Art Objects Being Given a Special Showing at the St. Louis Art Museum.



THIS marble head is the fifty-fourth in a series of masterpieces which are being prominently displayed at the City Art Museum by Director Meyric Rogers. Each week one of the museum's rarest treasures is placed in the alcove to the left of the entrance. Each masterpiece will be reproduced in the Sunday Magazine of the Post-Dispatch, with an account by museum authorities of its history. The complete series will serve as an excellent guide to the most precious possessions of the city's museum. The story of this marble follows:

A backward glance cast over the history of the development of sculpture shows us many artists who have been famous for monumental works and many equally well known for religious compositions, but comparatively few whose forte has been the creation of portrait busts. Yet among the modern French sculptors today is a man whose work along such lines brings him to the fore as one of the leaders of the contemporary school.

Charles Despiau, who is represented in the collection of the City Art Museum by this "Head of a Child," acquired in 1930, stands severely alone in his creation of a style so sincere and so personal as to be quite free of any influences from teachers or fellow sculptors. He was born in 1876 at Mont-de-Marsan, in Southwestern France, and as a youth went through the customary academic training of the French art schools of the late nineteenth century. When his work was first exhibited in 1902, he attracted the attention of Rodin and assisted the latter for some time thereafter.

There are few monumental works to his credit, for those require commissions, and the work of Despiau does not shout loudly for attention. Also, he works very slowly and deliberately, preferring to keep a piece under his hand for many months, and even years, before his conception has ripened to maturity. But the charm of his portraits has been recognized for some years, and his best work seems to be in that field.

In the elimination of details to a minimum his work recalls the best periods of Greek sculpture; in the simple directness of its expression it is purely contemporary. For a realistic rendering of details which is imitative of nature, Despiau substitutes his personal realism, a reduction of the characteristics of his subject to a rhythmic whole, so that the spectator looks on the bust with understanding of the subject.

THE "Head of a Child" shows his style to excellent advantage. The limestone has been carved in the round, somewhat in the manner of a Rodin, for the rough block is left untouched in the back. The youthful features and the smooth skin are described by softly rounded forms and a very simple flowing surface over which shadow plays in well-defined patterns. The hair is slightly indicated as a mass of differing textures, and disappears at the back into the uncut block. The high-necked costume is merely suggested by a band about the neck and two lines cut down from the shoulders. The gay, yet quiet smile of the child transmits to the spectator a subtle feeling of pleasure, which is enhanced by his interest in the almost stylized simplicity of the piece.

THE HOME OF BEARA BOO

This is a game that can be played by any child. All that is needed are scissors, paste and some cardboard. The directions for playing "Toy Talkies" are given at the bottom of the game.

THE PLAYERS

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—He is searching for his younger brother.
SHERLOCK BONES—Who is aiding Ivan Wolfhoundski.
BEARA BOO—Once a nurse for the aristocratic Wolfhoundskis.
SERGE WOLFOVICH—A Red, who is suspicious of Ivan and Sherlock.

(Beara Boo enters.)

BEARA BOO—Two strangers are coming. I don't like their looks. (She leaves and Ivan Wolfhoundski and Sherlock Bones enter, wearing their disguises.)

SHERLOCK BONES—H-h-h-m. A woman's footprints, but they don't go up the path.

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—I hope we get there soon. This disguise is hot.

SHERLOCK BONES—These disguises are our protection from Serge Wolfovich. (They leave and Serge Wolfovich enters.)

SERGE WOLFOVICH—I wonder if those two fellows are really Wolfoviches. I shall try an old trick on them. (He leaves and Ivan Wolfhoundski and Sherlock Bones enter, still disguised.)

SHERLOCK BONES—That woodchopper said this was the house.

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—I'm glad we are here at last. (Just then Serge Wolfovich enters disguised as a ram and slowly crosses the stage.)

SHERLOCK BONES—Aw—so it is you, Rambova. Come back here. (Serge Wolfovich runs off the stage with Sherlock Bones in hot pursuit.)

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—What on earth has come over Sherlock. (He leaves and Beara Boo enters.)

BEARA BOO—Hope I don't see those two rough looking fellows any more. (Then a moment later: Who is this coming? Ivan Wolfhoundski enters, minus his disguise.)

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—Beara Boo, my old nurse! How are you?

BEARA BOO—Ivan! What are you doing in Russia?

IVAN WOLFHOUNDSKI—I came to ask you what has become of my little brother whom you saved during the revolution.

BEARA BOO—Come to the house and I'll tell you all about him. (They leave and a moment later Sherlock Bones enters, minus his disguise.)

SHERLOCK BONES—Ha-ha, Serge Wolfovich knows that all Wolfoviches are enemies of Rambovas, so he dressed like a Rambova to see if we were really Wolfoviches. After the chasing I gave him I don't think he will question our disguises again. Ah! What's this? Ivan Wolfhoundski's tracks and a woman's, going to that house. Well, this is the place, all right. (He leaves.)

Then take characters, cut them out, and paste them on thin cardboard, folding flap at bottom so they will lean back a little. Attach a piece of thread about 15 inches long. Place the characters back of the book on the right-hand side of the stage and draw them on the stage with thread as they are needed. The operator may talk for the characters, changing his or her voice as different characters go on the stage, or each character's part may be spoken by a different child. A flashlight can be used as a spotlight.

MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS

BEN LYON.

A different movie star will make his or her appearance in this space every week. Accompanying will be three costumes this particular player wore in various roles played on the screen.

Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in his proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correcly.

This week's star is Ben Lyon. The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by him in these roles in the following movies:

Buster Collins in "Hat Check Girl;" Hap Harrigan in "The Hot Heiress," and Jack Williams in "Week Ends Only."

Koven and Allen Carpe were members of the Liek Lidley party who plunged to their death while carrying on studies of the mysterious cosmic ray. Their bodies were abandoned by their own party because of the dangerous conditions of the crevasses, but Koven's body was recovered by Merle la Voy, travel photographer and explorer, and Andrew Taylor, Alaskan photographer and explorer, who formed, with assistants, an expedition for that purpose. Koven's body was found where it was buried at an elevation of 11,000 feet, but the search for Carpe's body had to be abandoned on account of the unfavorable weather. Koven's body was recently brought back to New York.

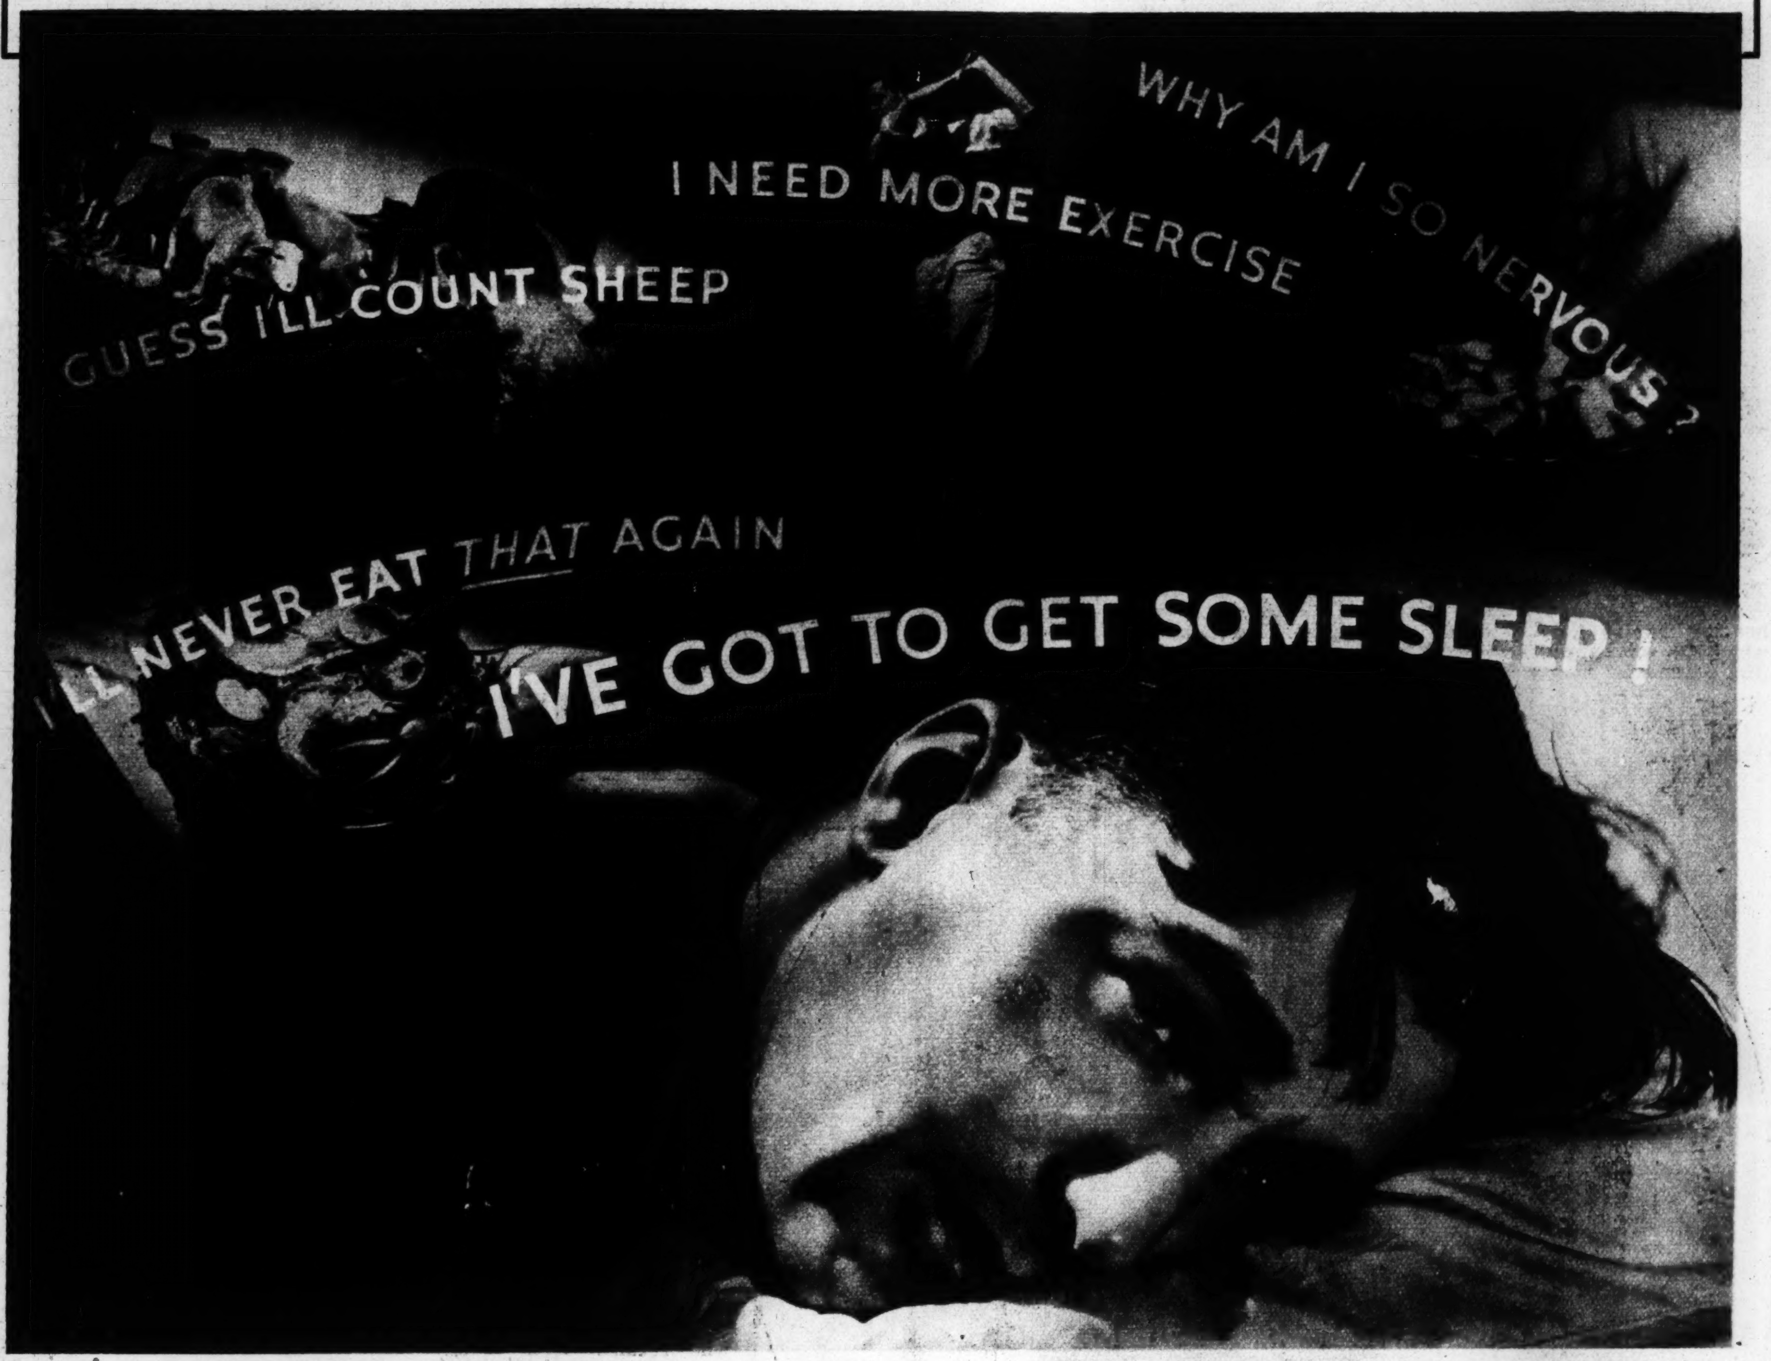
SOUND, NATURAL SLEEP
Every Night ... This Utterly Drugless Way



WHY AM I SO NERVOUS ?
I NEED MORE EXERCISE
GUESS I'LL COUNT SHEEP
I'LL NEVER EAT THAT AGAIN
I'VE GOT TO GET SOME SLEEP !

DON'T LET "NERVES," INDIGESTION OR DAYTIME WORRIES KEEP YOU AWAKE LIKE THIS

New Daytime Energy . . . New Vitality and Pep

STOP merely wishing for sound sleep at night! Here's a way to get 8 hours of it every night—entirely without drugs.

A way that completely does away with those nerve-wracking hours of tossing and turning. And avoids the listless, fagged out days that always follow sleepless nights!

It is a delicious food-drink you take with warm milk just before you go to bed. Then fall asleep almost as soon as you close your eyes—and rest all night as soundly as a child.

While you sleep, its peculiar dietetic properties act to rebuild your worn-out tissues and replenish overtaxed nerves. So, in the morning, you waken vastly refreshed—looking, feeling and reacting like a totally different person.

All day long you teem with new-found energy. For this discovery greatly enhances your ability to recover quickly from fatigue. And enables you to "come back" much more rapidly when you're tired.

This remarkable food-drink is called Ovaltine. Originally discovered in Switzerland, its fame has spread around the world.

It is used today in 54 different countries and 20,000 doctors advise and recommend it.

3 Reasons W[illegible]t Brings Sound Sleep [illegible] Night

Probably the 3 most common causes of sleeplessness are: (1) blood-congested brain cells (2) digestive unrest and (3) nervous irritability. Whether you suffer from one or all three, Ovaltine brings you sleep.

First: Ovaltine, when taken as a warm drink at bedtime, tends to draw excess blood away from the head. And combats mental over-activity which often keeps you from getting to sleep. Thus, mental calm is invited—the mind is "conditioned" for sleep.

Second: Ovaltine contains in high proportion a unique food property called diastase—a property recognized for its ability to digest the starch content of other foods regularly taken into the stomach. Thus possessing the power to lighten digestive burdens and help the stomach "rest."

Third: Also notable among the constituents of Ovaltine is calcium. And it is increasingly realized that a proper calcium metabolism is necessary to avoid nerve irritation.

Phosphorus, too, is an essential part of brain and nerve cells. Ovaltine supplies this in abundance and in its easily assimilated food form (lecithin)—together with a high proportion of the anti-neuritic Vitamin B.

Thus, a cup of Ovaltine at bedtime not only promotes relaxation and combats digestive unrest but also acts remarkably to overcome sleeplessness due to irritated nerves.

83% Sleep Better When They Take It

Recently Ovaltine was the object of some extremely significant tests. A well-known eastern university scientist gave this remarkable food-drink to 2,500 people for 3 successive nights—then examined them to determine exactly how much better they had slept.

These people were selected at random. And their number included good sleepers as well as poor sleepers. But in spite of the fact that the test group contained so many people who already "Slept well enough," it was found that 83% slept noticeably more soundly and more restfully when they had taken Ovaltine!

One thing about these tests stands out especially. And that is the fact that even those subjects who considered themselves average normal sleepers were surprised to note that they fell asleep more quickly—felt more completely refreshed the next day.

Thus demonstrating that Ovaltine definitely improves the quality of sleep in 83 out of every 100 cases whether habitual sleeplessness exists or not!

See For Yourself

For the sake of your health, your nerves—get acquainted with Ovaltine and see how much better you sleep!

Disregard if you wish, the findings in the scientific tests described above. Forget the fact that Ovaltine is endorsed by 20,000 doctors. Try it and see for yourself.

As you continue to take Ovaltine, note the permanent benefits you obtain. See how it restores your natural tendency to sleep soundly every night—how vitality multiplies.

'Phone your druggist or grocer for a tin of Ovaltine tonight. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls with a cup of warm milk—and drink it just before you get into bed. You'll sleep more soundly than you have, probably, in weeks and months—and feel vastly refreshed tomorrow.

NOTE: Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. During the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. It is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, underweight children—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged. 934

When Children Sleep Poorly

"Our 7 year old boy used to keep us awake at night standing up in bed and talking or screaming—night after night. Finally a doctor friend of ours recommended Ovaltine. Now the child sleeps every night without a sound and we, too, are experiencing quiet, peaceful sleep."

For Quiet Nerves and Restful Sleep

"I find Ovaltine very beneficial in cases of nervousness, especially when taken at bedtime. After a hard day's work, a cup of Ovaltine in hot milk relaxes the nerves amazingly and does away with tossing and restlessness while sleeping."

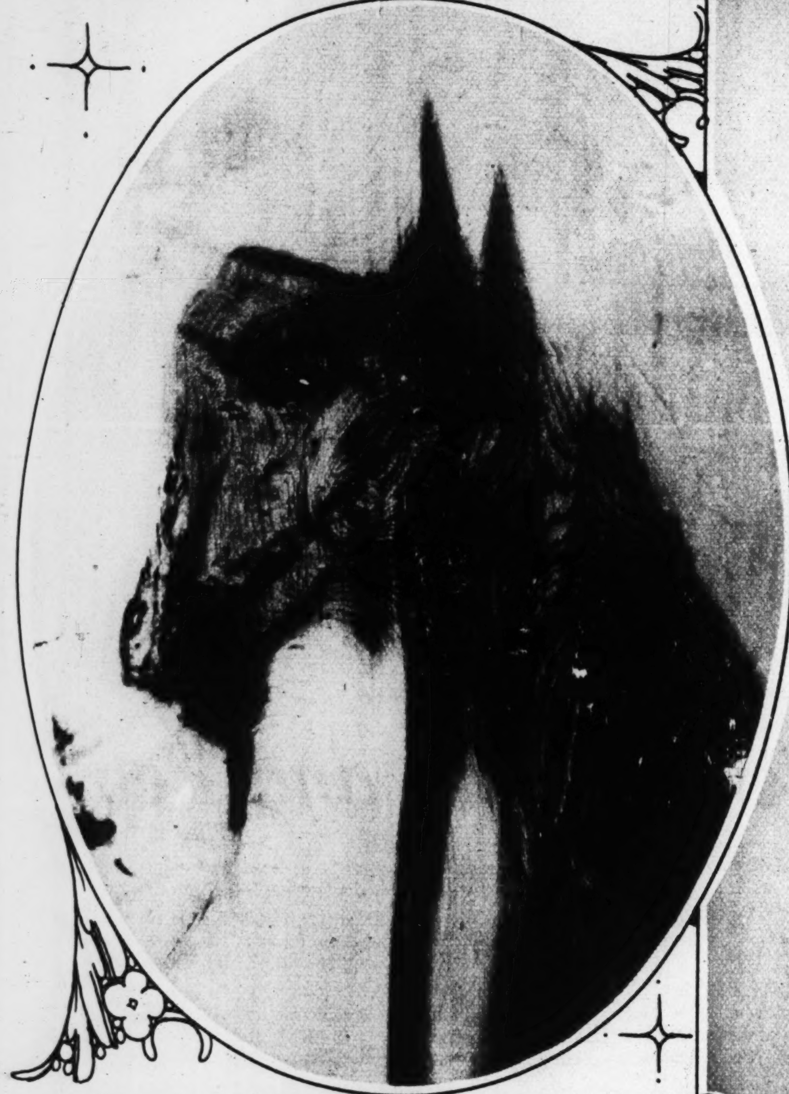
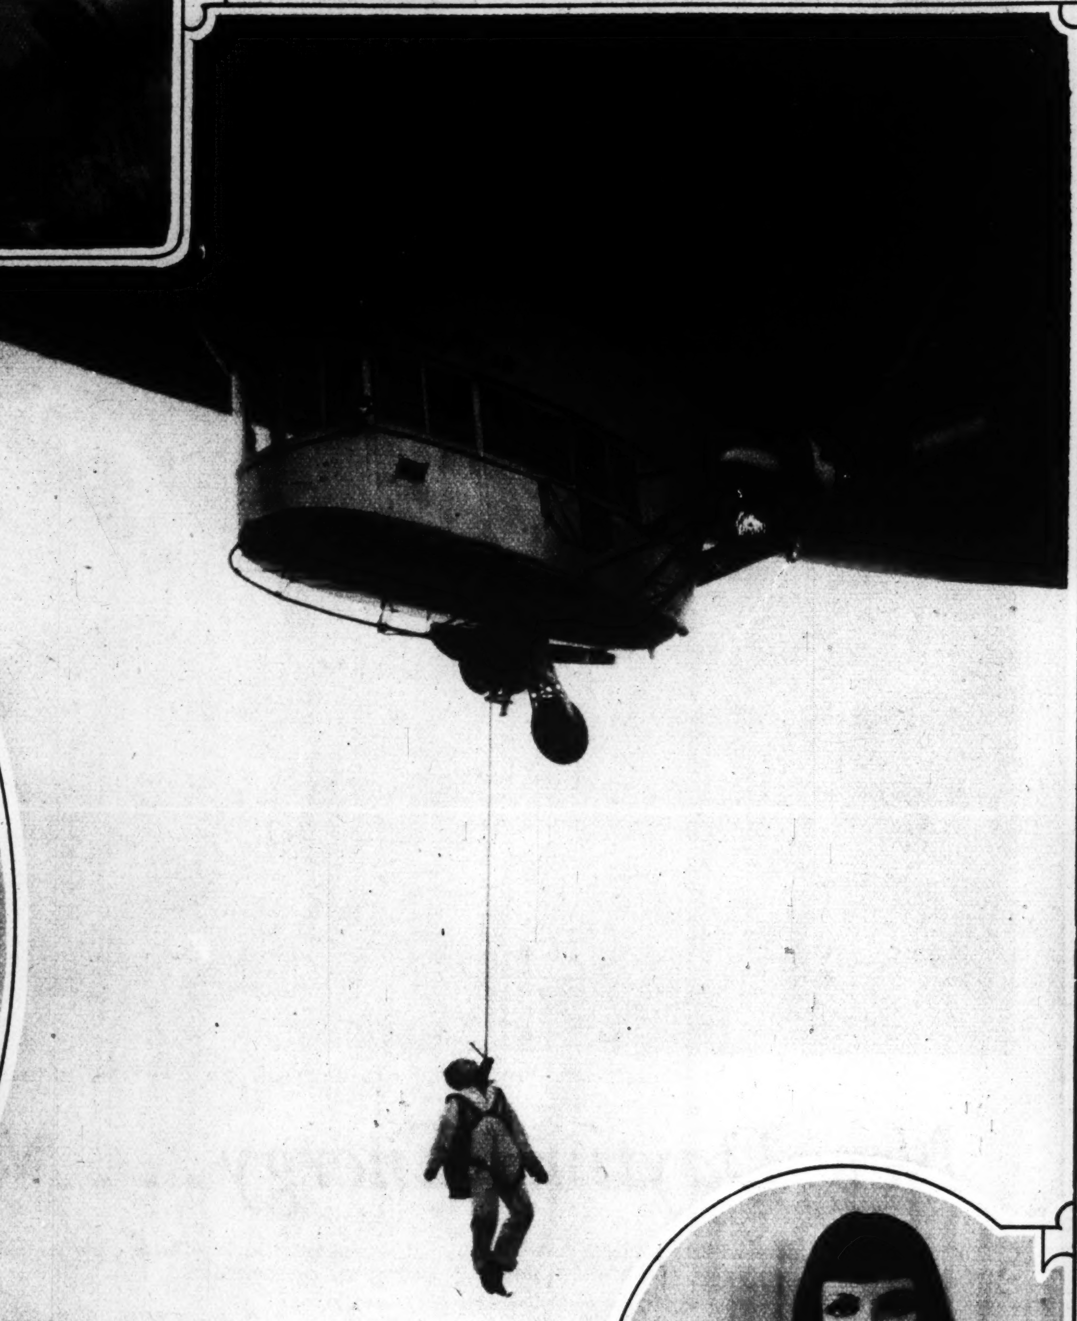
THE MOVIES CHOOSE HER AS THEIR "PANTHER WOMAN"—Kathleen Burke, 19-year-old Chicago girl, won her job from a field of 60,000 contestants. The talkie in which she will appear is now being made by one of the major film producers.

TAKING THE HOUNDS FOR THEIR MORNING RUN—Doreen Loveridge, who is 7 years old and the daughter of a kennels owner, takes this jaunt daily near Epsom in England.



NATURE TAKES TO PORTRAIT PAINTING—This animal-like picture was found in a maple board in the laboratory of the United States Forest Service at Madison, Wis. It is the result of the discoloration of the wood around a cluster of knots.



HOW TO PASS OVER LOS ANGELES WITHOUT SEEING IT—J. D. Pate, stunt man, hangs by his neck from the Goodyear blimp Volunteer.

THEY'RE TALKING ABOUT THE SINUS—Dr. Arthur W. Proetz of St. Louis, at left, and Dr. Jacques Le Mee meet for the first time at the American Hospital near Paris, although they have corresponded for seven years on a new treatment for sinus trouble.

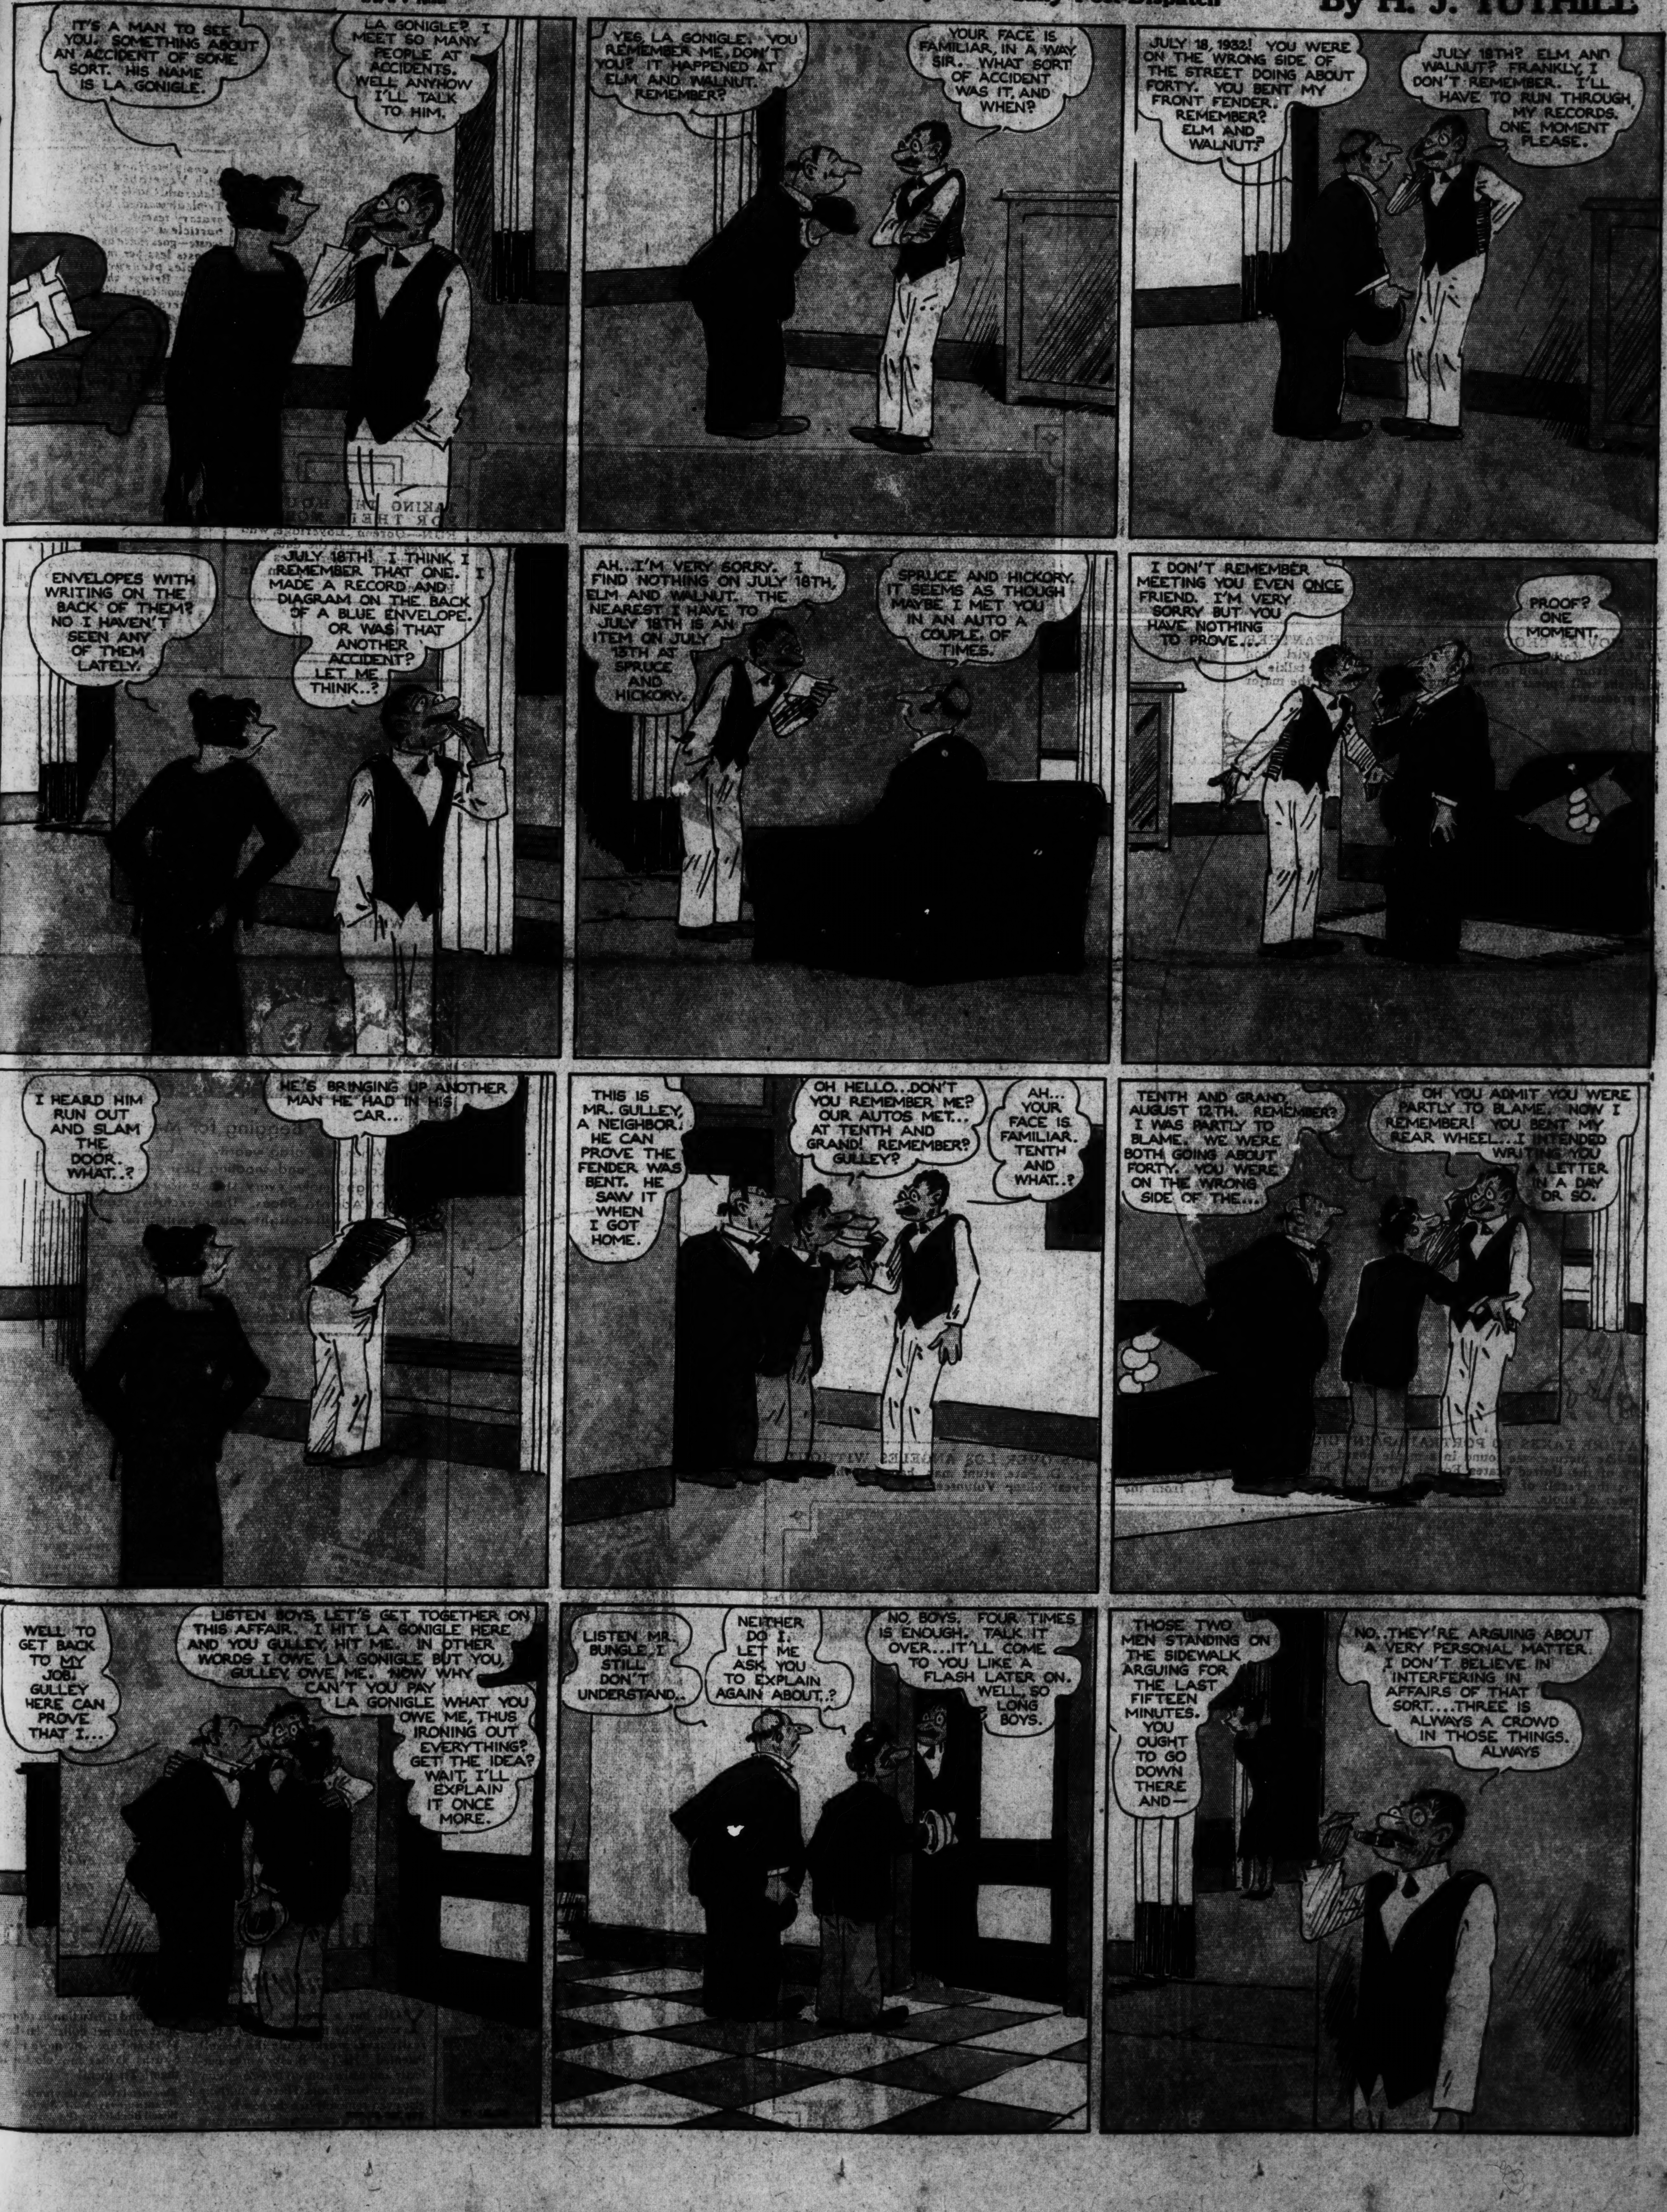
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By H. J. TUTHILL



IT'S A MAN TO SEE YOU. SOMETHING ABOUT AN ACCIDENT OF SOME SORT. HIS NAME IS LA GONIGLE.
LA GONIGLE? I MEET SO MANY PEOPLE AT ACCIDENTS. WELL ANYHOW I'LL TALK TO HIM.
YES, LA GONIGLE. YOU REMEMBER ME, DON'T YOU? IT HAPPENED AT ELM AND WALNUT. REMEMBER?
YOUR FACE IS FAMILIAR, IN A WAY, SIR. WHAT SORT OF ACCIDENT WAS IT, AND WHEN?
JULY 18, 1932! YOU WERE ON THE WRONG SIDE OF THE STREET DOING ABOUT FORTY. YOU BENT MY FRONT FENDER. REMEMBER? ELM AND WALNUT?
JULY 18TH? ELM AND WALNUT? FRANKLY, I DON'T REMEMBER. I'LL HAVE TO RUN THROUGH MY RECORDS. ONE MOMENT PLEASE.
ENVELOPES WITH WRITING ON THE BACK OF THEM? NO I HAVEN'T SEEN ANY OF THEM LATELY.
JULY 18TH! I THINK I REMEMBER THAT ONE. I MADE A RECORD AND DIAGRAM ON THE BACK OF A BLUE ENVELOPE. OR WAS THAT ANOTHER ACCIDENT? LET ME THINK..?
AH...I'M VERY SORRY. I FIND NOTHING ON JULY 18TH, ELM AND WALNUT. THE NEAREST I HAVE TO JULY 18TH IS AN ITEM ON JULY 15TH AT SPRUCE AND HICKORY.
SPRUCE AND HICKORY. IT SEEMS AS THOUGH MAYBE I MET YOU IN AN AUTO A COUPLE OF TIMES.
I DON'T REMEMBER MEETING YOU EVEN ONCE FRIEND. I'M VERY SORRY BUT YOU HAVE NOTHING TO PROVE...
PROOF? ONE MOMENT.
I HEARD HIM RUN OUT AND SLAM THE DOOR. WHAT..?
HE'S BRINGING UP ANOTHER MAN HE HAD IN HIS CAR...
THIS IS MR. GULLEY, A NEIGHBOR. HE CAN PROVE THE FENDER WAS BENT. HE SAW IT WHEN I GOT HOME.
OH HELLO...DON'T YOU REMEMBER ME? OUR AUTOS MET... AT TENTH AND GRAND! REMEMBER? GULLEY?
AH... YOUR FACE IS FAMILIAR. TENTH AND WHAT..?
TENTH AND GRAND, AUGUST 12TH. REMEMBER? I WAS PARTLY TO BLAME. WE WERE BOTH GOING ABOUT FORTY. YOU WERE ON THE WRONG SIDE OF THE...
OH YOU ADMIT YOU WERE PARTLY TO BLAME. NOW I REMEMBER! YOU BENT MY REAR WHEEL...I INTENDED WRITING YOU A LETTER IN A DAY OR SO.
WELL TO GET BACK TO MY JOB. GULLEY HERE CAN PROVE THAT I...
LISTEN BOYS, LET'S GET TOGETHER ON THIS AFFAIR. I HIT LA GONIGLE HERE AND YOU GULLEY, HIT ME. IN OTHER WORDS I OWE LA GONIGLE BUT YOU, GULLEY, OWE ME. NOW WHY CAN'T YOU PAY LA GONIGLE WHAT YOU OWE ME, THUS IRONING OUT EVERYTHING? GET THE IDEA? WAIT, I'LL EXPLAIN IT ONCE MORE.
LISTEN MR. BUNGLE, I STILL DON'T UNDERSTAND..
NEITHER DO I. LET ME ASK YOU TO EXPLAIN AGAIN ABOUT..?
NO, BOYS. FOUR TIMES IS ENOUGH. TALK IT OVER...IT'LL COME TO YOU LIKE A FLASH LATER ON. WELL, SO LONG BOYS.
THOSE TWO MEN STANDING ON THE SIDEWALK ARGUING FOR THE LAST FIFTEEN MINUTES. YOU OUGHT TO GO DOWN THERE AND—
NO..THEY'RE ARGUING ABOUT A VERY PERSONAL MATTER. I DON'T BELIEVE IN INTERFERING IN AFFAIRS OF THAT SORT....THREE IS ALWAYS A CROWD IN THOSE THINGS. ALWAYS
